Women Always Pioneers. Last Man, But One. Dempsey to Fight Lions. A New Planet?

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

OKLAHOMA UNVEILS A FINE statue to the pioneer woman. Women have always been earth's real pioneers, in ideas and in action.

Far back in the Stone Age they had produced all the grains we know by developing the seeds of wild plants.

They tamed female buffalos to provide milk for their children, planted gardens, changed human beings from a nomadic to a settled life.

They are the pioneers of the frontiers and pioneers in ideas and in religion.

The influence of mothers on their sons in the last million years has changed men from prognathous cannibals to semi-civilized money-grubbers. It is a great improvement.

THE "LAST MAN'S CLUB" of Atwater, Minnesota, has buried its last but one member, Eighty-seven years old, Charles Lockwood, accompanied to the grave the body of his friend Peter Hall, who died at ninety-one.

Now Lockwood is the last. When he goes, the club will end.

SOME DAY THE LAST member of the human race club will die with no one left to bury him. Or perhaps some friendly cataclysm will wipe out the earth and the last few thousands left on it.

That is a long way off, millions of millions of years away according to scientists.

What will men achieve, meanwhile?

JACK DEMPSEY, ONCE heavyweight champion, will go to Africa to kill lions, elephants, giraffes, hippopotamuses and rhinoceroses. From one of his "safaris," (that's what the British call a hunting expedition,) Mr. Dempsey thinks he may pick out a colored heavyweight.

Plenty of Zulus that could fill Madison Square Garden.

The difficulty would be to make them endure prosperity and bootleg products after they got there.

IF MR. DEMPSEY should meet one of the big red-haired, eight-foot-tall gorillas of the Gaboon country, he'd be surprised.

That kind of heavyweight could stroll along dragging Dempsey with one hand, Carnera with the other.

PROHIBITIONISTS WILL read with sorrow a statement by Mrs. Archibald Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of the late Theodore Roosevelt:

"I never saw a legislator refuse a drink. No matter how they vote. They all drink. I know. I have seen plenty of drys who drink constantly.

"Drinking has increased in all classes of society, since the Volstead law and it is a different kind of drinking too.

"When I was young I never saw young people take a drink. Now they all do."

The change of opinion, among women, as to prohibition, is amazing.

PROF. SHAPLEY, DIRECTOR of the Harvard Observatory, hears from Canada that another planet, sailing around our sun, hitherto unknown to us, has been discovered.

How many are there in our celestial family? How far out to space does the family reach?

Our ignorance proves the extreme youth of our "thinking race." Only a very young and ignorant baby is unable to tell how many brothers and sisters it has.

INTERESTING NEWS from Russia. Stalin, boss of Bolshevism, celebrates the new commercial treaty with Britain by ordering nine British automobiles, costing from thirteen to fifteen thousand dollars each.

In America, only Paul Block, distinguished publisher, feels that he can afford nine Rolls Royces. And with him it is business. He uses them to take important advertisers wherever they are going.

WHEN STALIN AND OTHER RUSSIANS feel that a $15,000 car is necessary that's a sign bigger than a man's hand. It means that somebody is beginning to enjoy wealth, and means nothing good for Communism.

Long ago this column said to Wall Street boy bankers, unable to collect money lent to Russia:

"Help them to become rich, their ideas will change, and they will be more like you."

Canadian Liquor Head Joins Coach Holding Prohibition Bar to True Temperance

By WM. S. NEAL,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—A noted football coach, Bill Roper, of Princeton, and the chairman of Ontario's Liquor Control Board, Sir Henry Drayton, of Toronto, denounced prohibition as a bar to true temperance before the House Judiciary Committee today.

The statements of Roper, a citizen living here under prohibition, and Drayton, directing Canada's government sale of liquor, were strikingly similar when presented as part of the anti-dry rebuttal testimony in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Prohibition has created a reign of "vicious drinking" among American college and high school boys and girls, Roper said.

TEMPERANCE HURT

The people of Ontario abandoned prohibition because they found that it put the liquor business in the hands of bootleggers, discouraged temperance and produced lawlessness and disrespect for law, Drayton testified.

Drinking has become "the smart thing" in colleges and even in high schools, Roper said, and a

TAXI HEARING MARKED BY CLASHES

Armstrong and Marshall, on Stand, Resent Questions; Fail to Drop Complaint

Public Service Commissioner Sam Walker refused today to dismiss a complaint that the Parmelee Transportation Company is not providing the city with adequate taxi service.

His ruling was given at a hearing attended by Mayor Charles H. Kline and other city and county officials.

County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong enlivened the hearing with his replies to questions by Attorney F. M. Neeper, representing the complainant in the case, William M. Henry, of 5891 Penn avenue.

ARMSTRONG QUIZZED

When Armstrong took the stand Attorney Neeper asked how long he had lived in Pittsburgh. Armstrong replied that he had resided here for 64 years and was pretty familiar with the peace and tranquility of the city.

Neeper asked Armstrong if he were chairman of the Republican county committee, Armstrong replied:

"What has that to do with the taxi strike?"

There was no political significance to the question, Neeper assured him. He then asked if the

Where Are Cruel Selfishness And Cold-Blooded Indifference Leading People of This Nation?

The prison system of the United States is an unendurable disgrace to a civilized country.

Ours is the only civilized, or semi-civilized, country where such conditions exist.

Our jails are "Black Holes of Calcutta," reproduced repeatedly all over the country in state and Federal prisons.

There are three and four times as many convicts in these prisons as the prisons are built to hold.

The prisoners sleep six and eight in a cell; and the crowning infamy of our system is that young, inexperienced prisoners are crowded in with hardened criminals, to learn all that such contact will teach them and to be graduated in crime.

The poor, blind prohibitionists, in their folly and fanaticism, have sent thousands of comparatively innocent people to jail for some trifling offense against the unreasonable provisions of outrageous prohibition legislation.

And there these prisoners, unconfirmed in crime, are crowded into cells and made to associate with criminals until they, too, in their vicious association, and in their resentment against cruel laws and unjust government, become criminal menaces to society or communistic disturbers against a hated social system.

And not only are our jails so overcrowded, and helpless convicts so packed into cells, but more and more citizens are constantly being sent to jail, and the nation and the various states are hurrying the completion of MORE prisons and LARGER prisons to hold the continually increasing number of prisoners, of all ages and conditions and of varying degrees of guilt or innocence, who are being herded into prison.

In the meantime, other nations with better social systems are decreasing their jail population and abandoning prisons which are no longer used or needed.

Why are convicts decreasing in other countries while in our country the number of convicts is increasing at the rate of from ten to twenty per cent every year?

IN THE FIRST PLACE, all sorts of people are thrown into jail for all sorts of offenses, great and small; sometimes for trivial offenses, sometimes for offenses which should properly be negligible.

A few weeks ago a woman was sent to the state's prison in New York for life for stealing a coat.

Yesterday in St. Louis two men were sent to prison for five years for making themselves an alcoholic beverage.

Today every law-maker is a Draco and every judge a Rhadamanthus.

And every day more laws are being passed, making more mere misdemeanors criminal offenses, and imposing jail penalties for every trifling infraction of every oppressive statute.

In THE SECOND PLACE, everything is being done to PUNISH crimes and misdemeanors and even innocent errors, and nothing is being done to PREVENT such errors and evils.

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," says the old adage. And surely an ounce of prevention is worth a thousand pounds of penalties which do NOT cure.

Yet no program of prevention is proposed; but, instead, more offenses are created and more penalties are added every day until our jails are overflowing, and miserable convicts revolt against intolerable conditions or are burned to death by hundreds as a hecatomb to the injustice of our legal system, the incapacity of our law-makers, and the callous indifference of our people.

All the atrocities of the Spanish Inquisition combined into one hideous auto da fe would not equal the shameful horror of the burning at the stake by incapacity and brutality of three hundred and eighteen helpless fellow men who after all had offended against our social organization LESS than it had offended against THEM.

While these unfortunates were writhing and roasting in their iron cells, keepers and trusties stood by jingling their keys, and refusing to release them, fearing the judgment of men and forgetting the judgment of God.

There is something other to be done in the present deplorable criminal and penal situations than merely to make MORE JAILS.

We have got to make LESS CONVICTS.

We have got to create a social system which will make MORE GOOD CITIZENS AND FEWER CRIMINALS.

And then we have got to end the mistaken legislation which sends people who are not accustomed law-breakers to colleges of crime where by evil association and wicked influence, and by reason of rank and rankling injustice, they become hardened and defiant criminals.

Furthermore, we have got to send fewer shallow demagogues to Congress to pass wholesale penal legislation simply because they have not the conscience nor the competence to devise effective REMEDIAL legislation.

Finally, we have got to free honest and conscientious legislators from the dire influence of organized bigotry, stupidity and hypocrisy, continually crying for more victims to be sacrificed on the altars of narrow prejudice and visionary, if not vicious, purpose.

How can this nation hope to hold its place as the leader of world progress in the face of the futility of our social legislation and the crass dullness and selfishness of our social organization?

It is time for the brains of the nation and the heart of the nation and the humanity and true Christianity of the nation to take control of matters social and political.

Otherwise our fat and fatuous ruling classes, who apparently do not care what happens as long as it does not happen to them, will go the way of the Russian autocracy and wake up one fine morning to find that something CAN happen to THEM.

MUTINEER DEMAND BACKED

Attorney General Will Urge Suspension of Thomas To Check Riot Danger

COLUMBUS, O., April 24. — (AP.) — Attorney General Gilbert Gettman left Ohio penitentiary hastily this afternoon to confer with Gov. Myers Y. Cooper on a proposal temporarily to suspend Preston E. Thomas as warden.

The action was taken when several thousand prisoners announced they would revolt against Thomas' rule, charging the warden with "cruelty," and holding him responsible in part for the 318 fatalities in Monday's prison fire disaster.

Smoldering convict hatred burst into raging flame in the "idle house" when 2,000 prisoners there beat upon the bars of their cages, screaming their wrath over the deaths of their cellmates an shouting their defiance of penal discipline.

They demanded the locks be opened to release them from confinement in the "idle house," and even threatened to kill their 20 guards if their ultimatum were not heded.

SOLDIERS RETURN

All semblance of order vanished in the uproar, which continued several hours. So serious did the outbreak appear that Warden Thomas rushed a request for return of those Ohio National Guardsmen who had left the prison dur-

PRISONS HERE OVERCROWDED

Many of Pennsylvania's prisons and insane asylums are "fire traps," a canvass of the opinions of officials and welfare workers disclosed today; but the hazard in Allegheny County's institutions was said to be well controlled.

Some of the reformatories and mental hospitals in Western Pennsylvania were declared to be so overcrowded as to constitute a menace in itself.

The investigation, prompted by the Columbus disaster, brought the following joint statement and warning from George R. Bedinger, executive director of the Public Charities Association of Pennsylvania, and Leon Stern, secretary of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs:

JAILS INADEQUATE

"Nearly all of Pennsylvania's 69 county prisons are inadequate and dangerous in the event of fire. The ground plan and

Cold Stops Pirate Game

Snow and continuance of the cold wave prompted canceling the game scheduled for this afternoon at Forbes Field between the Cincinnati Reds and Pirates. Announcement was made at 12:10 o'clock.

The baseball field today still was decorated with snow that halted the inaugural yesterday in the third inning. Moreover, the wintry breezes made the owners and manager fear for the health of the athletes as well as the comfort of the fans.

Maj. White to Quit Radio Work May 1

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—Maj. J. Andrew White, one of the pioneers of radio and a founder of the Columbia Broadcasting System, today announced his withdrawal from active participation in the broadcasting field, effective May 1.

He has resigned from all executive duties, but will retain his stock holdings in the Columbia System. Maj. White has been one of the chief executives of the network since 1927, being its first president and later managing director.

Couzens Sees Hope Of Rail Merger Ban

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Hope for action by Congress at this session on a modified form of his resolution proposing temporary suspension of railroad consolidations was expressed today by Chairman James Couzens (Rep.), Michigan, as the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee completed public hearings on the measure.

Mix Seriously Ill, Doctors Wire Wife

LOS ANGELES, April 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Victoria Mix last night received a telegram signed by two Chicago physicians, which indicated her husband, Tom Mix, millionaire cowboy actor, was dangerously ill in the Illinois city. It was the first intimation she had had that Mix was ill.

GARDNER HEARS DANCER'S CASE

Samuel H. Gardner was sworn in today as Common Pleas judge and went right to work on a divorce case. His successor as district attorney, Andrew T. Park, made no appearance in court.

The suit of Mrs. Bertha S. Watzek, comely dancer, known on the stage as Betty Watson, was the first case heard by Judge Gardner.

Mrs. Watzek, at the Stanley Theater last week in "Tin Types," is asking divorce from Edward W. Watzek, charging cruelty.

She testified that they eloped from Pittsburgh, January 26, 1925, and were married in Wellsburg, W. Va. Afterward, in Columbus, he abused her, she testified, and she had to work in a restaurant. Once he threatened to kill her, she said.

She left him at Christmas, 1928, and went to live with her mother, at 4515 Friendship avenue, she testified. Last summer she went on the stage to support herself and her daughter, Betty, 3½. Betty was in the courtroom today.

House Passes Bill For Veteran Survey

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—The Johnson resolution for a survey of all existing veterans' legislation by a joint congressional committee was adopted today by the House and sent to the Senate.

BremenRams Tanker In Fog

DOVER, Eng., April 24.—(AP.)—The giant German liner Bremen, sister ship of the record-breaking Europa, was in a slight collision with the tanker British Grenadier, just off Dungenness in the English Channel this morning.

The Bremen, which was outward bound, was reported to have proceeded on her way to Southampton after a search for the tanker in a dense fog in which the crash occurred and was apparently little damaged.

The tanker proceeded to Deal and anchored about two miles out during the afternoon.

The vessel was severely damaged on her port side, where there was a big gaping hole extending from the top of her bridge to below the waterline.

A doctor was summoned to treat one of the tanker's crew hurt in the collision.

Immigration Quota Cut Voted in Senate

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—The Senate today voted to cut down immigration from Europe to this country from 150,000 annually to 80,000. The vote was 41 to 31. The new quota is on the basis of 1 per cent of the foreign population in the United States in 1890.

Senator Harris (Dem.), of Georgia, who sponsored the measure, said it was designed to reduce the number of immigrants entering the country "to take jobs from Americans." The bill now goes to the House.

U. S. to File Suits For Radio Patents

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Department of Justice announced today it was filing suits in the United States district courts in New York city and District of Columbia to compel conveyance to United States of patents covering an apparatus for operating radio receiving sets on house current.

Patents had been obtained by Percival D. Lowell and Francis W. Dunmore while employed in the Bureau of Standards.

ing the morning. All the troops came back at once.

Gov. Cooper, earlier today, had said he was satisfied with Warden Thomas' method of handling the situation during and after the fire Monday and indicated that no change in the prison's administrative personnel was planned.

GIVING IN, SAYS WARDEN

When informed of the intentions of the attorney general to recommend his suspension, Warden Thomas said:

"This appears to be giving away on the part of the government to the 'red shirt element.' They apparently are taking this step to reconcile the lawless element."

The warden added that, should the governor temporarily suspend him, he would not vacate his living quarters at the penitentiary.

Gov. Cooper waited for the attorney general for some time, but was forced by other business to leave the statehouse. He said no action would be taken on the suspension proposal until he looked into it fully.

MINISTERS APPEAL

Two clergymen, well known to the prisoners, went into the prison yard when bedlam reigned during the afternoon in the "idle house." They were Father Goswin Menge, of Cincinnati, a Catholic priest, and the Rev. T. A. Reed, of Columbus, former prison chaplain.

Some of the prisoners quieted as they entered, and immediately the ministers started to talk to them, stressing the horrors of a prison riot and appealing to them to go to their cells and quiet down.

PRISONERS STRIKE

Deputy Warden J. C. Woodward described the situation inside the prison as "very dangerous." It was Woodward, popular with the men, who finally restored some semblance of order when he followed the clergymen into the yard and made a personal appeal.

"We can't tell what or when anything will break out, but we are taking all precautions," Woodward said on his return.

Blanket orders have been issued that no one shall go inside the prison courtyard, Woodward added.

The prisoners declared a general strike this morning when attempts were made to herd them into the shops for work. They openly defied the guards, and refused to obey commands.

During early stages of the disturbance 100 men from the chapel came out into the prison yard and milled about, shouting and screaming. They attacked George Richmond, a convict editor of the penitentiary paper. He was rescued by guards before he was injured seriously.

As the afternoon wore on the uproar subsided. Only regular prison guards were being used inside the walls, but on the outside more than 2,000 fully armed Ohio national guardsmen, regular Army soldiers from Fort Hayes and naval reservists were prepared for any emergency.

CONVICTS BALK INQUIRY

Meanwhile, investigators continued their probe into the disaster.

Convicts brazenly refused to testify in the fire investigation, and held penitentiary officials in a state of anxiety and tenseness.

Several attempts were made to bring prisoners before the board of inquiry, but all were of no avail.

Assistant Attorney General Earl C. Shively, who is assisting in conducting the investigation, characterized the attitude of the prisoners as "bordering on mutiny."

"They're simply mad," Shively said. "They refuse to come out and testify."

In the "White City," where the idle house and Company K are, the general spirit of unrest caused state officials to move immediately to remedy the situation by reducing the population.

It was said by State Welfare Director Hal Griswold that as soon as possible 100 convicts would be sent to the London prison farm, and from 150 to 200 to the Mansfield reformatory.

TWO GUARDS SUSPENDED

While the investigation was in progress today Guard Captain Harry T. Laukhart recommended that Guard Roy C. Minshall, Columbus, be suspended for failing to properly patrol his beat last night.

Laukhart reported, also, that he suspended Guard Edward C. Kerr, of Bidwell, for intoxication last night.

C. D. Potter, a former Dayton policeman, was ordered to report for guard duty at the penitentiary today to replace Kerr.

ACT TO AVERT FIRE PERIL

As additional bodies were released to sorrowing relatives of prisoners who died in the fire, state officials joined in determination to leave nothing undone to prevent a recurrence of the catastrophe.

Without waiting to find the cause of the fire—and thus fix blame, if any—state officials, led by Gov. Cooper, started consideration of plans to relieve crowded conditions at the old prison.

The program calls for speedy completion of two new cell blocks at the penitentiary as well as rebuilding of the fire-swept G and H houses in which last Monday's fire had its origin.

FIRE CAUSE MYSTERY

While the state's investigation has brought forth various individual opinions, it has failed thus far to reveal how the fire started. Most of the witnesses before the board of inquiry devoted their testimony to suggestions as to how more of the prisoners might have been rescued from their locked cells. These included a statement by A. E. Nice, chief of the Columbus Fire Department, that none would have perished had the prisoners been released as soon as the fire was discovered. He charged that rescue efforts were delayed by guards inside the walls, declaring this was shown by the fact that the alarm was turned in from outside the prison.

Edward M. Sass, Lucas County, one of the prisoners who aided in rescue work, was the first witness called before the investigating board today. He told the board it was about 20 minutes from the time he first learned of the fire until he was released from his cell by convicts.

Following testimony by Warden Thomas that no fire protection was provided at the cell blocks, State Welfare Director Griswold announced that extinguishers had been ordered placed in the cell houses. As an extra precaution, he said, guards would be placed in the top tiers.

CONVICTS MAKE 4 DEMANDS

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—(INS.)—Four demands were sent out by the restless imprisoned convicts in fire-swept Ohio State Penitentiary today.

The demands were:

First—That every guard be taken out of the court yard of the prison.

Second—That the life of John Richardson, who is sentenced to die in the electric chair Friday for murder, be spared.

Third—That the board of clemency be removed.

Fourth—"We want tobacco."

The demands were presented by the convicts through Prison Chaplain T. O. Reed.

Sacks of tobacco were immediately taken to the prisoners.

Richardson had been reprieved for 30 days by Gov. Cooper an hour or so before the convicts' demands were received.

4 Perish in Fire Destroying Mansion

BOONVILLE, N. Y., April 24.—(AP.)—Four persons were burned to death and a fifth was missing in a fire which destroyed the mansion of Bert Cronk, coal dealer, here today.

Mr. and Mrs. Cronk and Mrs. Paul Anni and her young daughter died in the flames. Anni was missing. Clifford, young son of the Cronks, leaped from a window to safety.

Beauty Contest Winner Gets Divorce

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Pauline Bradford Keeler, winner of the international beauty contest at Galveston, in 1923, was granted a divorce in Superior Court here from Irwin Keeler, hotel broker and publisher, on the grounds of mental cruelty. Mrs. Keeler charged her husband nagged, quarreled and was indifferent to her.

Reconciliation Fails, But Hill Must Pay

BUTTE, Mont., April 24.—(AP.)—Walter J. Hill, youngest son of the late James J. Hill, railway builder, must pay $5,000 for a reconciliation with his wife, a former Follies girl, which didn't last.

A jury here has held Hill owed Thomas J. Walker, Butte attorney, the $5,000 for legal services rendered in effecting the reconciliation two years ago, when Hill was sued for separate maintenance. After patching up their differences, the Hills disagreed again. Mrs. Hill now has a suit for divorce pending.

Shots During Fire In Prison Only An Alarm

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—(INS.)—Mystery surrounding the reported firing of shots during the conflagration at Ohio State Penitentiary Monday evening was cleared up today when Sergeant of Guards Lewis Hostetter told Warden P. E. Thomas that the shots had been fired to warn outside guards of the blaze.

Guard Guy R. Porter, who was locked inside the blazing cell range, fired two shots, Hostetter reported to the warden. "Red" Miller, a trusty, who was outside of the cell block, heard the shots and turned in the alarm, the sergeant said.

RELATIVES TAKE CONVICT DEAD

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—(INS.)—The ranks of the dead, lying in the "tomb of coffins" at the huge improvised morgue here, were thinning today as the bodies of 318 prisoners, who died in the disastrous Ohio penitentiary fire of Monday night, were turned over to sorrowing relatives and friends.

The long line of bereaved formed early today outside the doors of "the tomb." Suspense was written on their faces—suspense tinted with the hope that the bodies and faces of their beloved ones will be whole and familiar to them instead of seared and maimed beyond recognition.

Funeral arrangements were completed yesterday for 37 of the penitentiary victims, whose bodies were released.

There still were more than 100 to be identified today as state and prison officials continued to check the dead.

WARDEN HATED, SAYS PRISONER

COLUMBUS, O., April 24.—(AP.)—The only way to prevent trouble in Ohio State Penitentiary is to remove Warden Thomas, the fire investigating board was told by Albert Farr, a prisoner, today.

Farr declared conditions within the prison have been almost intolerable for several years. He said that while there is a mutual dislike for Thomas, all the prisoners hold Deputy Warden J. C. Woodin high esteem.

The prisoner listed instances of brutality, responsibility for which he placed on the prison head.

"I once saw a Negro convict murdered by a guard in the prison yard. The officer claimed he shot in self-defense, but the prisoner was running toward the deputies' office when he was shot. Nothing ever was done with the guard.

"For the slightest infractions of prison rules the men are thown into ice baths, held in solitary confinement and subjected to other forms of brutal punishment."

DAVIS FIGHTING PHILADELPHIA DESERTIONS

Judge Drew Also Included In Report of 'Cutting;' Pinchot Finds Evidence

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—(AP.)—On the heels of an announcement by Bernard J. Meyers, chairman of the Davis-Brown State Campaign Committee, that no "trading" will be tolerated for any place on the ticket, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, candidate for United States Senator, comes here today to meet the Philadelphia organization ward leaders.

Mr. Myers, who issued his statement in Harrisburg, aimed to refute reports that some leaders here at the May 20 primary would quietly support Senator Joseph R. Grundy to succeed himself—and discard Secretary Davis.

The reports also involved alleged "cutting" of Philip H. Dewey, candidate for secretary of internal affairs on the Vare slate, in favor of present Secretary James F. Woodward, of McKeesport, and of Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, Superior Court candidate, in favor of Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, an appointee of Gov. Fisher.

PINCHOT SEES 'CUTTING'

Gifford Pinchot, candidate for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, gave out a "slate of candidates" last night which he said was handed to him on the courthouse steps at Media by a uniformed attendant during his speaking tour of Delaware County.

The list, purporting to be the Republican choice of Delaware County, includes Joseph R. Grundy for the United States Senate, and Francis Shunk Brown for governor.

The campaign here for Thomas W. Phillips, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor with support of the anti-dry forces, took on a spurt today when Charles N. Denby, Jr., son-in-law of Senator David A. Reed, of Pittsburgh, assumed the post of city manager. Mr. Denby, also a nephew of former Secretary of the Navy Edwin Denby, has served as an assistant United States attorney in this district.

The Pinchot tour of the state, announced here today, will include Somerset, Uniontown, Connellsville, Greensburg, May 1; Pittsburgh, May 2 and 3; New Castle and Ambridge, May 3; Kittanning, May 5; Blairsville, Indiana, Punxsutawney, Big Run, Brookville, May 6; Clarion, Franklin, Oil City, May 7; Mercer, Greenville, Meadville, Erie, May 8; Corry, Warren, Kane, Ridgway, Dubois and Altoona, May 9.

TAXI DRIVER HELD IN ARSON

John Stiller, 28, of 2704 Larkins way, a striking cab driver, was held for court at a hearing in Central Police Station today by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg on charges of arson, robbery and aggravated assault and battery. He was arrested in connection with a beating administered a cab driver last Saturday night at Second avenue and Ross street. The cab was stolen and burned.

At a hearing in the East End Police Station today, four men accused of stoning a cab at Ellsworth and Amberson avenues last Tuesday were discharged. They denied all knowledge of the attack and said they were downtown at the time. Magistrate Charles Papale ordered them released, although the driver of the cab, Mike Brazo, of 5962 Alder street, claimed that they were the men who stoned his machine. The four discharged were Edward Gross, 28, of 5847 Ellsworth avenue; R. G. Filippo, 28, of 336 Atwood street; M. Matheson, 2°, of 608 Hollace street, and Joseph Reeb, 23, of 1018 Gibbon street.

College Youths Help Fight $150,000 Fire

SWARTHMORE, Pa., April 24.—(AP.)—Fire early today virtually destroyed the Swarthmore Paper Product Mills, causing damage estimated at $150,000. A number of Swarthmore College students aided volunteer firemen battle the flames. Firemen from nine surrounding communities answered an alarm. The blaze started in a store room filled with tissue paper. Within an hour only the stone walls were left.

CLASHES MARK HEARING OF CAB COMPLAINT

Commissioner had occasion to ride in cabs. Armstrong answered:

"I never stay out that late at night. Besides, I ride around in an auto provided by the county."

The commissioner admitted that he had read in the newspapers that there was some disorder in connection with the taxi strike.

CLASH WITH MARSHALL

Attorney Neeper then got into an argument with Assistant Superintendent of Police Ben R. Marshall, who took the stand. Neeper said to Marshall:

"In addition to being a public official, you conduct yourself as a prudent and sober citizen?"

All laughed as Marshall replied: "I try to."

Neeper clashed with Marshall, and Public Service Commissioner Walker intervened to remind Neeper that Marshall was his own witness, that he had been subpoenaed by Neeper, and that he must quit arguing with him.

COMPLAINANT HEARD

On the witness stand the complainant, Henry, who brought the charge of inadequate service as a taxpayer, admitted under cross-examination that he owned no property, and said he had been persuaded to bring the complaint by Neeper.

Henry also testified that he was employed as a checker for a baking company, and rarely rode in cabs.

The motion to dismiss the complaint was made by Attorney C. K. Robinson, representing the Parmelee Company, on the grounds that the commission did not have jurisdiction in the case and that the taxi service had been hampered solely through the strike.

Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, President of Council John S. Herron, Sheriff Robert S. Cain and County Commissioner C. C. McGovern testified. Mayor Kline was to testify late in the day.

PHILLIPS HERE, DEFENDS NOTES

Candidates on the state anti-dry ticket arrived here today to meet local supporters and confer with campaign managers, Frank E. Shaughnessy and William Frew.

Thomas W. Phillips, running for governor, reiterated a statement justifying a letter criticizing prohibition he addressed a year ago to Justice Stone and the late Justice Sanford, of the United States Supreme Court.

"If writing a personal letter about a subject of general interest, in which I had no interest beyond that of any other citizen, is treason, we will have to make the most of it," Phillips declared.

Francis H. Bohlen, candidate for United States Senator, said:

"My principal reason for getting into this fight was because I believe prohibition is undermining morals of boys and girls. The Anti-Saloon League says drinking among youths is confined to the country club set and the new rich as a result of too much leisure, but we all know the same conditions prevail in every walk of life.

"I don't know what is put in bootleg liquor, but it certainly is destroying all restraint and discretion."

2 Dry Agents Shot In River Rum Raid

NEW ORLEANS, April 24.—(INS.)—E. J. Shamhart, supervising customs agent, and Louis Newman, a prohibition agent, were shot, though not seriously, today when they swooped down on a liquor cache on the Mississippi River near Pointe-a-la-Hache.

The dry agents watched a liquor caravan come up to carry off the cache, but guards began firing when they discovered them.

Wife of Naturalist To Head Pen Women

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, wife of the naturalist, was nominated today as the only candidate for the presidency of the National League of American Pen Women.

Kathleen Norris, novelist, withdrew her name yesterday in Mrs. Seton's favor. Mrs. Norris withdrew after an anonymous attack on her views on peace.

Divorce

MRS. COUDERT

Mrs. Frederic R. Coudert, Jr., the former Miss Mary Kenna Callery of Pittsburgh, who has sailed to Paris. New York reports said she went to obtain a divorce from Mr. Coudert. Friends said incompatibility will be the grounds for the action.

REPORT FLAYS DRY EVILS

general feeling of disrespect for law also has swept over institutions of learning. He added:

"I hesitate to send my boy to college because I know he is going to face temptations that I did not face. The same is true of girls. The increase of drinking among girls is even more alarming than drinking among boys."

BAD EXAMPLE SET

"I think that the young people have got to have some ideal to look u pto. If it isn't a good one they look up to a bad one. They see older people indiscriminately drinking and they follow their example.

"Liquor is indiscriminately used. Go ask some football field caretaker how many bottles he finds after a game."

Drayton told the committee that government sale of liquor has proved a complete success in Canada. He appeared on invitation to discuss the testimony of ex-Premier Drury, who was a witness for the drys.

CANADA'S EXPERIENCE

Ontario, he asserted, is the driest of the Canadian provinces. The liquor question has been before the people there for many years. The province has government sale of liquor with local option under which it is banned in a large number of local districts.

The province, he said, developed from a restrictive license system, to prohibition in 1916. Prohibition worked well in the war period and was retained by a vote after the war.

As a result of increased bootlegging, deaths from drinking bad liquor, growing disrespect of the law and greater use of flasks, the province abandoned prohibition, he said, and added:

MORAL TONE LOWERED

"The people did not change their views on prohibition. They changed because of the things I have stated, because the moral tone of the Province was being lowered.

"It became a matter of pains and penalties, not morals. Legislative force did not work with us. The people voted for the liquor control act after it was in force for three years because they knew that it drove the big bootleggers out of business, that it reduced deaths from drinking bad liquor, that it produced true temperance."

Will Be Hostess to Westminster Guild

The Westminster Guild of the Bellevue Presbyterian Church will meet at 8 p. m. tomorrow at the home of Miss Henriette McAfee, 3845 Hiawatha street, North Side. Surgical dressings will be prepared for the Presbyterian Hospital.

INDIA REVOLT ALARMING; 32 SLAIN

Troops Use Machine Guns To Rout Gandhi Followers As Tribesmen Join Riot

International News Service.

LONDON, April 24.—With the independence movement in India apparently gaining in scope and violence hourly, more serious concern than ever before was felt in government circles here today as complete details filtered in of the latest outbreaks in which 32 were killed and scores were wounded.

At Peshawar, on the northwest frontier, British troops were forced to fire upon a savage band of insurgents with rifles and machine guns before order could be restored.

CITY UNDER GUARD

In this bloody clash, which took a toll of at least 7 dead and an undetermined number of wounded, Peshawar today was under heavy guard.

The Peshawar outbreak came without warning soon after the arrest of two Indian Congress leaders on charges of opposing British authorities. A mob of enraged insurgents descended upon a British armored car.

One of the ringleaders tossed a match on the car. The two British soldiers at the controls were cremated in their armored prison.

This ruthless act was the signal for a general outbreak of violence. Thousands of the insurgents jammed the streets, and a police sergeant was brutally hacked to death with a hatchet.

USE MACHINE GUNS

A detachment of British Gurkha troops was hastily mobilized and dispatched to the scene. The mob became so menacing that the soldiers were forced to resort to machine-gun fire, and the streets were littered with dead.

All was reported quiet today at Chittagong, where 12 more deaths were added to the seven which occurred when raiders attacked the armories there last week. British police rounded up a band in the Hathazari jungle near Chittagong, killing 12 of them.

CHASE, OF N. Y., BIGGEST BANK

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—Formation of the largest bank in the world in point of resources, which will total approximately $2,800,000,000 was assured today when the stockholders of the Interstate Trust Company, Equitable Trust Company, and the Chase National Bank approved plans to merge their respective institutions into a new bank to be known as the Chase National Bank.

The meetings of the three bodies of stockholders were largely routine and there was no voiced opposition by any minority group or faction. The plans, as prepared by the boards of directors were read, put to a vote and approved.

All business pertaining to the merger as far as the stockholders were concerned was conducted in less than three hours.

PENNSY SPURS NEW STATION

An early start on the new $20,000,000 passenger terminal for the Pennsylvania Railroad on Penn avenue between Twelfth and Fourteenth streets was predicted today by Edward J. Whiter, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, speaking before the Builders' Exchange at the Hotel Henry.

He said negotiations had been resumed with the special committee of City Council regarding the traffic circle at Eleventh street, with good prospects for an agreement.

He predicted Grant street, with its new skyscrapers and public buildings, would become the business hub of Pittsburgh.

Archduke Submits To Theft Arrest

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—Archduke Leopold, of Austria, indicted for first degree grand larceny in connection with the sale of the $400,000 Napoleon necklace of his aunt, Archduchess Maria Theresa, surrendered today to the district attorney a short time after a bench warrant had been issued for his arrest.

Gas Fumes Overcome Boy; Worker Saves Life

John Nyadry, 16, awoke today in his home in Garfield Extension, Springdale, went downstairs to the living room and toppled over, unconscious, presumably overcome by leaking fumes.

His parents carried him to the front lawn. Bernard Murray, employe of the Colfax power plant of the Duquesne Light Company, stopped on his way to work and revived him.

Later Nyadry was taken to Citizens General Hospital in New Kensington. He is expected to recover.

Murray will be recommended for the McCarter medal given employes of the Philadelphia Company.

Colorado Springs Richest City In U. S.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., April 24.—(INS.)—Colorado Springs today was revealed as the wealthiest municipal corporation in the United States.

Figures of the city place the property valuation at $16,781,836.52.

On the basis of an estimated population of 35,000, each resident of Colorado Springs has a $450 interest in the city government.

Dunedin Roars Farewell As Byrd Starts Home

DUNEDIN, N. Z., April 24.—(AP.)—Showered with confetti and streamers and cheered by thousands, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd left Dunedin today for Wellington, where he will board the steamer Rangitiki for Panama. He is expected to arrive at Panama May 16, to join his Antarctic expedition ships for the final leg of the homeward journey to New York.

The enthusiastic farewell gave every indication of the great admiration and friendship he has won during his several weeks' visit here. Admiral Byrd was the first American to be appointed an unofficial ambassador of New Zealand in the United States, evidence, he said on departing, that he had fulfilled his own mission of promulgating closer relations between the two countries. The appointment was made at a state luncheon recently.

From Papeete, Tahiti, word was received today that the steamship Eleanor Bolling, one of the vessels on the Antarctic expedition, was en route to New York.

MEARS TO FLY AROUND WORLD FOR NEW SPEED RECORD

AIMS TO CUT ZEPPELIN'S TIME

Globe Girdler Who Set Mark Twice Hopes to Surpass Eckener's Feat

By JOHN HENRY MEARS.

(Holder of two speed records for circumnavigating the globe.)

NEW YORK, April 24.—I am going to re-capture the "round-the-world" record for America.

My present plan calls for a start from New York about June 1. I don't know exactly how long it will be before I am back. But there is one thing you can be certain of—I'll beat the Graf Zeppelin record or, or—well, never mind what. I'm leaving at once for Los Angeles to test a new Lockheed Vega plane that I'll use in my attempt.

Keeping this particular record in the possession of this country has been my greatest ambition for years. I recall, back in 1913, a Frenchman set a new round-the-world record, and I couldn't sleep nights until I had figured out a way to beat his time. That trip, made entirely with trains and steamboats, took 35 days and 21 hours.

OUTLINES ROUTE

In 1928 I had to do it all over again. Someone had beaten my time. That second trip, I used an airplane, except crossing two oceans. My elapsed time was 23 days and 15 hours.

Now the Graf has beaten that, and I've got to beat the Graf's time. And I will if the fastest cruising plane in the world, powered by one of the finest airplane motors in existence and piloted by one of the greatest pilots, can carry me around as fast as I think they can.

The itinerary I have laid out totals a little over 19,000 miles. Here is the route, subject, of course, to change as necessity may compel:

New York to New Foundland—flying time, 8 hours; New Foundland to Valencia Island, off the coast of Ireland, flying time, 13 hours; then to Southampton, 3 hours; Berlin, 5 hours; Moscow, 8 hours; Nova-Sibrisk (Siberia), 16 hours; Chita (Siberia), 15 hours; Khabarovsk (Siberia), 12 hours; Petropavlovsk (Kamchatka), 15 hours; across the Pacific Ocean, to Seward, Alaska, 15 hours; Seattle, 14 hours; New oYrk, 18 hours.

FIRST 2-OCEAN FLIGHT

This will be the first flight for anyone over two oceans. Then, too, we are going to try to be the first to make the Atlantic Ocean flight by daylight, leaving at dawn and reaching Ireland by night.

We are going to fly only by day unless something unforeseen holds us back on any leg of the trip, when we will carry on until we reach that day's objective.

I haven't definitely selected my pilot. I am negotiating with two men both of whom are world famous for their achievements in the air.

I will act as co-pilot and radio operator. I've been studying sending and receiving with radio sets for months and am a pretty fair amateur.

MUSSOLINI'S DAUGHTER IS BRIDE

Weds Italian Embassy Secretary of Vatican; Plan Honeymoon in Egypt

By GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
International News Service.

ROME, April 24.—In the presence of a small but distinguished gathering, Edda Mussolini, 19-year-old daughter of Italy's premier, today became the wife of Signor Galeazzo Ciano, handsome young secretary of the Italian embassy at the Vatican.

Guided by the simplicity which has marked Premier Benito Mussolini's regime, the wedding took place in the small parish church of St. Joseph, near the Villa Torlonia, home of Il Duce and his family.

GUEST LIST RESTRICTED

The wedding was restricted to a small number of guests, who included all members of the diplomatic corps now in Rome.

A double line of black-shirted musketeers was arrayed in front of the church. The guard snapped to attention and presented arms with the arrival of each guest.

In accordance with the bride's expressed wish, her guard of honor was formed by "piccole Italiane"—little Italian girls between 8 and 14 years of age, corresponding with the Boys' Balilla organization.

United States Ambassador John Work Garrett and Mrs. Garrett were among them.

EGYPT HONEYMOON

The bride was escorted by her distinguished father, who took his place in a front pew together with his wife and other members of his family.

On the other side of the main aisle sat the bridegroom's father, the Count de Ciano, minister of communications in Premier Mussolini's cabinet.

Edda and her husband, followed by Premier Mussolini, Donna Rachele, Count and Countess Ciano and the witnesses visited St. Peter's shortly after noon. The party knelt a few moments in prayer.

It was reported the bridal pair would receive the benediction of Pope Pius.

The newlyweds intend to leave shortly for a honeymoon in Egypt.

PRIZES FOR NEW-BORN

The Pope sent best wishes with his wedding gift, a solid gold rosary.

It was announced shortly before the wedding that Premier Mussolini had donated 25,000 lire (about $1,250) for a seaside mountain vacation colony for poor children.

It was announced also that there would be a prize of 500 lire for every child born today in needy families in Rome, Leghorn, Forli, Predappio, Meldola, Forlimpopoli and Faenza.

Messages conveying good wishes were received by Mussolini from King Victor Emmanuel, of Italy, and King Zog, of Albania.

ASSAILS POLICE IN BAKER CASE

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Representative Mary T. Norton (Dem.), of New Jersey, said today she deplored the situation where Capital police had seen fit "to ruin the reputations of the innocent" in their effort to find the slayer of Mary Baker.

Mrs. Norton also said the case had been "handled clumsily," in the course of a hearing of a House sub-committee on a bill which would provide for the establishment of a school in Washington to train policemen.

"In view of the present situation in the District of Columbia," she said, "three frightful murders have been committed within a short time, and none ahving been solved, it seems to me that a training school for policemen and policewomen is most essential."

Miss Baker, Navy Department employe, was slain on the night of April 11. Many of her acquaintances and friends have been questioned.

PARKER BEATEN IN SENATE POLL

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(INS.)—The contest to confirm Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, as an associate Supreme Court justice, became more hopeless today when an administration poll revealed 54 senators ready to oppose his confirmation.

This overwhelming majority, if all voted as recorded in the poll, would be five votes more than necessary to reject the appointment. The poll showed 18 Republican "Regulars," 12 Insurgents and 24 Democrats prepared to oppose Parker's confirmation.

Leaders planned to make one last effort to secure withdrawal of Parker's name, either by President Hoover or at the instance of the jurist himself.

The opposition to Parker charge him with unfriendliness to union labor and the Negro race. To date, he has made no public reply.

GARDNER, PARK SWORN IN

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner was sworn in as a judge of Common Pleas Court today and a few minutes later Andrew T. Park took the oath as district attorney.

Park, promoted from first assistant, immediately announced the reappointment of Gardner's staff of assistants, the choice of George F. P. Langfitt as first assistant, and Roy T. Clunk as second assistant. Park named Attorney Russell H. Adams, of Clairton, as an assistant.

Park also announced the reappointment of George W. Murren, chief county detective, and named Bernard F. Kunning, a deputy sheriff, of McKees Rocks, a county detective to fill a vacancy.

Mrs. Gardner was in the courtroom, crowded with friends to see the oath administered by President Judge John A. Evans.

Judge Harry H. Rowand gave Park the oath. Judge Gardner's first official duty was to swear in Park's assistants.

From the courtroom Park and Judge Rowand went to the bedside of Chief Murren, ill with a cold, and swore him in.

Weather Conditions.

Except for cloudy weather and snow flurries over Lake Erie, Northern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania, the skies are mostly clear from the central plains eastward, due to the vast high pressure area centered this morning over Southern Manitoba and covering the country from the Rocky Mountains eastward. It is also attended by cold weather throughout its area. Frost and freezing temperatures occurred everywhere east of the Mississippi and north of the Gulf states and over the Northern Plains states.

A low pressure area is developing over the plateau section west of the Rockies, and is producing cloudy weather with scattered showers as far east as the central plains. The precipitation for the last 24 hours was light and scattered.

There is no indication of a break in the cold weather over this section during the next 48 hours.

River Conditions.

The rivers are about stationary or falling slowly. Stage at Franklin is 4.6 feet; Lock No. 7, 11.2; Pittsburgh, 13.6; Dam No. 4, 10.1; Dam No. 8, 10.9; Dam No. 9, 11.8, and Dam No. 12, 10.0. The dams are down.

Parker's Double Dies In Minnesota

PINE RIVER, Minn., April 24.—(AP.)—A double of Lincoln, preferred railroading to work on the stage. Rowland W. Spear received sundry theatrical offers because of his resemblance to the railsplitter who became president and he refused them all. He is dead at the age of 72.

'Peaches' Proves She Likes Her Golf

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., April 24.—(AP.)—"Peaches" Browning is concentrating on her golf game. She was playing the old Westbury course when an airplane made a forced landing on the links. Did she run like others for a look? "Fore!" she yelled and continued her round.

Whiteman To Follow 'Gang' To Hollywood

Widow, 7 Children Of Star in One Play

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—The widow, three daughters and four sons of the late Jacob P. Adler, star of the Yiddish stage, are to appear in the same play, a revival of "The Wild Man."

MOTHER HELD IN POISONING

LONG BEACH, Cal., April 24.—(INS.)—Following the mysterious deaths of three members of her family, Mrs. Mary E. Hartman, 42, was under arrest here today and booked on charges of "investigation of murder."

Mrs. Hartman was taken into custody when a quantity of arsenic was found in the body of her daughter, Ruth, 14, a high school student.

Authorities also started an investigation into the death of O. B. Hartman, the woman's husband, and Henry, her son. The father died in 1927, two weeks after being struck a blow over the head, presumably by a burglar. He apparently was recovering, but suffered a relapse and died. The son became violently ill last June and died after exhibiting symptoms of ptomaine poisoning. Both bodies have been ordered exhumed.

Still, Moonshine Seized in Raid

FREDERICKTOWN, Pa., April 24.—Police arrested Ferdinetti Zanolli at his home near Fredericktown on charges of violating the dry laws. A still, moonshine, mash, wine and beer was seized.

RECORD COLD TO CONTINUE

Record-breaking low temperatures for this season were reported from all parts of Pennsylvania and nearby states today with indications that heavy damage has been done to blooming cherry, peach, plum and pear trees.

The temperature here dropped to 26, the lowest ever recorded for the latter part of April. In the mountain districts of Western Pennsylvania the mercury fell to 16.

The snowfall from yesterday's blizzard ranged from half an inch to nearly two inches.

Continued cold weather was forecast tonight with heavy frost and temperature between 25 and 30 degrees.

Quakes Rock Island As Volcano Smokes

SEATTLE, Wash., April 24.—(AP.)—Smoke pouring from the crater of Shishaldin Mountain on Unimak Island, near the western end of the Aleutian chain in Alaska, was followed yesterday by three light but distinct earth shocks, C. H. Pemberton, radio operator for the Pacific American fisheries, at Ikatan, informed Walter A. Hemrich, Seattle amateur radio operator.

New Planet to Be in View Of Earth for Century

TUCSON, Ariz., April 24.—(AP.)—A description of Planet "X," heralded as the ninth planetary member of the solar system, in which the recently-discovered astronomical body was said to be about the size of the earth, and to require 3,200 years to complete a circuit of its orbit, today was available to the public for the first time.

Dr. E. C. Slipher, Lowell Observatory astronomer, one of those directly connected with the recent discovery of the trans-Neptunian body, explained the secrets of the planet in layman's language, after describing it to delegates of the eleventh annual convention of the Southwestern Section of the American Association for Advancement of Science.

Here are the chief known facts concerning the astronomical body, as presented by Dr. Slipher:

Distance from the earth—41 astronomical units, or 1,335,000,000 miles.

Mass—Known to be smaller than at first believed, but not computed. Tentatively believed about the same as the earth.

Orbit—Elliptical, its plane inclined to that of the other major planets at about 31 degrees, 21 minutes.

Size of orbit—Long diameter roughly 433 astronomical units, or 433 times 33,000,000 miles.

Time required for complete circuit of orbit—3,200 years.

Length of time to remain in view of earth—Probably a century more.

Time it will then remain hidden—Roughly 3,000 years.

Photographic characteristics—Sharp definition under all circumstances.

CAPONE HEADS 'WHO'S WHO'

CHICAGO, April 24.—(INS.)—A gangland "Who's Who," headed by "Scarface" Alphonse Capone, was published here today at the bidding of the Chicago Crime Commission as an answer to the recent amalgamation of organized gangs under Capone's direction.

The list is accompanied by an ultimatum to law enforcement officials demanding that the hoodlums be harassed and driven from the city.

In addition to Capone, the "Who's Who" lists his brother, Ralph; Frank Rio, Capone bodyguard; Jack Gusick; "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn; George (Bugs) Moran, heir to the North Side gang throne and former arch-enemy of Capone, and Frank McErlane. Twenty-five other "public foes" are listed in the bulletin.

Apple Crown Awaits Governor's Daughter

WINCHESTER, Va., April 24.—(AP.)—A new dominion today awaited rulership of the Old Dominion's first lady, the mythical empire of apple orchards in the Shenandoah Valley.

Honoring the apple tree whose blossoms are in full bloom, Miss Suzanne Pollard, daughter of the Governor of Virginia, late today was to receive the crown as Queen Shenandoah as the supreme event of the seventh annual apple blossom festival.

LINER SPEEDS ENVOYS HOME

LONDON, April 24.—(INS.)—To make up for the 19 hours lost at Southampton in waiting for the American naval conference delegates to complete their negotiations, the United States liner Leviathan was being pushed at full speed on the high seas today.

Latest reports from the vessel, which is carrying the conference delegates back to New York, indicated she was maintaining a speed of close to 25 knots.

Fred Houck, acting United States consul at Cherbourg, boarded the liner and talked for a while with Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, but there was no official demonstration of any sort.

Composer Awarded Rome Fellowship

CLEVELAND, O., April 24.—(AP.)—Werner Janssen, composer, announced here that he was notified yesterday he had been awarded a three-year fellowship in the American Academy of Music in Rome, under the tutelage of the Italian composer, Ottorino Respighi.

Janssen was selected from a list of several hundred. The numbers he submitted were "New Year's Eve in New York" and "Obsequies of a Saxophone."

Youthful Athlete Hangs Himself

EASTON, Pa., April 24.—(AP.)—Injuries received last fall when he was kicked while playing football and again a few weeks ago when he was struck in the head by a baseball are believed to have caused Joseph J. Royer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Royer, of Wilson, to hang himself in his father's garage last night.

His body, hanging from a rafter with a clothesline about his neck, was found by his mother and sister, who had left him less than an hour before.

Second Wife Sues Steel for Divorce

CHICAGO, April 24.—(INS.)—John Steel, tenor, who figured in the divorce case of Walker P. Inman, Duke tobacco fortune heir, is being sued for divorce by his second wife, it was learned today.

The former Mabel Stapleton, of Chicago, charges he deserted her in 1927.

Prize Winner Broadcasts Tale of Lobby 'Beat'

WASHINGTON, April 24.—John A. Kennedy, winner of the $1,000 Pugsley journalism award for the Washington correspondent performing the most noteworthy piece of reporting for the year 1929, has told a radio audience over a nation-wide hookup of the Columbia chain, the story of the "beat" that won him this honor.

Kennedy, a staff member of the Washington bureau of Universal Service, described the expose last September of the presence of Charles L. Evanson, an executive of the Connecticut Manufacturers' Association, in the secret sessions of the Senate Finance Committee engaged in drafting a tariff bill. Evanson, it was revealed, was sitting with the committee as an assistant to Senator Hiram Bingham (Rep.), of Connecticut, and drawing compensation therefor from the government while at the same time representing the Connecticut manufa turers seeking higher tariff duties as their paid agent.

The disclosure led to the creation by the Senate of a special Lobby Investigating Committee, the censure by the Senate of a fellow member, Bingham, and the launching of a farflung investigation into Congressional lobbying in Washington that is still in progress more than six months after the committee began its work.

Indian Girl, Losing Leg, Made Happy by Debs

BOSTON, April 24.—(AP.)—An 18-year-old Indian girl dancer from the Cheyenne reservation at Gary, Okla., started back home with a smile, although she lost her leg in an accident here several months ago and was picked up penniless.

Anna Williams had performed only twice here with the 101 Ranch Wild West Show when she was run over by an elevated train. Her leg was amputated. She had no money, she had no friends, but her courage attracted attention.

The debutantes of the Vincent Club, the Massachusetts Indian Association, others with money, paid her expenses at a convalescent hospital. The debutantes visited her in pairs daily. A fund was raised to give her an artificial leg.

Yesterday she left like a princess, with a trunk full of clothes given her, and maid service on the train to Chicago. She said goodby with a smile and only the slightest of limps.

WELCH TO OPEN FUND DRIVE

The Goodwill Community House fund campaign sponsored by the Methodist Episcopal Church Union Appeal will be officially opened with a dinner in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, corner Seventh avenue and Smithfield street, this evening. Miss Cornelia Estabrook, 13-year-old Community House worker of 2651 Penn avenue with address campaign workers from the 12 counties comprising the Pittsburgh Conference. The little speaker will tell of child recreation activities at the Goodwill Community House at Twenty-eighth street and Liberty avenue.

Bishop Welch

Bishop Herbert Welch, Pittsburgh area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, is one of the leaders in the campaign.

Duquesne Wants to Drop Trolley Service

Application was made yesterday before Commissioner Charles Young, of the Public Service Commission, by the Duquesne and Dravosburg Street Railway Company for permission to abandon the line within the city of Duquesne, Mifflin Township and Dravosburg. It was explained that the operation of bus lines in the neighborhood had made the road unprofitable. No one offered objection to the company's proposal.

Woman Appointed Elections Judge

Miss Mayme Wetzel, of 135 Lincoln avenue, Millvale, has been appointed judge of elections for the First district of the First ward, Millvale, by Judge Harry H. Rowand, in Quarter Sessions Court, in place of Rosetta Hunter, who has moved from the district.

BUS EXTENSION OPPOSED

Residents of Dormont and Bridgeville appeared before Commissioner S. Ray Stuchy of the Public Service Commission in the interest of Elm Bigt who wants to operate a through bus line from Bridgeville to Pittsburgh, by way of Bower Hill road.

Bigt, first in the field of applicants to offer Bridgeville such a service, is being opposed by the Penn Bus Lines, which wants the service, with its projected route through Carnegie. Bigt claims his route is shortest and safest and in this statement was backed up by numerous residents of the territory involved.

The Pennsylvania Railroad is protesting against the Bigt application as well as that of the Penn Bus Lines.

Civil War Vet Dies Week After Wife

James J. O'Brien, 88, a Civil War veteran, died Tuesday in the West Penn Hospital six days after his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Brien, died in the family home at 1329 Bluff street. Funeral services were to be held today for the husband in the funeral parlors of James Lowrie, North Side. Burial was to be in St. Mary's cemetery. They leave two sons, James J., of New York, and Harry L. O'Brien, of Pittsburgh.

Bell Forces Mass For May Flittings

Officials of the Bell Telephone Company today were organizing special forces of workmen to meet complications arising May 1 when thousands of Pittsburgh families will change their residences. Records of the company show that in April and May last year 11,375 subscribers changed their homes. The year before there were 9,686 moves.

You can't go all over the city looking for a suitable home site, but you can easily find choice locations by reading the Sun-Telegraph Classified Ads.

High School Bands Will Compete Here

High school students from Pittsburgh, Homestead, Irwin and Charleroi will be entered in the Pennsylvania Forensic League Band Contest for the Southwestern Section in the Taylor Allderdice High School Forward and Shady avenues, Saturday night. The contest will include only Class A bands.

Proceeds from the contest will be given to the winning band to an financing the trip to the state contest in Philadelphia May 9 and 10.

Pictures to Show Projects in County

Motion pictures of construction work being done in Allegheny County by the County Department of Public Works were to be shown at noon today at a meeting of business men under the auspices of the Engineers' Council of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce of which Maurice R. Scharff is chairman. The film will be shown under the auspices of the County Works Department and will give a comprehensive study of projects under way here.

CLASS MARKS ANNIVERSARY

The eighteenth anniversary of the founding of the James C Mace Bible Class will be celebrated at the meeting of the class tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock in the assembly room of the Downtown Y M C A.

James C. Mace.

Mr Mace started the class with 14 members and some of the original group are expected to be present. A special program of music will feature the meeting, and Mr Mace will speak on "Can a Rich Man Enter the Kingdom of God?" The service will be broadcast by station KDKA.

AIR TRANSPORT FIRMS MERGE

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP)—Establishment of a unified air mail and passenger route across the United States was assured last night when it was announced that a plan for acquisition of National Air Transport, Inc., by the United Aircraft and Transport Corporation had been agreed upon by officials of the two corporations.

Among the companies controlled by United are the Boeing Airplane Company, the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company, the Chance Vought Corporation, Boeing Air Transport, Inc., Sikorsky Aviation Corporation and Stout Air Services.

N A T operates between New York and Chicago and from Chicago to Dallas, Texas, and other points in the Middle West, carrying air mail and has announced that passenger service over all its lines will begin this year.

WAR 'Y' WORKER SPEAKS HERE

Harry N. Holmes, New York field secretary for the World Alliance of International Friendship, will address the Weekly Dormitory Club dinner at the Downtown Y M C A Thursday evening.

H. N. Holmes

Mr Holmes was in charge of Y M C A work with the troops of Gen. Botha and Gen. Smuts in the campaign in German Southwest Africa during 1915, as well as in the forward areas of the British armies in France and Flanders during the World War. His most recent work has brought him into close contact with the countries of the Pacific Ocean.

CONGESTION IS MENACE

building arrangements are usually cumbersome and complex, so that the prison population cannot readily move through them. Builders usually have in mind preventing the prisoners from getting out by construction of this nature. The thought was to depend on construction rather than trained personnel for control in administration of the prisoners.

"We have never heard that fire drills are used in the county prisons to any extent. With building construction of this type and untrained personnel, every county prison is a fire hazard.

"The state-owned penitentiaries and reformatories which are now being constructed give adequate fire protection. Fireproof buildings are not only required in state-owned institutions, but also in the new county prison farms under construction in Delaware and Berks counties, and being planned in a number of others, including Allegheny. These will provide a type of building in which there will be little danger in case of fire."

FIRE HAZARDS LESS

Conditions in Allegheny County's penal institutions are not comparable to those in the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, Raymond Huff, head of the Bureau of Restoration, Department of Welfare, said. The fire hazards are not so great, he explained, and there is little danger of a holocaust.

According to Warden John McNeil, of the county jail, fire hazards there are reduced to a minimum. Every new tier of cells is built without wood or inflammable material.

Several of the old type tiers still in use have wooden floors in the aisles and wooden steps. These, McNeil says, are washed daily, are so soaked with water that it would be almost impossible for them to catch fire.

Every tier is equipped with a mechanical lever which unlocks every cell in the tier. There is no wiring to short circuit or cause trouble, he says. The blankets and chair in each cell would provide little food for flames, he points out. Access to the courtyards is easy and prisoners could find safety there if a blaze did break out.

MUCH OVERCROWDING

Conrad Van Hyning, Western Pennsylvania representative of the Public Charities Association, presented the following figures, taken from the latest official reports, to show how congested prisons and asylums are at this end of the state:

Diamond Hospital, capacity, 893; population, 1,080. Allegheny County Hospital, Woodville, capacity, 1,238; population, 1,426. Polk State School, capacity, 1,306; population, 2,276. Pennsylvania Training School, Morganza, capacity, 600; population, 810. Pennsylvania Industrial School, Huntingdon, capacity, 804; population, 1,064. Western Penitentiary, capacity, 1,180; population, 1,117.

Since these reports were issued, Van Hyning said, some new buildings have been completed at certain of the institutions, but the overcrowding is probably only very slightly less serious now than when the report was made.

He called attention to the last report of Mrs. E. S. H. McCauley, secretary of welfare, in which she said:

"It is an alarming but inescapable fact that each year finds nearly 900 more mental patients in the state, district and municipal hospitals than there were the year before."

Newsboy Who Wed Heiress Finds Job in Canada

TORONTO, Ont., April 24.—(AP)—Alfred Cecil Durban, the erstwhile English newsboy who married an American heiress and then came to Canada in quest of a job to support her, has found the job.

He arrived here with his bride, the former Miss Vivienne Huntington, daughter of the late Charles Pratt Huntington, New York architect.

A Toronto electric fixture company decided it could use the handsome young Englishman's services. He broke the news to Mrs. Durban by telephone.

Witness in Murder Escapes Gun Ambush

EUREKA, Cal., April 24.—(AP)—William Martell, a service station proprietor, and a witness in the scheduled trial of Clarence King, charged with the slaying of Minnie McCoy, last night reported he was decoyed into the country by a fake call for a tow car and that four shots were fired at him. He was not hit.

Half an hour later, James Weld, of San Francisco, driving a machine resembling Martell's, also was fired on. King was to be arraigned today for the slaying.

3 Jailed in Verona Burglary Attempt

Caught trying to force entry to the front store of George Phyfe, 635 Front street, Verona, according to police, Biagio Frezza, 31, of Pittsburgh, Jerry Manual, 33, of McKeesport, and Joseph Murphy, 20, of Huntington, W. Va., were in the Allegheny County jail today, pending a hearing at Verona. The trio were captured by Patrolman William M. Cook, of Verona. An automobile bearing Ohio license plates, said to have been driven by the three men, was being held at Verona pending location of the owner, police said.

PHOEBE MACKAY
Plays "Effie Watts"

A COUGH or even a slight huskiness may mean the loss of a lot of money to a radio star. Phoebe Mackay, one of the most popular members of the "Real Folks" cast has found a sure way to keep her throat in condition and prevent colds, and she recommends it to you. At bedtime she sniffs a little "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly into her nose. It spreads a protective film over the sensitive membranes, soothes inflammation, and helps prevent germs from getting a foothold.

If Miss Mackay experiences the slightest tickle or raspiness in her throat, she immediately swallows a spoonful of "Vaseline" Jelly. It's so soothing, and perfectly safe to take internally.

You can hear Phoebe Mackay in the part of Mrs. Watts, the cockney boarding house keeper in "Real Folks" any Monday night at 9:30 over station WJZ or KDKA. And do buy some "Vaseline" Jelly and try her sensible preventive for coughs and colds.

FARMERS FLAY WHEAT CHIEF

KANSAS CITY, April 24.—(AP.)—Charges that Samuel R. McKelvie, wheat member of the Federal Farm Board and former governor of Nebraska, was blocking attempts of farm organizations "to own and control the Farmers' National Grain Corporation as they see fit" were made at a meeting here of representatives of nine Kansas farm organizations.

Leaders in the Kansas associations at the meeting formulated articles of incorporation and laid plans for operation of the new Kansas-Colorado Grain Warehouse Corporation, which replaces the Regional Marketing Association, abandoned recently following dissension as to operation.

J. J. Knight, general manager of the Equity Union Grain Company and member of the board of managers of the Farmers' National Grain Corporation, said McKelvie attempted to influence the annual election of officers and directors of the Farmers' National in Chicago recently.

W. J. Spencer, Salina, Kas., president of the Farmers' Union Jobbing Association, said "McKelvie has not demonstrated that he is for co-operative marketing and he has only been a thorn in the side of the whole setup. Other farm organizations have asked that McKelvie resign from the Farm Board and our tolerance of this man is rapidly reaching a point where some changes might be required."

Musmanno Predicts End of Coal Police

Prediction that the 1931 legislature will see the end of the coal and iron police evil was made by Assemblyman M. A. Musmanno, speaking yesterday at a luncheon of the Pittsburgh City Post, American Legion, in the Nixon cafe. Reviewing passage of the coal and iron police bill through the 1929 legislature, he recounted his amazement when the governor vetoed it.

NEW WAY TO PREPARE LAMB CHOPS

Addition of Novel Seasoning Improves Their Flavor

This new method really begins before the chops are put on the broiler or in the pan.

First make a mixture of ¾ teaspoonful salt, 1 teaspoonful sugar, 1 teaspoonful vinegar or lemon juice and 5 tablespoonfuls of salad oil. Pour this over the chops and let stand for a few minutes, then fry or broil them and you will be delighted with the way this seasoning heightens the flavor of the lamb. If you wish you can use the mixture to baste the chops as they cook.

The sugar is a most important ingredient of the mixture just described because it blends the salt, lemon juice and oil into a smooth, piquant goodness.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow in many other kinds of cookery. In cooking vegetables this combination noticeably and pleasantly emphasizes the flavor of carrots, spinach, string beans, cabbage and peas. Doctors approve the use of sugar as a flavor on these essential foods because it arouses the appetite to eat more of them. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

THE BEST PLACE TO SHOP, AFTER ALL

All the Costume Shades—All the Smartest Shapes—in This Special Purchase of

Leather Handbags

Brand-new handbags, purchased just a few days ago in New York. Many look exactly like models we've sold at higher prices . . . and to find such fine box calf and morocco leathers at this price is truly extraordinary.

Bags with zipper inside pockets to secure your accessories . . . bags with colorful composition clasps . . . large flat envelopes . . . squat little pouches . . . back-straps and two-fold bags with the mirror unclasping from the outside of the bag.

There is a plentiful selection of those light beige and tan shades, some with contrasting trimming . . . black with contrast, or all-black, navy blue, and the other smart accessory colors.

. . Horne's, Main Floor . .

Suits Regrouped

At Two Reduced Prices

$35 $55

Broken lines, yes, of course; but who minds that when the ultimate is a fine Horne suit at much less than its original price.

Both tailored and dressmaker suits are offered in each of these reduced groups . . . Suits of covert, tweeds and formal fabrics in light and dark colors . . . Suits with coats of varying lengths, from finger-tip to seven-eighths, accompanied by blouses of silk crepe or satin . . . Models for afternoon and town wear, country wear and travel.

In women's and misses' sizes.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Cape Dresses

Are Featured in New Prints

$25

In this showing the Women's Tailor-Type Section has combined two popular fashions, the cape and street-type prints.

This department adopts the cape because it makes sleeveless and short-sleeved frocks more wearable for the street, and gives any dress the "completed" look which it should have to be worn without a coat . . .

In this group there are tie-on and attached capes, in circular and pleated effects, on sleeveless frocks, elbow-sleeve and long-sleeve frocks.

The prints are in pin dots, small and medium figures, on black, navy, green, brown or beige backgrounds.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

A Cape for Every Frock....With These

Tie-On Capes

Such a smart idea . . . capes for all your short-sleeve spring frocks! It's possible with these new crepe ones . . . for they're made in so many colors that you may either match the frock or contrast with it in a charming color scheme!

They are of fine silk crepe, and hang far over the shoulders in back and on the sides. A tie, cut in one piece with the cape, makes a smart bow in front and holds the cape in place . . . so it's quite simple to put on and take off. In lavender, blue, pink, green, and white . . . and combinations of navy and white or brown and maize. $2.95.

. . . Horne's, Neckwear Section, Main Floor . . .

Costume Slips

Specially Priced

$1.00

Three of the most favored types of inexpensive costume slips will be specially priced tomorrow.

Rayon Slips—Lustrous, washable slips in white, flesh, peach, maize or nile. Sizes 34 to 44.

Bette-Ray Slips—A rayon and cotton combination that is semi-lustrous and light in weight. In flesh, white and tan. Sizes 46 and 48.

. . . Horne's, Second Floor . . .

Pretty Printed All-Day Dresses

$1.95

Printed cottons that show how one can be smartly dressed even for household tasks. These lawn and dimity dresses are made with little cape sleeves, no sleeves or long sleeves. Some have flared skirts and some have fullness gained from godets, high waistlines and innumerable kinds of necklines. Every one is a new, wearable style. Most of the dresses have a floral motif printed colorfully against a white ground or monotone prints on pastel grounds.

Sizes 16 to 46 in the group.

. . . Horne's, All-Day Dresses, Third Floor . . .

Robes and Negligees

Especially Smart for Travelers

$10

Negligees that need only one glance to convince you that you want one of these bright, Roman striped creations in your wardrobe. So many different combinations of colors are available in these striped silk negligees we can't possibly describe them . . . but we can tell you that the plain colors in the borders and cuffs may be jade, chartreuse, green, gold, red, navy, pirate or turquoise blue.

The tailored-looking robe that seems to be flannel is in reality a lightweight spun silk—which claims an advantage over heavier robes in being thoroughly washable. This type of robe is perfectly suited for Pullman or beach wear. It confines its broad stripes to conservative two- and three-tone color combinations.

FORD TO FIRE ALL DRINKERS

DETROIT April 24 (NS)—In his statement of a week ago today that "no employe of the Ford Motor Company will be discharged because of the company's knowledge that he is found drinking either on or off the job," Harry Bennett, head of the Dearborn "service" department of the Ford Motor Company, was misquoted, it was declared today by Chief Harry W. Bullard of the Ford private police force.

The drive to keep drunkards off the job will be carried on, Bullard said, but employes who report for work with the smell of liquor on their breath will be reported.

Carl A. Brooks, Dearborn police chief, said every complaint of "tip" on a drinking establishment will be the signal for an immediate raid. If any Ford workers are found in the raids, they will be reported by the men to the company, Brooks said.

Police Hunt Trio In $11,000 Holdup

CLEVELAND April 24 (INS)—Police today were searching for three masked bandits who held up the assistant cashier of the Cleveland News last night and escaped with approximately $11,000.

Joseph Grotenrath, the assistant cashier, was alone. He had just prepared the weekly payroll. Richard Rasbe, night watchman, entered the office as the bandits were leaving. They knocked him unconscious.

Trapped in Cave-in, 'Dead' Man Revived

CHICAGO April 24.—(INS)—Although buried for 20 minutes beneath several tons of loose earth after a cave-in, Roscoe Johnson, 28, is alive today.

Johnson was working at the bottom of a 16-foot hole last night when the walls collapsed, trapping him. After he was rescued, a physician pronounced him dead. An inhalator squad revived him.

Divorce Granted, Man Rushes to Wed No. 2

HARRISBURG April 24.—(AP)—William F. Myers, of Manchester, became a matrimonial free agent today when his divorce decree was received in the office of the prothonotary here. He rushed downstairs to file a marriage license for his second trip to the altar.

Without waiting, Myers obtained a divorce from Mrs. Mary E. Myers in the local courthouse, took out a license to marry Miss Virginia Garver, 23, of Manchester.

Myers, who is 31, married Mary in 1926.

British Ship Captain Hangs Self in Cabin

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., April 24.—(AP)—Shortly before the British cruiser Champion was to have gone out on firing practice today her commanding officer, Capt. Richard Martin Welby was found hanging dead in the bathroom of his cabin.

Welby, who was about 40, was promoted to captain in 1928. He was appointed to the Champion last October.

DIRIGIBLE HURT IN TAKE-OFF

LONDON April 24.—(AP)—It was reported from Cardington that the huge British dirigible R-100 was damaged while being brought out of her shed today, one of her starboard fins catching against the side of the shed and buckling slightly.

Authorities were considering whether she should be taken back to her shed.

The R-100 scheduled to make a flight to Canada next month, was taken from her shed this morning in order to make a test flight, preliminary to the Canadian voyage. It was for a flight today were abandoned.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, who piloted the Graf Zeppelin on its flight around the world, and who was a scheduled passenger on the R-100, today was in London, where he will stay a few days consulting with officials of the air ministry. F. W. Von Meister, American representative, said the Graf would start on her South American flight May 18.

SUSPECT HELD IN LYNCHING

WALHALLA, S. C., April 24.—(AP)—John Sanders was arrested at his home in the Monaghan Mill Community here today as a member of the mob which early today lynched Allen Green, 50, Negro.

Officers said Sheriff John Thomas and his son, Eugene, had recognized Sanders among the mob which took Green from them, after clubbing and seriously injuring the sheriff.

Green was dragged from the Oconee County jail, tied to a tree and shot.

At Anderson, S. C., where Sheriff Thomas was taken, hospital attaches said his skull was fractured and that he might die.

Green was arrested Sunday after the alleged attack upon a young woman of this county. The next day he was given a preliminary hearing and ordered held in jail without bond for trial.

BUSINESS HEADS IN DRY NET

NEWARK, N. J., April 24—(AP.)—Seven of 33 New Jersey men wanted in Buffalo, N. Y., on indictments charging conspiracy to divert alcohol for illegal purposes, were arrested here late yesterday. The arrests, made by 15 prohibition agents and a like number of United States deputy marshals included men prominent in Newark business life.

Among those taken were Curtiss R. Burnett, vice president and treasurer, and William Ulrich, secretary, of the American Oil and Supply Company. Burnett is a former president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce.

The indictments, returned March 26, named 65 individuals and 18 chemical companies, among which were a half dozen Newark concerns, Federal officers said.

According to the officers the indictments charged the men and their companies with being parts of a large alcohol diversion ring operating in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other states.

The other men arrested were George N. Bick, proprietor of the Essex Chemical Company, a concern manufacturing lacquers; Anthony A. Spagnerole and Ubalto Compolator, owners of the Park Leather Company; Benjamin L. Bueller, proprietor of the Doubler Chemical Company; Hugh Sunmonte, lacquer manufacturer, and Harvey W. Smith and Edward T. Dunn.

Burnett refused to comment when taken to the Federal Building for arraignment but Bick termed his arrest "an outrage."

These New Salts Are Wonderful

That's Just What She Said—Just What He Said

AND A MILLION FAT FOLKS CAN'T BE WRONG

When you take vitalizing Kruschen Salts for a few days that old indolent armchair feeling deserts you—it doesn't matter how fat you are—the urge for activity has got you—and you're stepping lively.

And best of all you like this activity—you walk a couple of miles and enjoy it—you thought you'd never dance again but you find you're getting as spry as ever—the old tingling active feeling reaches even your feet.

Kruschen is a combination of the six salts Nature has already put into your body to keep you alive—if it were not for these vital salts you could not live.

Why not try one 85-cent bottle of these rejuvenating salts—a bottle lasts 4 weeks and one bottle is enough to prove to you that Kruschen will make you feel younger—spryer—more energetic—you'll enjoy life—every minute of it.

As one stout woman wrote: "Kruschen Salts are worth their weight in gold to me."

A half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning is all you need to keep healthy — keep your stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys in splendid condition—free your system from harmful toxins and acids.

All May's and Leggett's Drug Stores sell lots of Kruschen Salts—so do good druggists everywhere.

LIBERTY AVE. BALCONY

Ideal for SALADS AND DESSERTS

Finer Oranges rule the California Sunkist crop this season—ideal for all purposes—segmenting for 10-minute salads and 5-minute desserts; slicing for fickle breakfast appetites—and more juice. . . . Extra-delicious, Sunkist Oranges are superior for all home and health purposes—easier to peel and slice—and they segment easily and cleanly. Firm but juicy and tender meat. . . . Richest in juice and finest in flavor, Sunkist Oranges excel in every comparison. The trademark "Sunkist" on skin and wrapper assures dependable quality.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN,
Radio Editor.

WHILE MANY CELEBRATED names appear in the schedule tonight perhaps none will receive more radio applause than Baby Rose Marie, who will help Rudy Vallee entertain the Sunshine Hour audience on WCAE at 8. She will do three numbers—"Why Do I Love You as I Do?," "The One I Love Just Can't Be Bothered With Me" and "Aintcha?"

Mario Chamlee, Floyd Gibbons, Renee Chemet and Rudolph Ganz will offer something more substantial but hardly as popular. Then, too, the NBC Grand Opera Company will present "Pagliacci" on WCAE at 11.

"What Women Actually Are in Politics" will be Ruth Hanna McCormick's topic from Washington, D. C., in the D. A. R. program to be broadcast at 7:30 by WEAF, WRC, WMC and WSAI.

Long famous for his beautiful interpretation of Liszt's "Liebestraum," Rudolph Ganz will include this number in his piano repertoire on the RCA hour, WCAE at 10. He will also play Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasie." On the same program Renee Chemet, French violinist, will give up Logan's "Pale Moon" and Herbert's "Gypsy Love Song."

The Pan-American Society dinner on KDKA at 8:15 will feature Floyd Gibbons, John L. Merrill and Dr. Ereque Oloya Herrera, president of Colombia.

HOOVER SPEEDS TARIFF BILL

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Congressional Republican leaders decided at a breakfast conference with President Hoover today to have the House first consider the conference report on the tariff bill.

The report will be ready by next Tuesday, but will not be taken up in the House until a week from today.

The White House conference was called at the request of the House and Senate leaders. The only purpose was to discuss the procedure on the tariff bill, it was said later at the White House.

It was announced orally at the White House that there was no discussion of rates or administrative provisions of the complex and voluminous bill.

Donora Trade Board Will Seek Members

DONORA, Pa., April 24.—Under the guidance of Mose Miller, secretary, and Joseph Beck, chairman, the membership committee of the Donora Board of Trade will seek tonight to make plans for a membership drive to begin next week. Other members of the committee are W. C. Jobes, G. W. Woodward, Edward Jones, E. R. Smith, Samuel Applbaum, Joseph Polkabla, Rubin Hirsch and F. J. McCue.

Viscount Bassetiere Appeals Exclusion

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—Viscount Louis de la Bassetiere appealed today to the secretary of labor from the ruling of a special board of inquiry at Ellis Island refusing him admittance to the United States as a visitor from France.

The special board held the French citizen was not a visitor, but expected to establish permanent residence in this country.

Funeral Services Held for Pastor

WASHINGTON, April 24.—(AP.)—H. C. Greer, of West Virginia, has declined the nomination as civil service commissioner, recently tendered him by President Hoover.

Kettering Scouts Fears on Excess Oil Output

CLEVELAND, April 24.—(AP.)—Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research Corporation, told delegates to the semi-annual meeting of the Petroleum Association here that they should not feel unduly alarmed about over-production of petroleum.

"You might have some cause to worry if the world were finished," said Kettering, "but it isn't. Road mileage will have doubled in 10 years and the roads will have the curves widened and banked to accommodate vehicles traveling at high speed. Think of the number of filling stations you can put up then."

3 HELD AFTER HOTEL RAID

Three men were at liberty on bonds today as a sequel to a raid yesterday on a hotel at 154 Tenth street, where 15 pints of whisky and several bottles of gin were seized, prohibition agents reported.

Those arrested, agents said, were Charles Harr, 50; John O'Neil, 41, and John Barosky, 25. Barosky is said to have been repairing a slot machine in the hotel, occupying the second and third floors, when the agents entered. The liquor was found in a buffet.

A half-gallon of whisky was confiscated in a raid at the store of Benjamin Zwolski, at 531 Allegheny avenue, Glassport, raiders asserted. Zwolski was arrested. After finding a 25-gallon still in a dwelling at 12 Lawrence street, Millvale, the agents reported releasing Hary McAfee, 33, on his own recognizance.

GERMAN DEBT BONDS READY

BASEL, Switzerland, April 24.—(AP.)—Having brought the organization of the new Bank of International Settlements to the point where it can commence effective operation eight days after final ratification of the Young plan, the directorate of the institution tonight adjourned its final meeting. The sessions lasted two full days.

The bank will start its service as soon as the Young plan has been ratified by Italy and Great Britain, all other nations in interest having already taken that step. While awaiting this consummation, Gates W. MacGarrah, American president of the bank, will inaugurate contingent negotiations for floating the first slice of German reparation bonds. This issue will total $300,000,000, a sum which must be realized early in June. Mr. MacGarrah will take up the subject with the heads of the state banks in England, Belgium, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Sweden, Switzerland and Holland and with private institutions in the United States.

After the reparations problem of Eastern Europe has been fully solved, the banks of Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Bulgaria will be afforded an opportunity to subscribe.

"Could Not Get Back to Health After Operation—Was Nervous, Weak, Miserable"

—Anthony's Studio

Miss Martha B. Kerr

New Castle, Pa.—"After I had gone through a critical operation I just could not get back to health, was nervous and so weak and miserable I could not be on my feet. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and by taking it I regained my health and strength—only for the 'Prescription' I don't know how I would have pulled thru."—Miss Martha B. OBJECT OF PITY AMONG FRIENDS

Plight of Pittsburgh Woman and How She Found Relief.

"Wherever I went I was an object of pity among my friends," said a well-known woman of Pittsburgh to an interviewer the other day. "I was so ill that I had lost all hope of ever being myself again. My skin had turned a dirty yellow, my eyes had big rings around them, and every step I took seemed to tax my strength. My stomach was so delicate there were times when the only thing it would retain was a raw egg. I was bilious, and I tried every kind of cathartic without permanent relief. My head felt stuffy, there were ringing noises in my ears and I had difficulty in hearing what was said to me. A bad taste in my mouth made me sure my breath was offensive, and when I exerted myself my heart thumped so I could hardly breathe. Altogether I could not have been much more wretched, and the few friends who stuck to me shook their heads whenever they discussed my case.

"Medical treatment sometimes relieved me for a while, but always seemed to lose its value after a few days. One day my sister brought home a new medicine someone had told her about. I did not want to take something I knew nothing about, but nothing else was doing me any good, and more to please my sister than anything else I began taking it. In three days I had a better night's sleep than I had enjoyed in years. I thought that was just an accident, but I must say that by the time that bottle was gone I knew it was helping me, and I got another before it was finished. I was getting better. My head cleared up so that I felt livelier, and my stomach digested the simple food I took. By the end of the second bottle I was actually hungry at mealtimes.

"Now you can see my skin is clear, my eyes have lost that awful tired look, and my general condition is better than it has been for many years. You asked me to tell you how I got well, and I can put the answer in two words—World's Tonic. What that wonderful medicine has done for me is so marvelous that I think it is the greatest discovery ever made for sick people.

"So many other people think the same way that World's Tonic has built up a wonderful standing in Pittsburgh. You will know why after you have tried it yourself. World's Tonic may be obtained of Lowe, May & Liggett's, Mardower, or at any other first-class drug store. (A-16)

NEW BAIL PLEA FOR PANTAGES

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—(AP.)—Alexander Pantages, vaudeville magnate in jail in Los Angeles pending appeal from conviction of attacking Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, applied to the State Supreme Court yesterday for release on bail.

Affidavits of five physicians were presented in support of the 54-year-old multi-millionaire's plea that his weight had dropped from 150 to 112½ pounds that he has had repeated heart attacks in jail, and that permanent injury to his health and death in the near future will result unless he be released.

Pantages' applications for bail have been refused thrice by the Los Angeles Superior Court.

Make yourself attractive —end halitosis

Before meeting others you would like to impress agreeably, make sure that you are free of halitosis (unpleasant breath) which offends so many. Simply rinse the mouth with full-strength Listerine. It destroys odors, leaving the breath sweet and wholesome.

Don't fool yourself that you never have halitosis because you simply cannot know when you are a victim. It doesn't announce itself to you. But it does to others—and is unforgivable.

Being an active germicide capable of killing 200,000,000 germs in 15 seconds, full-strength Listerine checks mouth fermentation and infection—both a cause of odors. Then it gets rid of the odors themselves; it is a powerful deodorant.

Keep a bottle handy in home and office and use it often. It pays. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

MENNEN BABY OIL

Both of which are essential for the proper care of your baby. Mennen Baby Oil is a medicated blend of oils, prepared under the advice of eminent physicians, especially for anointing baby's body, making the skin soft and pliable, and preventing chafing and rubbing in the folds of the skin. Its use on the buttocks after every diaper change acts as a water-proofing on the skin and a preventative of diaper-chafing. It does away with irritating skin dryness and keeps baby's body smooth and soft. Since water roughens baby's skin use Mennen Baby Oil liberally after the bath. Mennen Baby Oil is pleasantly scented, and sterilized.

CITY OFFICIALS TO FETE MARSH

Burton W. Marsh, retiring city traffic engineer, will be the guest of honor at a testimonial dinner given by the Better Traffic Committee in the University Club next Wednesday night. Mayor Charles H. Kline, members of City Council and other city and county officials, as well as members of the traffic committee, will attend.

Marsh came to Pittsburgh in 1924 and organized the Better Traffic Committee. What was said to be one of the most extensive traffic surveys ever attempted in any city was made under his supervision in 1927. It covered a long period and cost approximately $30,000. The development of the city traffic lighting system was the result of his work toward relieving the Golden Triangle of traffic congestion.

Marsh leaves Pittsburgh next month for Philadelphia where he will become city engineer.

TONIC QUALITIES OF KONJOLA ARE HIGHLY PRAISED

Crafield Man Says He Eats Better—Sleeps Better—Has Gained 12 Pounds Since Taking Konjola

Still they come . . . enthusiastic indorsements of the new and different medicine, Konjola, from all sections of Pittsburgh and surrounding communities. Only a medicine of outstanding merit, a medicine that makes good, would such vast numbers of Pittsburgh men and women voluntarily indorse.

Among recent indorsements of this new medicine is one from Mr. Louis LaLonde, who lives at 1236 Sheffield street, Pittsburgh, and who called upon the Konjola Man a short time ago to praise the tonic qualities of Konjola. In addition to its virtues as a super-tonic, Konjola has won thousands of amazing victories over the stubborn ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and over rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola contains not a single harmful drug, and it will not stop pain instantly, but, if taken with regularity, will bring relief in a natural way. A treatment of from six to eight bottles is recommended. But call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn avenue and Sixth street, Pittsburgh, and hear the entire story of this remarkable medicine. Hear of cases like that of Mr. LaLonde, who said to the Konjola Man:

"I owe a great deal to Konjola, for it has made life seem worth living again. This wonderful tonic has strengthened and built me up in every way. Before I started taking Konjola I was in a badly weakened condition. For several years my appetite had been poor and my sleep restless. I hardly knew what it was to get a good night's rest. I was bothered by night sweats that would leave me exhausted, and I became very nervous and irritable. I never ate any breakfast, and had very little appetite at any time. The days seemed very long and I had to force myself to work.

"Recently I was doing some remodeling in one of Dow's drug stores, and I told the manager about my condition. He suggested that I try Konjola, and I did so. In less than a month I was sleeping soundly, without night sweats, and eating my meals with relish. It was two months ago that I started to take Konjola, and in that time I have gained back 12 pounds of my lost weight. I feel better in every way. I can sincerely recommend this splendid medicine to all who need something to build up their strength and energy."

Konjola has won and kept a million friends just by doing what it is designed to do. Konjola makes good. That's why it makes friends.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine.

FREE SAMPLES GIVEN by the Konjola Man. Konjola is sold also at all Dow stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

CITY FIREMEN LATE, HOME IS BURNED

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

Our proposed Tonsils Department met a beer reception than we expected. Several persons (two) hailed us to agree that what Pittsburg needs is a Tonsils News Department—a department where can be recorded that so-an-so had his tonsils removed an is doing, as we said before, okay.

However, we are not yet sold on the proposition. If we had the co-operation of a dozen or more doctors we would sign the papers immediately. But doctors are reticent in such matters. The average physician would not get much kick out of calling us up and saying, "Well, just clipped another pair and everything's okay."

"Strange Interlude" has come and gone and the town is slowly settling back to normal. In its third and last week the show made box office history by drawing $31,400—this, mind you, in Holy Week, when many theaters encounter difficulty assembling a quorum. The show's receipts for three weeks were $92,000. Business for Holy Week was best because in the two previous weeks subscribers of the Theater Guild were privileged to buy tickets at reduced rates.

Competent showmen will tell you that the audiences who attended "Interlude" were not, for the most part, the usual theater-goers, but persons attracted because the show was a freak show. Its unusual hours, its asides and its frank theme served to draw the non-theatergoer. We have hazarded before the guess that if O'Neill inserted a significance in his plays it was lost on a fair share of the audience. As a matter of fact we should like to see an intigent answer to this question: What good was accomplished by the play?

However, the show did add to the history of the Nixon Theater, which, with its capacity of 2,530, is able to do a better business than any other legitimate theater in the town. Certainly no theater has ever before added $31,600 to its till with a legitimate attraction in Holy Week.

The Nixon also holds the nation's record for musical shows—excepting, of course, auditoriums, and opening weeks, when prices are boosted sky-high. This record was made by Ziegfeld's "Whoopee" two seasons ago, when a business of $55,000 was done in one week, according to Harry Brown, manager of the theater.

Magistrate John J. Sweeney, the gentleman whose rulings popularized that famed line, "Tell it to Sweeney," asked the complaining prisoner whether the police had used violence in making the arrest.

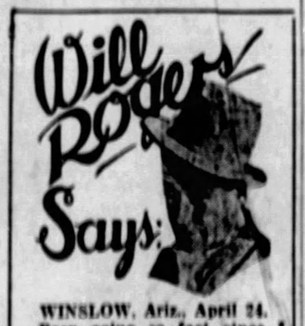
"No violence, Judge," the prisoner conceded, except—"

And with that he grabbed the coat lapels of Pat Tilly, the six-foot plainclothesman, shook him until his head seemed a bobbing balloon and pushed him against the wall of the courtroom.

"What, pray does this mean?" Sweeney asked.

"I'm just showing how I was arrested," the prisoner explained.

"That's the best act I've seen in a long time," Sweeney admitted. "Discharged!"



WINSLOW, Ariz., April 24.

Been going so fast since I left Ponca City, Okla., haven't got a hold of a morning paper. I will have to pull a Brisbane now and describe the desert country and estimate "how much it will raise when it all has water and the proper name of newspapers." Say this air travel is sure picking up. This line has a double-header, each carrying twelve. Arrive in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon at four-twenty, and speaking of "Arthur," as he gets older and his time commences to get valuable, we will land him on one of these aeroplanes yet, and I want to be with him and hold his hand.

Ken Says He Couldn't Stay Away From Ardeth

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ardeth Carroll, who rooms in her Aunt Stella's boarding house, is being wooed by Neil Burke. While out motoring with Neil, Ardeth sees Ken Gleason. Ardeth has never been introduced to Gleason and the two just gaze at each other. Neil becomes jealous. Later Neil asks Ardeth to marry him, but she refuses. Ardeth goes to work for Jeanette Parker in a new specialty shop. There Jeanette introduces Ardeth to Gleason. The two new friends go on a Sunday outing together to a houseboat owned by Gleason. Ken explains that he is employed by Jeanette's father. They return to the city after a happy day. Ardeth hopes to see Ken soon, but she is disappointed. Ardeth is surprised when she meets Ken one evening after leaving the shop.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XIV.

The sight of Ken coming toward her through the fog sent a wave of shame over Ardeth.

In a flash of reason she saw her mental torments, her anger of the past few days, as childish—as worse, presumptuous. After all—what had she to criticize in his behavior? Her eagerness to see him again, had made her take too much for granted.

Suppose he had been with Cecile Parker last night. He was not bound to her—to Ardeth. But—oh, he had cared enough to come back!

All this confused reasoning flashing through her mind in the moment it took Ken to reach her.

He was taking off his hat. Smiling.

"I've been watching you through the window, working like a beaver."

"Why didn't you come in, silly!"

The tired girl of the moment before was gone. She was glowing. Vibrant. Looking down at her vivid face, the man thought again of the alabaster lamp with its rose flame.

"Afraid of getting swamped in women," he grinned. "I beat it away when Jeanette came out with her gang. I might have got tangled in some dinner date—"

Her eyes danced. "Is that gallant?"

"At least it's truthful." He hesitated, then dared. "And since you're such a stickler for truths, here's another—there's one date I'd almost give my ears to get tangled with. Ardeth, aren't you starved?"

Dines With Ken

Tells Him About Jennie's Shop Party

She looked away with an attempt at deliberation, though her heart was singing.

"My aunt always keeps dinner waiting for me in the oven if I'm late . . ."

Don't let him guess that she was thrilling to his presence. No move of him escaped her. Little tricks—already so dearly familiar. The way his face lit when he smiled . . . how his lashes narrowed when he grew intent. With the fingers of her mind she was caressing him, stroking the thick brown hair—his finely marked eyebrows. Loving the whimsical lift of one brow when he smiled.

An hour later the dish of beef stew and mashed turnips, which Aunt Stel had placed in the oven for her niece, had dried to a leathery mass.

Ardeth was facing Ken over a small cafe table.

"Jennie's party a success today?" he asked.

"Overwhelming! I didn't think women could hold so much tea. There was one woman—like the character in the Pickwick Papers—you know, the one Sam Weller—or was it his father—told of? She'd had her fifth cup of tea and was 'swelling wisibly.'"

Imagination

Describes First Thoughts Of Ardeth

He grinned appreciatively. Then sobered. "You're a funny child! I didn't think modern girls read Dickens."

"I have a set of his works. My father gave them to me. The birthday before he died."

"Tell me about yourself. Do you know, I hardly know a thing about you!

"Of course I know all the really important things. That your eyes are lozenge shaped and one can look miles down into them and see the strangest things—"

"As, for instance—?"

"Well, tonight, while you were debating whether or not to stay out, there were little gold flecks swimming far down in them. Like a swarm of golden bees. You have bees in your eyes!"

"I appear to be the whole insect world!" She spoke as demurely as though her heart were not racing.

He eyed her sternly. "Behave yourself, Moth!"

Golden eyes dancing across at him, brimming with laughter. Sinking suddenly under the blue fire of his gaze.

"And your name—know what I thought when I first heard Jeanette call you Ardeth? I saw a medieval princess weeping alone on a tower top. You were wrapped in a golden cloak, standing against a sunset sky—"

"What was I weeping for?"

"Because I was riding away to war."

"And you saw all this while I scrambled out of a window? Marvelous man!"

"If you don't stop making fun of my pretty talk I'll make you pay your own check!"

"Don't be so Scotch. Go on—talk more about me!"

He laughed, his eyes caressing her.

Jealousy

Sorry After Speaking Of Cecile

"Vain little glutton! Well—you've really been a great nuisance, if you want the truth. You've been in my thoughts constantly since Sunday."

"Even last night?" That was a mistake. The girl could have bitten her tongue.

A shadow slipping into his eyes, turning them nearly black. His brows leveled. "Last night?"

She gulped. Nothing for it but to see it through. "Oh," she said lightly. "I get all the gossip now that Jeanette's opened the smokerie! Her sister Cecile was in today. I heard her say that—that you were with her last night."

She could not read his expression. She suffered an agony of embarrassment as his eyes went to his water glass.

Ardeth rushed into speech, struggling to be casual.

"She's very attractive . . . isn't she. Such an unusual type—different from Jeanette."

Ah, please don't be so remote! her heart was crying. What had made her say that! It was unforgivable—it was prying! She had no right . . . but oh, this burning jealousy of Cecile. . .

"Yes, Cecile's attractive," he said at last.

A constraint underlying their evening. As though a cloud had passed over the sun, thought the saddened girl.

Happiness

He Couldn't Stay Away From Her

Back again on the dark corner where Ken always parked the car. Fall street—two rows of ugly wooden houses stretching before them. Ken . . . slipping away again into that other world where he belonged . . .

Her head went proudly up. She fumbled for the door handle and turned, a light good night on her lips.

Her sweet brave gaze caught in his own. The man gave a reckless little laugh and pulled her into his arms.

Again that strange heady happiness surging through her blood. Pulsing in her lips. Ah, life was sweet . . . sweet . . .

Ken's voice, a husky whisper. "Open your eyes, sweetheart . . . Look at me . . ."

Obediently she lifted her lashes.

Startling to find his face poised a few inches above her own. His eyes—wide—intent, growing out of the dark.

A funny little shake in his voice, as though he spoke against his will.

"Hungry for you, sweetheart . . . just plain starved! I couldn't stay away another day."

She hardly heard his words. Her heart was throbbing an undertone which turned each drop of blood in her veins to sparkling golden wine. Her eyes closed as their lips met and her arm crept about Ken's neck, drawing his face closer.

REVEAL CENSUS RESULT HERE MONDAY

Supervisors Threaten Jail Terms for Balkers of Count; Drive on Hotels

Pittsburgh's population for 1930 will be known next Monday. On that day the census supervisors will be ready to announce the number of inhabitants in the city, and in the meantime persons who refuse to answer enumerators' questions will be facing a heavy fine or a term in jail.

According to census figures received from Washington, the boroughs of Charleroi and McDonald and several townships in Washington County have less population than in 1920. Charleroi has 11,245, against 11,516 in 1920, and McDonald with 2,690 in the present census shows a decrease of less than 100 in 10 years.

GAINS, LOSSES SHOWN

Other figures follow: Washington, 24,239, against 21,480 in 1920; Burgettstown, 2,262, with 1,990 in 1920; Roscoe, 1,307, with 1,480 in 1920; Stockdale, 772, against 330 in 1920; Fallowfield Township, 3,348, against 2,468 in 1920.

Reynoldsville, Jefferson County, dropped to 3,471 inhabitants in 1930 from 4,116 in 1920.

An intensive drive upon tardy dwellers in hotels, apartment houses and various institutions in Pittsburgh was undertaken today with a special force of enumerators in order to obtain information which will enable the supervisors to compile the final figures.

REFUSALS ARE CITED

James E. Routley, supervisor in charge of city districts, said rounding up of permanent guests in hotels and residents of apartment houses would practically complete the city enumeration.

More than 100 apartment house dwellers have either neglected or refused to answer questions, Routley said. It is declared that there will be no further trifling. Those who refuse to answer questions in the present canvass closing Saturday will be prosecuted immediately.

Crash Injures Trio; Two Drivers Held

Three were injured today when two cars crashed at Irwin and Western avenues. The drivers, George Chamberlain, 20, of 25 West General Robinson street, and J. D. Wolcot., 45, of 229 Chestnut street, were taken to Allegheny Genera' Hospital, as was Robert McMittenorf, 16, of 1715 Kelber street, who was riding in Wolcott's machine. All suffered cuts. Charges of reckless driving were lodged against Chamberlain and Wolcott.

NEIGHBORS OF VICTIM PROTEST

Carnegie, Glendale and Scott Twp. Volunteers First at Noblestown Road Blaze

Residents of the Noblestown road district of Pittsburgh, between Crafton and Carnegie, today were preparing to make formal complaint to City Council on the delay of city firemen early today in reaching a fire in their community.

Glendale and East Carnegie volunteer companies from Scott Township were at the scene before the city companies, neighbors say.

The fire, starting shortly before 3 o'clock, swept the home of Frank Musico, a two-story frame dwelling at 513 Noblestown road.

Joseph W. Porter, a neighbor, said he sent in a telephone call at 3:10 to the police and fire station in the West End.

G. W. Reitz, another neighbor, said he telephoned the same police and firemen at 3:15.

FAMILY ABSENT

Both neighbors say that it was 4 o'clock when the city department arrived on the scene.

Members of the Musico family were absent at the time. An overheated furnace is thought to have caused the blaze.

Acting Battalion Chief Patrick Cosgrove who estimated the damage at $6,000 says that his investigation revealed no still alarm was given Engine Company No. 10, in the West End, until the sergeant of No. 8 police station, adjoining the engine house, transmitted it at 3:51 a. m.

At the same time an alarm was sounded. The engine company arrived on the scene, three miles distant, 15 minutes later, chief Cosgrove says.

Two Carnegie policemen were notified of the fire by a truck driver. They aroused the family of Porter, at 509 Noblestown road, and the Reitz family, at 515 Noblestown road.

CARNEGIE THERE FIRST

While Porter and Reitze were making calls to the city department, Patrolman Fred Mathias, of Carnegie, called the volunteer fire companies at Glendale and East Carnegie.

After notifying the volunteer companies, Mathias drove a half mile to Idlewood and Kirkwood streets and sounded an alarm from Box 3269, the nearest city box. According to Porter and Reitze, it was 4 o'clock when the city company arrived, and by that time the Glendale firemen had a stream of water pouring on the blaze.

FLAMES BREAK AGAIN

At first it was believed the family, which consists of Musico, his wife and five children, had been trapped, but a search of the ruins indicated that the family was not at home.

At 6:40 a. m., East Carnegie and Pittsburgh firemen were called again to extinguish a blaze which had broken out in the ruins.

According to Mr. Porter, East Carnegie firemen arrived at 6:50 in answer to that call, while the Pittsburgh company was not on the scene until 7:10.

Mate Held in Auto Theft, Young Wife Takes Poison

Her husband jailed for the alleged theft of an automobile, Mrs. Frances Firth, 18, of 1201 Sheffield street, attempted suicide in her home last night, police say, by drinking poison. She was reported in a serious condition in the Presbyterian Hospital.

Nelson Firth, Jr., the husband, is awaiting the action of the grand jury for larceny of an automobile. Firth and a companion were alleged to have stolen the machine from the North Side last Sunday and driven it out on the Library road where they crashed into the front porch of a dwelling.

Firth was to be taken from the county jail today to face arraignment in the North Side Police Court for an attempted holdup of a pedestrian in Sheffield street, Saturday night, according to police.

SEES DANGER TO RULE OF NATION

Terms Effort To Dictate On Supreme Court Selections Death Knell of Freedom

CLEVELAND, April 24.—Pointing to the marriage feast of Cana as showing the inconsistency of the contention that prohibition is Christian doctrine, Mrs. Carroll Miller, of Pittsburgh, assailed certain church organizations, in an address here, for their attitude on the liquor question. She spoke at the convention of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. In part Mrs. Miller said:

"Christianity should not be represented as a harsh and severe principle but as a gentle and compassionate way of life.

"As a Protestant I grieve that part of my church has through the Eighteenth Amendment delegated its duties to the state, and the result has been that some assemblages have exchanged their confessions of faiths for legislative enactments.

SEES PERIL TO FREEDOM

"The outcome has been an ever-increasing drawing together of church and state through the political activities of the Anti-Saloon League, which works only through the Protestant churches, the W. C. T. U. and the Methodist Board of Prohibition, Morals and Reform, with the result that we are now perilously close to a church-directed state; a condition unthinkable to every true American citizen.

"Not long ago in Pittsburgh, the Rev. Davis E. Cruea, head of the local Anti-Saloon League, stated publicly that his organization could not afford to have members appointed to the Supreme Court who might be out of sympathy with the Eighteenth Amendment.

"When any association, or organization, or any combination of citizens, no matter what their motive, seeks to control the highest court in the land then the death knell of freedom has sounded."

Utilizing figures for shrapnel in an oratorical bombardment of the Eighteenth Amendment, United States Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland, called upon the women's organization to demand repeal of the prohibition law and a return to state control of liquor traffic.

CITES DEATH TOLL

Senator Tydings charged that in Washington, where Congress has exclusive control over all legislation and the appointment of all officials, arrests for intoxication among young people under 21 is five times greater since the advent of prohibition.

In his attempt to prove that drunkenness, crime and deaths from alcoholism have all increased in the years of the amendment's life over the figures of the ten preceding years, Senator Tydings pointed out that:

Roads and public highways are three times as unsafe, owing to an increase of 300 per cent in convictions for drunken automobile drivers.

During the last 10 years, 1,365 persons have been killed with firearms in the enforcement of the amendment, or almost three every week.

The government is paying millions annually trying to enforce the law, and is losing about $400,000,000 in taxes which it once received.

Citizens of the country are paying one billion dollars more each year for liquor than they did prior to the passage of the amendment.

BLESSING OF POPE REQUESTED FOR NEW ARCHABBOT

BROTHERS PICK FATHER KOCH FOR POST

Bells of St. Vincent Toll, Priests Sing Te Deum as Election Is Consummated

By E. W. PRENDERGAST.

BEATTY, Pa., April 24.—Fourteen hundred years ago, a courier, mounted on horseback, left the earliest Benedictine monastery and sped to Rome with news that a new abbot had been elected, and to ask the Pope's blessing and confirmation.

This morning, by mail, a scroll containing 137 signatures was started for Vatican City. It told that yesterday, in St. Vincent Archabbey here, the Rev. Alfred Koch, O. S. B., had been elected to head the archabbey. The position was made vacant February 12 with the death of the Rt. Rev. Aurelius Stehle. It is likely that train, airplane, and steamship will carry the signatures direct to Pope Pius XI. Already a cable has been sent to Abbot Primate Fidelis von Stotzigen, head of the Benedictine order, in Vatican City.

EARLY CONFIRMATION

The Papal confirmation will be returned within a reasonable time. It is expected. Given the blessing, probably by Bishop Hugh C. Boyle, of Pittsburgh, Father Alfred will then become the only archabbot in the country.

The election, behind closed doors, started Tuesday afternoon and ended at 2:40 p. m. yesterday. Immediately after two-thirds vote was polled for Father Alfred, Abbot Ernest Helmstetter, who presided, named the abbot elected.

The bells in the country church tower tolled the message to the countryside, and less than half an hour later the 150 priests, 110 of whom were electors, filed into the church and sang the Te Deum. The Very Rev. Felix Fellner, prior of the archabbey, was celebrant, assisted by the Revs. Edmund Cuneo and Martin Wenner. Abbot Ernest, and Abbot Vincent Taylor, of South Carolina, and Abbot-elect Alfred stood behind the celebrant on the altar, while in the church the priests chanted.

BORN IN BAVARIA

Abbot-elect Alfred was born in Arzheim, Bavaria, October 19, 1879, and studied for the priesthood in German schools. He went to Rome in 1905, after his ordination as a priest, and studied at the College of Propaganda, leaving two years later to teach Greek and French at a seminary under the direct guidance of the Pope, and attached to the Archdiocese of Rome. In 1912, he came to the Sacred Heart Mission House at Girard, near Erie, where he taught until 1917. His associates say he is a master of eight languages.

Until 1917, a secular priest, he decided to join the Benedictine order and started to teach in St. Vincent's College. He taught homiletics, Scripture and exegesis, in the seminary there since.

Prior Felix, who has been administrator of the archabbey and college since the death of Archabbot Aurelius, will continue in charge until the blessing of Father Alfred takes place.

SEEK 2 IN $800 GEM FRAUD

A jewelry salesman who sold Samuel Weiss, tailor, of 503 Collins avenue, a quantity of glass, was being sought by police today.

A "distinguished-looking" stranger who was present when the deal was made and who appraised the glass as valuable diamonds, also is sought.

Weiss told police the "distinguished gentleman," who posed as a jeweler, was in his shop when a young man entered and offered a watch and diamonds for sale.

The alleged jeweler said the watch was cheap but said the gems were worth $4,000, and he and Weiss decided to purchase them for $2,500. Weiss drew $800 from his bank and turned it over to the men for the gems.

The two left, saying they were going to the jeweler's home for his share of the money. They did not return, and Weiss then discovered his gems were glass.

DAVIS DODGES POLITICS

"My notion of life is to do something every day that will be good for someone else," Secretary of Labor James J. Davis declared last night at a banquet in the William Penn Hotel under auspices of the Allegheny County Assessors' Association.

Davis, who is a candidate for United States Senator, strictly adhered to his policy of refraining from making a political speech at social gatherings, despite the fact that his companions at the banquet board included County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong, Mayor Charles H. Kline and other leading figures in local political affairs.

Davis stressed the importance of legislation beneficial to working men and women.

Judge James B. Drew, slated on the Davis-Brown ticket for judge of the Superior Court, and Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, western campaign manager for the Davis-Brown slate, addressed the Republican League of Pennsylvania at another meeting in Hotel Henry headquarters.

Secretary Davis spoke yesterday at a meeting of the Social Workers' Club of Johnstown.

Protestantism Lags, Says Church Leader

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 24.—(AP.)—Dr. W. G. Cram, general secretary of the board of missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, declared today that "with rich resources and with preachers equipped for preaching the gospel, Protestantism in general, and Methodism in particular has made a miserable showing in membership gains and in evangelism of the masses."

In his annual report he termed this situation "one of the scandals of American Protestantism."

Exonerate Druggist In Holdup Killing

Harry Bluestone, proprietor of a drugstore at 527 Shady avenue, today was exonerated by a coroner's jury in the killing of an unidentified youth during an attempted holdup of the store on April 9. It was the second attempted holdup on the store within a month. When the youth demanded the cash, Bluestone fired. The body has been held at the morgue awaiting identification.

TECH STUDENTS TEST PLANES

Aeronautical students at Carnegie Institute of Technology have an opportunity few aviation students get. They make actual model tests in a wind tunnel recently set up in machinery hall in the school of industries.

The wind tunnel, a device capable of producing a 160-mile-an-hour wind, was constructed under the direction of Lane Johnson, a former student and now instructor in aeronautics. Built entirely of wood, the test device includes the latest in wind-tunnel design and is considered one of the best and most accurate in this country today.

A scale model of the actual flying ship is supported by wires in the throat of two immense circular tunnels at the end of one being a large three-blade propeller driven by a large electric motor. Lift, stress and drag are recorded on instruments in every conceivable flying angle, giving the students an opportunity to study aeronautics without leaving the ground.

4 Russians Get Life In Kidnaping Plot

TIENTSIN, China, April 24.—(AP.)—Four Russians convicted of kidnaping Aaron Brenner, New York fur dealer, last November, were sentenced to life imprisonment today by a Chinese judge. A fifth prisoner was sentenced to five years.

Brenner was kidnaped and held for a ransom of $500,000. After nearly a week he was released.

Seven men were arrested on suspicion of belonging to the kidnaping gang.

City Clerk Found Slain After Fire

ALBERNI, B. C., April 24.—(AP.)—Authorities today were vainly seeking a motive for the mysterious shooting of City Clerk Martin M. Stephens, whose body was found in a vault of the City Hall after the building was destroyed by fire.

The clerk had been shot through the head. His wife told the police he had been worried since seeing two men prowling about the City Hall on Tuesday and had got up at 4 a. m. and gone to the office.

Safety Council Asks Increased Budget

Workers in the drive to increase the budget of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council to $40,000 a year for five years, today began the last day of canvassing in Western Pennsylvania counties. The council, which was organized 17 years ago, has been handicapped during the last year by lack of funds.

Women in G. A. R. Home Check Blaze

Women members of the board of managers of the Ladies' G. A. R. Home, at Swissvale, today were receiving praise for the manner in which they extinguished a fire in a bedroom at the home yesterday. Aided by a janitor, the women extinguished the blaze before firemen arrived.

State officers and many visiters were to attend an all-day reception at the home, marking the anniversary of its founding.

WIFE BAFFLES ATTORNEY

Mrs. Charles Johnston, pretty matron of Hope Hollow, who lives about half a mile from Heidelberg, matched her wits yesterday against that of Attorney John S. Wendt and apparently won.

Mrs. Johnston appeared as a witness before the Public Service Commission in the application of the Penn Bus Lines to operate a through line of busses from Federal by way of Woodville to Pittsburgh.

Mr. Wendt, representing the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, wanted to know if Glenn Stop was not near her place. She testified that the railroad ran right in front of her home. However, a "no trespassing" sign prevented her from crossing a railroad bridge and walking on railroad property, the only convenient way to get to the stop in question. There were no further questions.

She testified the proposed bus service would be a great convenience to hundreds.

Trapped by Fire, Woman Perishes

Mrs. Mary Toler, 63, Negro, was burned to death in her room on the second floor at 220 North Euclid avenue today. Firemen carried her down a ladder but she was dead upon arrival at Pittsburgh Hospital.

Charles Goeins, Negro, a roomer, was burned slightly trying to reach the aged woman. Negro garbage collectors for the American Reduction Company rescued James, 4, and Nathan, 3, children of James Butler, who occupied the first floor. The fire, of undetermined origin, caused 1,500 damage.

FINAL CHANGES TO GET FREE YO YOES

Friday and Saturday Last Days For Distribution; Big Contest Slated Next

What many of the boys and girls in Pittsburgh can do with a Yo-Yo, the tricks the little spinning discs can be made to perform, the tremendously great number of gyrations they can be induced to make, and the strange tantrums they go into under the skillful handling of the youngsters, are factors in making this the most fascinating toy of the period.

No wonder the Flores Yo-Yo has become the nation's fad and the boys and girls of Pittsburgh have eagerly adopted it as a pastime.

This is the last time to get Yo-Yoes free. Friday afternoon every boy or girl attending the Liberty, Regent or Manor theaters will be presented with a Yo-Yo. And so will be boys and girls who attend the Enright, Rowland, Schenley, Arsenal, Belmar or Plaza theaters next Saturday afternoon.

Then comes the thrill in this free distribution of Yo-Yoes by the Sun-Telegraph and Warner Brothers' Theaters — the Yo-Yo contest, the date of which will be announced in a day or two.

To get one free at the theaters you must have a special coupon clipped from the Sun-Telegraph. You'll find it on this page.

$25,000 ASKED IN TRUCK DEATH

Two trucks of the American Coat, Apron and Towel Company, apparently in a race with each other, caused one to strike and fatally injure James George Kirby, it was alleged by his widow, Mrs. Marie A. Kirby, of Hays street, Mt. Oliver, in a suit filed against the company in Common Pleas Court. She asked $25,000 damages for the death of her husband.

Kirby, a salesman, was attempting to cross Anderson street at Isabella street, to board a street car, September 17, when one of the trucks struck him, fracturing his skull and causing his death October 10 last, according to the suit.

Georges LaChance's Paintings Shown

A group of '14 paintings by Georges LaChance, known as the Master Craftsmen series, were placed on exhibition at the Keystone Athletic Club yesterday. The exhibit will be open today and tomorrow. The canvases are making a tour of the country, having been displayed in New York Milwaukee, Kansas City and Toledo. About 30 cities are included in the tour.

They were painted last year by Mr. LaChance in Toledo, and signalize the idea that in modern America, land of mass production and machine efficiency, there also are the finest artisans and craftsmen to be found anywhere in the world. The paintings are insured for $150,000.

Burglars Prison Pet Collie in Furnace

Prowlers who entered the home of Mrs. Lillian Liggett at 1111 Berkshire avenue, Brookline, found a good way of getting rid of Teddie, a three-months-old collie who created a disturbance when the strangers entered. The intruders kicked the dog and dropped him into the furnace. The fire had been extinguished.

Mrs. Liggett, hearing the noise, called police. Officers from the Mt. Washington station searched the basement and came to the conclusion that the intruders had carried the dog away with them. Then they left and Mrs. Liggett continued her search. Half an hour later she heard sounds inside the furnace and found her pet.

Pittsburgher To Marry In East

With snowflakes playing tag in the April breeze, it's difficult to realize that it is spring. But even the most gloomy follower of Diogenes knows that before departing, April will again become her sunny self.

Even a miniature winter's day cannot deter Cupid, or his willing victims. Even if it does snow in the springtime, young folks are getting engaged and married just the same.

One interesting engagement has just reached me today. The George Henry Gleesons, of South Orange, N. J., have made known the betrothal of their daughter, Dorothy Gleeson, to Charles Newell Fisher, son of the Charles Andrew Fishers, of Westminster place. No date has been set for the wedding.

Did you know that Mrs. John C. Reilly, of the Schenley Apartments, and her daughter, Mary Bertha Reilly, have closed their winter home in Miami? They have returned here and will leave soon to join Mrs. D. S. Roberts and her two daughters, Mary and Anne Roberts, of Aiken avenue, in Washington. The Robertsons are in Atlantic City at present.

Travel Chat

Atlantic City is popular as usual this spring. The Griffith Robinsons have been stopping at the Ambassador. At the Chalfonte-Haddon Hall are Mrs. John M. Phillips and her daughter, Anna Phillips, who's a student at Wellesley. After spending some time in New York at the Berkshire, Mrs. James Dawson Callery has left for Southern Pines, N. C.

The Cherry Blossom ball on Tuesday and the third annual rhododendron festival, to be held in June at Asheville, are among the events attracting folks to the popular North Carolina resort. Mrs. Thomas M. Cook, Jr., and Mrs. J. W. Scully are among those who have been at the Grove Park Inn, Asheville.

A week from tomorrow night will find everyone in Sewickley at the village circus the Child Health Association of Sewickley will give. There'll be a parade and pink lemonade and side shows and everything that goes with circuses.

Village Circus

Mrs. H. Raymond Freeman, Jr., is general chairman, and Mrs. James Barlow Cullum, Jr., and Miss Isabel Adams are helping her with decorations. Mary Rhodes and Mrs. James Leonard are in charge of entertainment; Mrs. Francis McKnight, of the peanut stand, and Mrs. Rowe McMahon, of the bird cage. And Mrs. Edward Wallis Woods and Mrs. Frank Williams will sell hot dogs and coffee.

Heading the band of clowns will be Bennett Edson, and in charge of the tin-type booth will be Frank Darlington and of the bingo committe, James West Arrott III.

Virginia Willock will sell cigarets and balloons. Mrs. William Galbraith will be in charge of the pop stand, and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Jones III, of the raffles.

Many Aides

There'll be a pony ballet under the direction of Jane Edson and William Galbraith, and in charge of the side shows will Mrs. Frank R. Stoner.

The Hanson Thomases and the William Booths will be in charge of dancing and James Barlow Cullum, Jr., will be among those telling fortunes.

FRINGED EVENING FROCKS GAINING IN POPULARITY

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, APRIL 24.—FRINGES ARE not on the fringe of the mode any longer. They have made a triumphant re-entry here, and there is scarcely a collection of importance that does not include a couple of fringed models to mark the all pervading vein of graceful femininity that characterizes the present mode. Fringed dinner and evening frocks on classical simple but finding much favor lines are just now, and there is an irresistible lure about such frocks if they are not overdone. Both satin and crepe de Chine are used with fringe, especially in black or white. Frequently the fringe is used on an ensemble with pleasing results, especially when the wrap is a short coat or cape. Women are not only accepting the very feminine fashion, but they appear to be downright grateful for the opportunity of again being their very charming and graceful selves, an opportunity that was gladly presented by the couturiers who were tired of lending their genius to the simple, straight, tunic-like up-and-down frock that seemed in danger of becoming uniform.

TWO SKETCHES are shown today of a fringed model by Lucien Lelong. The dress is a "robe de petit dinner" or a simple dinner dress. It is of black crepe de Chine and has a moderate decolletage and short sleeves. The bodice has an attached band in bolero effect dipping down in front. Trailing circular godets at the back of the skirt balance similar, but slightly shorter godets in front, while between these godets the sides of the skirt are covered with deep silk fringes.

* * *

THE OTHER SKETCH is of the coat and gives an idea of the harmony effected by the placing of the fringe on wrap and frock to properly balance. The coat is in reality a sleeveless jacket to which is attached a deep cape with heavy fringes.

Tuesday Musical Club's Year Ends May 6 With Al Fresco Affair

Instead of having the usual somewhat formal luncheon to close its year, the Tuesday Musical Club is planning an al fresco affair and will hold it in upper Memorial Hall, Tuesday, May 6, is the date. An amusing program has been arranged and members will be privileged to bring guests. Because of the fact that the luncheon will be under the supervision of the tea committee it is necessary that reservations be made at the club office, 4630 Fifth avenue, not later than Saturday, May 3.

The Tuesday Musical Club Choral will sing at the Pittsburgh Male Chorus concert tomorrow in Carnegie Music Hall. An interesting program has been prepared, with the two choruses combining in several numbers. "A Thracian Holiday," cantata for women's voices, composed by Harvey Gaul, director of the male chorus, and given its premiere a month ago before the Tuesday Musical Club will be sung, with the composer directing. Eeln Glenn Campbell, soprano, and C. Warren Kinder, tenor, will have solos in this number. Fred Lutz is pianist for the male chorus. The finale to the program will be by the combined choruses singing "Hail Bright Abode," from "Tannhauser," with Dr. Charles N. Boyd, choral director, conducting.

Few club women fill more speaking engagements than Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, chairman of the department of education, Congress of Clubs, chairman of the division of community service in the State Federation and president of the National Better Magazines Council. This week, for instance, Mrs. Miller has on her engagement pad: Tuesday, the Travelers' Club, a talk on "Home Safety;" Thursday, Oil City Federation of Clubs, "Citizens of Tomorrow;" Friday, Allegheny County Federation, "Better Magazines;" Saturday, Fayette County Federation, "Mothers and Daughters I have Known." Miss Miller will address a guest night meeting of the Child Welfare Circle of DuBois on May 5.

Country-wide Tests Establish Kelvinator as World's Fastest Freezing Automatic Refrigerator

THIS nation-wide test is welcome news to hundreds of thousands of home owners.

Everywhere men and women are demanding not only the well-known benefits of electric refrigeration, but more ice and faster freezing.

Kelvinator gives them both.

The accompanying table of tests of standard domestic Kelvinators, in 48 states and the District of Columbia, shows the amazing average freezing time of 80 minutes—from water to solidly-frozen ice cubes. NEWS AND COMMENT ABOUT EVENTS IN STAGE AND SCREEN REALM

Betty Linley's Love Led Sheridan to Write 'The Rivals'

BY GEORGE SEIBEL

AS the all-star cast of "The Rivals" is heading for Pittsburgh, to revive Sheridan's old comedy at the Nixon this evening, it may be of interest to recall the romantic story of that play, which grew out of Sheridan's own love affair with Elizabeth Ann Linley. Captain Mathews, with whom he fought several duels on her account, was undoubtedly the original of Bob Acres.

George Seibel

Bath, scene of "Beau Brummell" and "Monsieur Beaucaire," was also the scene of Sheridan's romance. Here his father was a teacher of elocution, Elizabeth's father a teacher of singing. She was a beauty with a voice of gold—a bishop said of her that she was "the connecting link between mortals and angels"—and bishops ought to know about such things.

Well, Richard's elder brother Charles was in love with her, and a wealthy bachelor named Long was in love with her, and Captain Mathews, though married, was also in love with her.

When she confessed to Long, to whom she had become engaged, that she did not love him, Long released her and settled 1,000 pounds on her. Mathews was harder to get rid of. He threatened to shoot himself if she did not listen to him.

The Nightingale of Bath took laudanum to escape her unwelcome suitor.

ELOPEMENT TO FRANCE

When Elisabeth Ann was saved from her attempt at suicide Richard proposed that the best way to escape her persecutor was to elope to France, where she could enter a convent for awhile.

Richard was following her sedan chair toward the London coach when they met the amorous captain. Presence of mind and a glib tongue on the part of the future dramatist threw Mathews off the scent, and in a few days Sheridan and his future bride were in France, where they were married secretly.

Mathews back in Bath was fuming with rage and printing angry advertisements in the newspapers calling Sheridan "liar and scoundrel."

Richard came back to chastise him. A duel was arranged in Hyde Park on which occasion Mathews shredded so many excuses that it must have seemed almost as funny as the scene between Acres and Capt. Absolute.

At last the duel was fought. Sheridan disarmed the captain but spared his life. Instead of being glad he had escaped, Mathews began a new campaign of defamation and slander.

Another duel was fought, in which foul play almost cost Sheridan's life. But this duel eliminated Mathews from polite society.

Samuel Foote, actor and dramatist, even made a comedy of Miss Linley's love affairs, calling it "The Maid of Bath."

AND THEN "THE RIVALS"

Out of these romantic doings arose "The Rivals." Richard Brinsley Sheridan's first comedy. Though his father thought himself a better actor than dramatist, the family was not rich. Though the voice of Miss Linley took Oxford by storm, Sheridan thought it would be a disgrace to have his wife sing in public.

He asked Dr. Samuel Johnson's opinion, and Samuel told him he had acted "wisely and nobly."

Even wise and noble people have to live, so Richard wrote "The Rivals" for Covent Garden Theater, expecting to make at least 600 pounds. But it was hissed and withdrawn after the second performance.

The old adage that plays are not written, but rewritten, came true. Revised and put on again 10 days later, "The Rivals" has held the stage ever since and a century later made a fortune for Joe Jefferson.

Sue Carol Philosophizes And Percy Marmont Goes to England

BY DOROTHY HERZOG

HOLLYWOOD, April 24.

Sue Carol rises to philosophize with illustration about consciences making us cowards. Sue says the director of "Tommy" yelled that there was too much noise and 16 extras gulped down their chewing gum.

It does seem that "hell" is taking its toll of spirit in the role of accepted respectability. For look you, "Hell's Angels," "Hell Harbor," "Hell's Heroes," and now "Hell's Island."

Sue Carol.

Paul (Leading Man) Page had put his young wife, the former Ethel Allis of Follies, talking aboard the Chief. Mrs. Page traipsed East to visit her relatives in New York and Massachusetts. The summer was Paul's for the backing. Until his dad, a railroad exec in the South, wired he was en route to visit his son for a couple months. What puzzles Paul is: Is his wife a darn clever plotter or did his dad just naturally blunder?

YOUNG LOVE

Bess Meredyth's small son, Jack, has a terrific crush on Joan Crawford. Last Saturday, his mother said he could come to the studio and she would introduce him to Joan. Now for this exciting occasion, and in view of the fact that Sunday was Easter, Jack had dyed a perfectly good chicken a brilliant purple. His Easter offering at the shrine of his goddess. To his regretful disappointment, Bess wouldn't let him deliver the royal bird to Miss Crawford.

Unabashed after meeting Joan, Jack confided to her all about the purple chicken and why she wasn't going to get it.

"But I'd love it," Joan said.

Jackie turned triumphantly to the fussed Bess and marched back to her office to get the squawking purple chicken. Wonder if Joan dares cook it. One can't trust dyes these days . . .

BRONZED COMPLEXION

Percy Marmont invested into the colony and answered himself a bronzed complexion on Ye Pacific sand spread. Percy returns to England tomorrow, where he is slated to begin talky work pronto in Edgar Wallace's thriller, "The Squealer." Mr. Wallace will also direct. Somebody was telling me t'other day that the reason Wallace's sundry yarns had not reached Hollywood celluloid was because a British kungsjay has his books sewed up.

Percy Marmont

They tell of the producer who thought Lester Cohen's Wall Street novel, "The Great Bear," was a Western story.

A MOVIE PREMIER

SCREENALITIES: Mrs. Al Jolson (Ruby Keeler) getting some summery frocks at friend's shop on the boulevard. . . Much a-dither last Saturday eve when John McCormack's initial vocalfest, "Song o' My Heart," opened at the Chinese Theater. The usual array of sunlight arcs, radio introductions and best bibs and tucks. Picture acclaimed with enthusiasm. Later Director Frank Borzage and his wife chucking a party for 16 at ye Embassy Club. Name your cinematic alphabet and you know who attended the opening of the McCormack film. Apropos of Fox, that kumpny has purchased Rex, the "wild horse" from Universal. Rex must now be well along in years. He was originally starred in Hal Roach two-reelers. Then Universal put the contract halter on him for a few flicks and ended by showing him green pastures. Hear tell Fox is cogitating with the idea of starring Rex in a picture Tom Mix' horse, Tony, appeared in some 12 months ago. Even horses are humiliated in the filliums! . . . This is a little out of my cubyum field, but the nearest expose of efficient motion picture methods is a book, ycleped "Maggie of the Suicide Fleet," by Prosper Buranelli.

"You will forget me soon," you softly said.
"There will be other girls to fill your days;
I will be but a ghost, serenly dead.
And you will follow newer, sweeter ways.

"You will forget me when another maid
Thrills to the words you whispered once for me;
Love is a hoax—a tinseled masquerade—
I may be wrong, my lad, but wait and see."

I will forget you? Why should I forget
Nights you made poignant with your witchery?
I played and lost, but I have no regret,
Only a warm and rapturous ecstasy;

I will go down the years with you in mind—
Clear-eyed and laughing, dear, and strangely kind.
—Kid Kazanova.

Geg

The boys who return from the Hollywood sector vow that the chin-ema magnates still make the funniest remarks with their dialects no matter the vigorous denials.

The latest testimonial concerns Herr Ziegfeld, who recently arrived out there to confer with the impresario about the movie version of Ziegfeld's show, "Whoopee."

"The first thing you have to worry about," said Ziggie, "is that you must find 300 Indians."

"That should be the least of my worries," replied the dialectician, "ve kin get all de Indians ve vant from de Reservoir."

By Way of Report

The local ticket speculators make their bows, even as you and I. When the Jed Harris production of Chekhov's "Uncle Vanya" polished off its rough edges in New Haven recently, the ticket brokers went there to look it over. They decided it was a lovely drama and that its star, Miss Lillian Gish, was delightful, but they refused to "make a buy" on the ground that the play was not "commercial."

"Uncle Vanya" not only drew rave notices from all the critics in New York, but this week will earn $20,000 without the help of the ticket agencies.

There's no fool, you know, like a wiseguy.

Oop!

The very terrible Mr. David Berger postcards: "A Broadway columnist is a guy who thinks he has to stay up all night."

Imagine

Billy Rose, the hit song writer and husband of Fanny Brice, had a quarrel with his wife that will most likely blow over by the time this is being read. The tiff was over this unbelievable reason: Rose, it appears, does all the business for Miss Brice. He arranged for her to play six days in the Mastbaum Theater in Philadelphia during the week of May 23. Rose got his wife $7,500 for the week, which is 5½ times more than the President of the United States gets a week unless, of course, he steals.

The reason Miss Brice is not talking to her husband is that the engagement calls for four shows a day.

The Broadway Way

He's one of the younger and less rum-soaked newspaper cherubs who drifted in from the Middle West three or four years ago, with an engaging grin, a rollicking sense of humor and facile fingers on a typewriter keyboard as his chief stock in trade. In some manner, most of the Broadway show crowd got to know and like him. Then, about six months ago, he disappeared from his usual haunts.

Only the other night he reappeared sadder but wiser. It seems he'd met the "right" girl, pretty but unpretentious, a home-girl with no thoughts of fame, furs and Fraschinis, and apparently devoted to him. He gladly strung along, only to get the proverbial knife in the back.

"It doesn't pay to let 'em know you love 'em," he confided, ruefully. "Play 'em all for pals and you avoid trouble. Broadway's got the right idea. Never be serious."

Imagine his embarrassment an hour later when two of his little pals exchange scratches and handfuls of blondined hair as they went to the mat outside the Apollo stage door to straighten out a mix-up in dates he had innocently maneuvered.

A-hem!

Take it from Heywood Broun, columnists who live in glass houses shouldn't throw paragraphs.

And They Hang Pictures!

The other day Dwight Wiman, the producer, desperately tried to get Ina Claire on the long distance telephone. He called her Hollywood home, and after two disconnections finally got her maid.

"Miss Claire is not home," said the maid.

"Can you tell me what time she'll be in?" asked Wiman.

"I don't know, she didn't leave word."

"It is very important that I get her. Have you any idea where she is?"

"Yes, sir," was the indifferent reply: "she's at the Algonquin Hotel in New York on Forty-fourth street."

Which is a stone's throw from Wiman's office.

Of All Things

After hearing Ethel Barrymore play a scene in her deepest tones, Bugs Baer observed: "If a barber were blindfolded and the three Barrymores were in front of him, he would shave Ethel."

Scene

In one of the night-to-dawning clubs a reckless-with-coin fellow bought a tank of wine and entertained his chorus girl guests in swanky style. The party lasted all night, continuing after all the other patrons had taken their departure. Knowing that the sport tipped liberally, all the waiters, busboys, entertainers and musicians remained and just as they anticipated, he presented his girl friends with $100 notes. The waiters were given $20 each, the bus-boys got $10 each and the others raked from 10 to 50.

His bill for wine and caviar sandwiches totaled $1,100, but before it was paid his bodyguard and chauffeur stood by to see that his man wasn't gyped on anything.

The bodyguard-chauffeur, incidentally, who so faithfully protects his master and sees that he isn't charged too much, gets a wage of $60 per!

MRS. FISKE TONIGHT IN "THE RIVALS"

Tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Nixon an all-star cast, headed by Mrs. Fiske, and including James T. Powers, Andrew Mack, Margery Maude, Georgette Cohan and Rollo Peters, will appear in Richard Brinsley Sheridan's farcical drama, "The Rivals." The engagement is for three nights only and a Saturday matinee.

Three new pictures open here tomorrow. Harry Richman is to make his screen debut in the Penn in "Puttin' on the Ritz." Alice White is to open in the Stanley in "Show Girl in Hollywood." And the Aldine is to present "Crazy That Way," featuring Kenneth MacKenna, Joan Bennett and Regis Toomey.

NEXT WEEK ON STAGE

Seats are on sale at the Alvin box office for the one week engagement, commencing Monday night, of "Babes in Toyland."

Barry Lupino heads the cast. In addition to the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees, there will be a special school children's matinee at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning, May 3.

"Nancy's Private Affair," a comedy, will be the George Sharp offering in the Pitt next week.

Phenomena, who has been a local radio feature for the last several months, will be the stage attraction in the Harris for a week, beginning Saturday. He will offer an entire show of mysticism and mind reading. The screen presentation will be "The Big Party," with Sue Carol, Dixie Lee, Walter Catlett and Frank Albertson.

"Hold Everything," Warner Brothers' comedy, starring Winnie Lightner and Joe E. Brown, opens in the Enright tomorrow in conjunction with the debut of Paul Spor, new master of ceremonies. "Hold Everything" will also open a second week in the Warner on the same day.

Lowell Sherman plays the role of a man about town in "Ladies of Leisure," which will open a second week Saturday in the Sheridan Square. Barbara Stanwyck and Ralph Graves head the cast.

Houses or Apartments? What do you prefer? You'll find both advertised for rent in today's Classified Ads.

Soap and Hard Water Alone Will Not Give Best Dish Washing Results

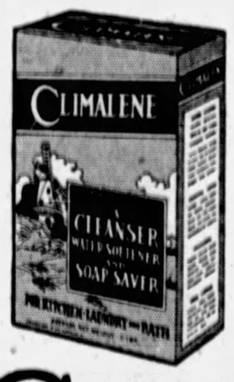
Local housewives claim amazing results when new water-softening cleanser is added in washing anything. Takes ¼ the soap—saves ½ the time



A NEW discovery is cutting dish washing time in half—eliminating greasy film on dishes and the scum in dishpan—the penalties you local women have been forced to pay for the hardness of city water.

It is not a soap but a water-softening cleanser that makes any soap more effective in cleansing results by changing "hard" water to "soft." And you need use only one-fourth the soap formerly needed. Results are like magic, say women.

10c PACKAGES 12 oz.

CLIMALENE

Water Softener and Soap Saver

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water. So soft that it does the work with ONE-FOURTH the soap you use now. And thus ends danger of "soap eat" to fragile things.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime. And thus cuts washing time, too—in either dishpan or washing machine—ONE-HALF or more.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1929 women used 24,000,000 packages of Climalene for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved

To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

We wash delicate lingerie, often 50 times—without perceptible fade. Children's rompers, 60 to 90 times. That's over a year's home washing.

We wash gold encrusted china hundreds of times—without a trace of gold gone. And thus prove the blandness of this way.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white. Then try it.

"New Herbal Flaxolyn Discovery Brings Amazing Power and Strength By Aiding the Action of the Liver, Stomach and Kidneys,"

Says Pittsburgh Doctor

DR. C. J. KRELLER, OF PITTSBURGH

Dr. Kreller Tells How Flaxolyn Feeds Health, Power and New Strength to Tired, Rundown Bodies

That Dr. Luntz's new vitaminized Herbal Flaxolyn tones the stomach—drives out toxic poisons that form in the intestines—acts as a helpful diuretic to the kidneys and gives gentle stimulation to the liver, is shown by the remarkable statement of a Pittsburgh doctor.

Dr. C. J. Kreller says: "One of the beauties of Herbal Flaxolyn is that it activates the flow of vital digestive juices—it makes food taste good—it helps you digest what you eat, and assists your body in deriving the MOST benefit from each meal.

"Just as bread and vegetables and milk and eggs are Nature's food for mankind, so certain roots, herbs, berries, seeds, barks and salts are Nature's medicine for mankind. I have examined the Flaxolyn formula and know it contains many of these natural derivatives, fortified by approved medicaments.

"I have personally used Flaxolyn and have positively been amazed by the quickness of results. Sound, unbroken sleep, greater energy and vigor, as well as keen appetite and normal bowel action, have been quick to follow. The complexion quickly becomes alive with healthy color."

Penna. Gastro-Intestinal Specialist Praises Flaxolyn

Dr. V. P. Fleming, M. D., M. S.

Flaxolyn a complete success in rigid tests of celebrated health school. Its superintendent, Dr. Fleming, tells how Flaxolyn acts, bringing ruddy glow of health to cheeks, and strength to internal organs.

On the Lincoln Highway, at York, Pa., is a health school where people come from all over to learn the greatest thing in life—How to Live. The director of this remarkable institution says: "We have carefully tested all sorts of health preparations submitted to us—mineral, saline, vegetable, etc. All of these we have rejected. Only Flaxolyn have we accepted and fully endorsed."

How Flaxolyn Works:

The above illustration shows the mechanism of the human body. Like all machinery, you have to take care of this HUMAN machine, OR IT WILL RUN DOWN AND GET OUT OF ORDER. If you treat your body right, your health stands a greater chance of being right. If you neglect it, you make yourself liable to attacks of one sickness after another. The purpose of Flaxolyn is to help keep that wonderful body of yours in PERFECT RUNNING ORDER.

In the belief that there was agreat need for a scientific herbal formula, Dr. Luntz made a great study of botanical medicines. After long research he perfected a formula which helped him win back his own health, when he suffered a complete breakdown due to overwork.

Over TWO MILLION packages of this formula have been sold under the name of FLAXOLYN in powder form. Now Dr. Luntz announces the greatest achievement of his life—pleasant-tasting liquid Flaxolyn.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

Barry Tells Chickie That He Is Going Away

CHAPTER LXVIII.

Chickie's hands winding under his; Chickie's eyes wet against his face. He felt them. Never get away from that—clinging to him.

They followed him into his room, repeating with a shrill wildness the scene of the night. He walked back and forth trembling, pushing his hair from his forehead, saying to himself, "Oh, Lord!"

He saw her putting her hands pitifully over her face, crying. His pace quickened.

In this flaming disturbance he was aware of one restive, unalterable desire—escape. Get away from this—no use trying. He had tried.

And the thing he had dreaded happened—flying at each others throats. Couldn't go on now — hopeless — utterly. One scene after another.

He sat at his desk, pressing his fist against his mouth. Her fingers crept to his neck, drew his head down. They were a deadly weight. He wished to unfasten them. The pretty eyes held him; the little pointed chin trembled.

And he was forced to look at them. They dwelt in his imagination, living, tender, accusing. They were a torture.

They brought before him the vision of himself. He saw this now, relentless and scathing, as another might; saw the hot, impetuous youth taking with such imperious demand her sweetness, her beauty.

He was repelled by this image, for now the senses that had cried out so blatantly were quiet and the flush of expectance in his veins dead. He knew this, had known it for some time.

A long while since Chickie had drawn him from the shadow to his window, since he had thought of her a thing of lilies and stars sitting so brightly above him.

He was years—many years—removed from the buoyant, laughing fellow who had driven her down the highway that first Sunday, falling asleep against her arm, reading poetry to her, boasting of his "Lost Days;" stealing the kiss she didn't mean to give.

Blind Persistence

And from that other whose heart bounded so madly seeing her beauty—claiming it for his own.

He could look at Chickie quietly now, for he was grown used to the chiseled delicacy of her features; accustomed to her flippant caprice. They no longer startled his pulse with joy.

His mind disputed her sway of his senses; appraised coldly her attraction. Pretty thing, full of love, the lure of her had gone thundering to his heart. But it sent no deep echoes to his spirit. He was aware of this long before he admitted it. He had denied it, tried to force a bond here between them.

As he thought this, the image of Chickie, biting her lips — telling him with such desperate looks, stirring her thought. And she had laid her soft cheek on his murmuring, "Tell me you love me. Tell me that, Barry—"

So he had kept on in a kind of blind persistence. He wouldn't be the one to end it. Go on, even into misery rather than face the issue; rather than meet the frantic, hurt reproach in her eyes.

It had come, despite him; despite her. Now, even in its cruel bitterness was the touch of relief. Better so. Not suited to each other. They could never anguish: "You go—Go! You'll not throw things up to me!"—that image stalked into his mind and shook him.

Barry Writes Letter

But after a long while he said: "Better for her, too." They couldn't go back now—could never make it up. He couldn't. Of his love there was left but a disturbing pity. And even in this was a tinge of boyish resentment. If Chickie hadn't looked at it so—if she hadn't watched him, waiting for hurts?—Yet he knew that no matter what Chickie's attitude had been, sooner or later his tumult would have stilled.

He meant to write her a letter. Let them not see each other again. He was going away. Not on that trip. She shouldn't think that—but going away—had to get away—

He drew out the paper, but when he started to write his vivid imagination brought her so piercingly before him; all his tenderness aroused. Hurt her so—make her chin double like that—

Hours later he came back to the task. He had to. Get out of this town—and soon—

"You say that I don't love you any more, Chickie. And you blame me for this. But am I the only one that has changed? And did I seek this? You know that I haven't. I would have been glad to go on always as we did in the beginning. I never thought it could be otherwise.

"It is, though. You see this as well as I. You've felt it, you say. And there is nothing for us to do, that I can see, except to meet it.

"But I don't see why this fact, Chickie, should rob us of the past, or why we should censure and hurt each other in our regret. I loved you and you cared for me. Because this emotion was not rugged enough to last is no reason why we should blame it and ourselves now.

"And if you can make yourself look at it quietly, isn't it much better to have a break down now than later? Going on as we have these last weeks we would only end in hating and reviling each other. The parting would be shameful where it need only be sad. Do you want this? I don't. Why should we sacrifice all the happiness we knew together merely to this bitterness of its end? We shouldn't!"

Visits Chickie

Then he went back to that past, asserting their rights to it, asserting its beauty. And he recalled a dozen incidents and said he'd give his heart now if they could have remained joyous like that, always.

Chickie, reading the letter, drinking back tears, was swept into the glow of the yesterday; swept past the cruel shock of his going into the warmth of his regrets.

The first part of the letter she forgot and the last telling of his plans to leave she ignored. But these paragraphs, vital as his hand clasping hers, she took to her heart—she read them again and again until the words became a song of hope.

He wished it could have remained. And couldn't it? Oh, couldn't they start again?

She phoned: "You'll come and see me—just for a moment, Barry?"

"Only make it harder, Chickie."

"Not for me—"

"All right. It may be late. I won't have long—"

She went into her room and dressed—a warm, melting sadness running up about her throat and near to her eyes. But it was the sadness of music that holds in its deepest pain the undertone of joy.

Only when he came—late that evening after Jonathan and Jennie were in bed—only then and she saw the whiteness of his face, the drawn, thin look about his mouth, did she comprehend this undertone.

Chickie Heartbroken

They stood looking at each other. They talked quietly. "Barry, I didn't mean what I said . . . you remember, I was excited. I was frantic."

"Don't think of it, Chickie. I knew you didn't."

Then, oddly enough, he told her a joke he had heard . . . told her funny old scraps of notes that he came across when he sorted all his papers.

She lowered her head. Finally she said: "You're going to be gone long, Barry? A long, long time?"

"Most likely. I'm not sure. There's nothing to lose now by going. I may visit my mother. She's been ill, you know."

She glanced up and saw a momentary restless light in his eyes. She said with a vague amazement: "You seem glad to go, Barry—" then her heart shook. "You are glad to go—"

She spoke softly with a little broken question in her breath. Her hand of its own wild longing trembled and searched for his.

He took it, drawing in his mouth, trembling: "Chickie—well—isn't it better so? What else—what else can we do? You see it. We can't go back, Chickie, listen—wasn't the love we had beautiful—"

She closed her eyes, standing quiet in the darkness that fell upon her mind. "It's over, Barry? Oh, you speak of a thing that is dead—"

Now her voice dropped lower; now her heart bowed with its deadly weight. She swayed a little. He steadied her with his arm. He murmured gently: "Chickie—oh, can I help it? I wouldn't have it so. You blame me—you blame me for it all—"

She said with a little, breathless sob, "No—not blaming you. Oh—I gave you all I had—oh, all, and now I don't know what to do without you. And I can't ever take it back—"

He answered, his face an ashen pale, "I gave my best to you. I gave you the first love I ever knew. I gave it gladly. Even now I wouldn't want to take it back—"

"Even now—" a faint cry. "Then it is so! All so! You will go? Oh, you are going away to leave me. You're glad to go? No—oh, this can't be so—"

She pressed her open hands against him, found his arms about her. She lay quiet against him. After a while she whispered, "Barry, kiss me—"

His lips were cold. They touched her closed eyes, pressed her mouth. They felt as though she were lying in a coffin, and now on her face they dropped the chill reverence of death.

Keep Busy and You Will Avoid Boredom, Is Fay King's Advice

By FAY KING

TO THOSE WHO FIND the days all too short in which to accomplish all they must do and all they wish to do, it is hard to conceive of anyone being so completely bored with life as to wish to die.

Yet, not so long ago a rich girl committed suicide saying she was so bored she was tired of life.

Keeping so busy that time does not drag is the best tonic and mental stimulant there is.

Most of us have to work for a living, and have little time to spend at our hobbies and outside interests, but this in itself makes life more interesting.

Lazy folks are never happy no matter where you meet them. Keep busy and you won't be bored.

Madge's Father's Advice to Be Sought

"There's the mystery of your key," mother said. "You see, you're not headed for the asylum after all. You didn't drop it nor did you put it away in your sleep, although that probably is what Hallam intended you to think."

"But if he used it last night—" Mrs. Thorr shook her head in bewilderment as we climbed into the car. "I don't see how he could have got it back into that drawer. I always keep that chest locked at night and the key with the others in my room. Daytimes it's always open. But I could take my oath Hallam was never in the room alone since I got up. He couldn't have put it back this morning."

"He probably didn't have to use it last night," I said. "I'm sure it was not your key which unlocked that door last night, but a duplicate. There's a shop which does that work in any one of five towns within easy motoring distance of here. Think! Hasn't there been any day since you last saw the key that he could have slipped it out of the drawer, kept it for several hours and put it back without your knowledge?"

From her seat beside me—for Mother Graham will never ride in any position but the right-hand seat of honor—Mrs. Thorr struck her hands together.

"Yes, four days ago was my wash day, and I had trouble with my hens, too—some of 'em were sick. I remember saying to Jerry and Sam that I'd leave something on the stove and they'd have to get their own lunch, for I'd be too busy even to look at 'em all day. That Hallam heard me say it, too. He could have taken the chest of drawers out in his car that morning and I don't believe I'd have noticed it."

"That was the time he managed it you may be sure," I replied "But we are almost at the farmhouse, Mother, shall I drop you here while I go on to Mrs. Thorr's. I thought I saw you shivering a little while ago."

"You'll probably see me shivering again," she rejoined tartly, "but that doesn't mean I've got to be wrapped up in cotton wool. You drive straight to Mrs. Thorr's so she can leave that note for her men folks."

We carried out the program meticulously. Mrs. Thorr leaving a note sufficiently mandatory to bring her hungry son and husband to the farmhouse kitchen. Then we returned to the farmhouse, where Mrs. Thorr went into executive culinary session with her ancient enemy, Katie.

Once within the house, my mother-in-law permitted her iron will power to yield to her weakness and went to her room to lie down, while I hurried to Katherine to find out if my father had yet awakened.

But I did not need to question her. I found my father in the nursery, Junior enthroned on his knee, with the remnants of an appetizing breakfast before him on a low table—Katherine's thoughtfulness, I knew.

"Father!" I exclaimed in alarm, checking his embrace. "Your arm!"

"It is nothing," he returned, lifting it and putting it around me to meet the other. It hasn't quite such hugging power as the other one today, that is all."

He kissed me fondly, but I had noticed that he had winced involuntarily when he lifted the arm, and as he released me I saw that there were fine little beads of water upon his forehead. I looked at Katherine and she shook her head disapprovingly.

"I can't do a thing with 'The Chief,'" she said, giving him the name that we all affectionately called him in the days of our war secret service work. When that man shot the pistol from his hand he received an ugly knock which is most painful."

The Marry-Go-Round

Those Wives!

Marriage is the point at which a girl stops biting her lips to keep from telling a man that his shirt front is bulging, or that she had heard his favorite joke seven times before.

Many a woman has made a life-long friend out of a man just by divorcing him.

No bride really knows anything about marriage until she has discovered the distance from a man's office to his home is at least twice as long as the distance from his home to the office.

Solomon was a font of wisdom, but nobody knows how many of his bright sayings and snappy epigrams he picked up from his wives during his little domestic disagreements.

A man has been known to give up a woman because she was "too good for him"—but never to relinquish one because she was too bad for him.

Most girls lose their illusions with their baby teeth these days, and have their romantic ideals removed with their tonsils.

Woman will concede that man is the Efficient Sex when he succeeds in inventing some garment that doesn't have to carry half a dozen little devices around the waistline so that he can hitch himself together and look like a single object.

Out of 400 women students in a Western university only 23 admitted they were looking forward to marriage as a vocation. The rest, no doubt, are looking forward to it as just a little diversion—an adventure, an experiment—or at last resort. Which is another grand outlook for the winter population at Reno!

Knowing that your husband owes you everything may be a comfort—but the big feat is knowing how to collect it!

Funny how a man will return after three weeks roughing it in camp and have a brainstorm because his bath water isn't just the right temperature.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Bridal Showers

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

My brother is engaged to be married. Would it be proper for me to give the girl a shower?

MRS. H. J.

There are no definite plans about the giving of showers, who should give them and who should not. I wish that this were all worked out in the world of good manners. But, lacking such definitely laid out rules, all we can do is to use our own judgment about it. Of course, showers always rest under the cloud of being "begging parties," and certainly, when members of the immediate families plan to give these showers, the accusation often seems deserved. So you must weigh in your mind how you think your friends would consider this party that you are planning, and proceed according to your best judgment and best taste.

Introducing Yourself

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

In business it is often necessary for me to introduce myself. Which form is correct, "I am Miss Mary Brown," "Miss Mary Brown" or "M. L. Brown?" M. L. B.

"I am Miss Brown" is correct unless for some reason "I am Miss Mary Brown" registers your identity more definitely. That is, if you have a distinctive name—Montgomery, for instance—all you will need to say is "This is Miss Montgomery." To say "This is Mary Brown" or "This is M. L. Brown" would not be correct, in business.

Appropriate Shades

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I intend to be married soon and would appreciate it very much if you would let me know whether I could wear a flesh-colored dress and veil instead of white? LOIS.

Yes, if your wedding is to be informal. The conventional white wedding dress and bridal veil establish the formality of a wedding.

Acknowledging Gifts

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Will you please advise me how soon after marriage should one acknowledge wedding gifts?

2. How does one sign one's name, that is, to friends not intimate enough for one's first name alone? Would "Edith Brown," the new name, be correct, or "Edith Jones Brown," the new and old name, be better? E.

All wedding gifts should, as far as possible, be acknowledged before the wedding. The really correct thing is for the bride-to-be to write a note of thanks at once for every present that is received. That is, at the end of every day she should have thanked for the presents that have been received that day. Thus, when she leaves for her wedding journey, she will have thanked for all the presents that she has received except the ones that may have arrived on the day of the wedding.

2. If the notes of thanks are written after the marriage, the bride may use either form: Edith Jones Brown being the one oftener used, since usually the bride wishes to retain the last name of her maiden name.

Also, if there is any need to inform the reader of her formal married name, this would be enclosed in parenthesis after her direct signature.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, April 25

A lively and possibly turbulent day may be anticipated in both business and personal affairs, according to the predominant lunar transits. Although the aspects are of a generally fortunate complexion, yet the predisposition toward impulsive and tempestuous conduct should be held in restraint if the presaged benefits are to be permitted to accrue. The energies will be under high pressure, with a tendency to rush, headstrong and headlong, into difficult places. With calmness and self-control all may be turned to advantage.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a lively year in private and business affairs, but there are certain perils to be encountered by a tendency to rash, hasty and tumultuous conduct. With self-government and moderation many profitable situations may be developed and the urge to bold strokes made fortuitous.

A child born on this day should be resourceful, energetic, versatile and socially accomplished, but it should be given early training and discipline in self-government and complacency.

Household Hints

Before proceeding to wash colored materials, allow them to soak for an hour or so in cold water to which a generous amount of salt has been added. This keeps the colors from fading during washing.

Can you tell a poor fish from a good one? It's a simple matter if you heed a little advice. The one that you don't even want to take into your kitchen, let alone your dining room, has eyes that are no longer clear, but dull and shrunk into the sockets. The flesh is no longer resilient, but pits if pressed against the sockets. That to a discriminating housewife is a "poor fish."

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Daily Sun Bath.

There is an old Italian proverb which says: "Where the sun does not go the doctor does." From the earliest times the sun has been known to give wondrous benefits to animals and to man, plants of the field, and to all living things.

DR. COPELAND

The great benefits that lie in the sunlight as creators of health and in prevention of disease are beginning to be better known in the light of present-day research. In the past the beneficial action of sunlight has been attributed in large to heat rather than to light. Now we know that the action of light in killing germs is of immense importance in promoting a healthy condition of the tissues in man and in animals.

Observe the domestic and farm animals and poultry. They seek out the sunlight. It adds to their content. Farm animals, as the farmer knows, require a certain amount of direct sunlight for physical well-being. And so does the human being.

Sunshine is essential to life and health. A daily sun-bath would restore many a semi-invalid to health if properly taken. The trouble is that people will not take the time and trouble to get the direct rays of the sun.

If we only could have just the thing needful our houses would be filled with windows. They would be thrown open wide to let in the air and the full rays of the sun.

How many know the powerful disinfectant that the sun is? The germs of disease wither with long exposure to the sunlight. Take tuberculosis. The doctors tell us that in some localities this disease is on the increase. But tuberculosis is curable. With fresh air and sunshine good food and complete rest this disease can be put to rout.

Rickets is one of the most common diseases of childhood. Lack of fresh air and sunshine and under nourishment are responsible for thousands of cases annually. This deficiency disease has been successfully overcome by the right food and by cod liver oil, or "bottled sunshine," as it is called.

Now that the spring and Summer months are upon us, there will be opportunity for everyone to get out into the fresh air and God's sunshine. Be out-of-doors all you can. After the long winter months, many a child and thousands of adults need the stimulating and healing powers of the sunlight.

It is remarkable what recuperative and disinfecting powers lie in the sun's rays. For the well person, for the semi-invalid and for the bed-ridden patient the direct rays of the sun are life-giving. Disease are benefitted by it. You cannot be physically fit unless you have it.

Much experimenting is going on with certain kinds of window glass which enable the ultra-violet rays, those life-giving rays of the sun, to penetrate. It is well known that ordinary window glass does not enable these rays to filter through. But as yet such glass is not in common use because of the expense.

Light therapy is being carried on, too, by means of the various lamps. All these things are helpful, but rich and poor alike can have God's good sunshine at this time of the year.

Make a good resolution to be out-of-doors in the sunshine every day, every moment possible, in the coming months. Build for health and happiness.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Keep active, beauty seeker. Keep busy. You can throw away the rouge compact if you exercise. The capillaries which give color to the cheeks are so tiny that their walls are transparent; they allow the passage of a single corpuscle at a time. Muscular activity stimulates the capillary system, cheeks get rosy, blue lips redden, wan complexions lose their waxy whiteness. No woman can be lazy and enjoy the vivid beauty that comes from vitality and health.

Breathing exercises: Inhale slowly through the nostrils, using the diaphragm; exhale through the mouth with a gusty out-rush of air. Giving the lungs an air bath twice a day will do a lot toward reddening the cheeks, putting lights into tired eyes and aiding the digestion. The restless sleeper is benefitted by ventilating the lungs before dropping into slumber. Deep breathing accelerates circulation and soothes the nervous system.

Every woman should have work to do and health-bringing play of one kind or another—tennis, golf or long walks. Outdoor recreation puts one's brain house in order and gets ragged, sizzling nerves under control. To stay in the house day after day is to lose zest and zip. Fresh air and sunshine are pep-carriers. Every woman needs them, no matter what her age may be or her job.

To believe that massage will reduce thickened ankles is to have a blind faith in miracles. The trick can be turned by hard, muscular exercise, twisting the feet from side to side, sending them about in circles, lifting up on the toes. Pedaling a bicycle will slim down hulky shanks, as will certain mechanical machines that can be found in any well equipped gymnasium.

Brushing removes dust and dandruff from the hair and proves a means of bringing luster to the strands. Best of all, it serves as a ventilating system, lifting each hair away from its neighbor and giving it the air. It is doubtful if brushing has any vitalizing effect upon the growth, considering that the new hair sprouts under the surface of the skin. To stimulate the blood streams of the scalp, massage is more effective than brushing.

Doors

Some doors I pass, though shut with bolt and bar,
To me seem always standing half ajar,
For friends behind those kindly portals wait
With whom I find a welcome, soon or late.

Some doors mean nothing, neither joy nor pain,
Nor shining dreams that dawn, nor hopes that wane,
For careless strangers through them come and go,
Who know me not, whom I shall never know.

And other doors with grim forbidding stand
To block my way, nor have I at command
An open sesame to enter there
And face my enemies' relentless stare.

If ever I should pass along a place
Where every doorway seemed a smiling face
And all were welcome in those calm retreats,
Then I should know I trod on Heaven's streets!

RALSTON HEMSLEY CHARLEY HARGREAVES PAUL WANER SCORES ONLY RUN MANAGER ENS MAKES A SNOWBALL

For the first time in history, the weatherman yesterday laughed at the Pirates' efforts to open the season at Forbes Field by breaking up their game with a driving snowstorm. Play was halted temporarily in the third inning in the hope that the snow would let up and finally the game was called off entirely. During the battle and wait, players huddled on the benches protected by blankets. Paul Waner made the only run of the abbreviated tilt in the first inning on Comorosky's triple after Paul had been hit with a pitch by Eppa Rixey. The elements were particularly cruel to Pitcher Larry French, of the Pirates, who had held the Reds hitless for three innings and struck out five and seemed set for a masterly performance over the full route.

SNOW NEWEST BAR TO LID-LIFTING

TO HAVE AN opening game interrupted, and then called off, on account of a snowstorm was just about the only kind of obstacle that Barney Dreyfuss had not encountered prior to yesterday in trying to get a new baseball season under way in Pittsburgh. In his 30 pervious years as head of the local club, the Pirate owner has been confrontd by practically all other sorts of difficulties possible in staging home inaugurals, and it remained for a snowfall to round out the long list.

Barney Dreyfuss

One year it was a flooded ball park. Another time it was a street car strike that was not settled until almost the last minute before the opener. Again it was a heavy fog that threatened until noon to force a postponement, while such more commonplace obstacles as rain, cold weather and wet grounds have bobbed up a number of times. But the Buccaneer boss always has adhered to the policy of going through with a curtain raiser on the day scheduled, if at all possible, and postponed curtain-raisers here have been rare.

THE GREATEST DIFFICULTY ever experienced in getting a baseball season started in Pittsburgh was encountered in 1901, while the Pirates were making their home at old Exposition Park, on the North Side, then the city of Allegheny. The opener that year, scheduled for a Thursday afternoon, had to be postponed twice and was not played until Saturday.

The cause of the delay was the backing up of the swollen Allegheny River through the Exposition Park sewers, inundating the playing field. The waters receded on Thursday night, but left the field so muddy that there was no chance to play on Friday, and it was necessary to burn gasoline on the infield during Friday and Friday night to dry out the surface sufficiently to make possible the playing of the opener on Saturday.

OTHER GAMES IN the major leagues, even in this city, have been postponed on account of cold weather and snow, but yesterday marked the first time within the memory of the oldest fans that a game once started in the big show was stopped by a snowfall.

To see a ball game interrupted by snow was the most novel experience of local fans since they watched a contest played through to a finish on a flooded field, a game, that Clarence Beaumont, Pirate center fielder, topped off by falling headlong into the water after making the final putout.

Clarence Beaumont

THAT NOVEL NUMBER was played at Exposition Park on the afternoon of Friday, the Fourth of July, 1902, with the Brooklyn club opposing the Buccaneers. The water from the rising rivers had backed up through the sewers into the park during the morning contest, and at the close of that game parts of right and center fields were submerged. When playing time for the afternoon game arrived the water in the park had risen until it was within 20 feet of second base, entirely covering right and center fields, but rather than disappoint the holiday crowd of 10,290 fans that had turned out, it was decided to go through with the scheduled event.*

THE RIGHT AND center fielders had to stand knee deep in water, and a ground rule was adopted restricting the batter to one base on any ball knocked into the lagoon. Despite the conditions, some striking catches were made in the inundated territory. Cozy Dolan, playing center for Brooklyn, contributed a feature in the fourth inning by dashing through the water and make a sensational one-hand capture of a fly from Fred Clarke's bat.

Dolan had four putouts in the water during the afternoon and Beaumont had two, but neither Lefty Davis, in right field for Pittsburgh, nor Willie Keeler, in right for Brooklyn, had a fielding chance. Keeler picked out a little island for himself and stuck persistently to it while his team was in the field. When Beaumont caught Dolan's hoist for the final out in the ninth inning, he put the finishing touch to a damp day by falling into the flood.

CONSIDERING THE CONDITIONS, the game was remarkably well played. The only error was a bad throw to first base by Claude Ritchey, of the Bucs, in the third inning. Umpire Bob Emslie kept

Amplifiers Placed In Reeves Stadium

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., April 24.—A system of amplifiers whereby spectators in every corner of the Reeves Stadium will be kept in close touch with athletic events, will be thrown into use by Geneva College here Saturday when the school plays host to 62 high schools in the second annual interscholastic track and field meet.

The amplifiers were to have been first used in the meet scheduled for last week with West Virginia University. Bad weather caused a postponement of the West Virginia meet until April 30.

ANDY MARTIN IS WINNER OVER DUNN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Handy Andy Martin, Boston's little veteran featherweight boxing wizard, strutted his dazzling stuff again before a Pittsburgh crowd last night to win the decision over Johnny Dunn, of New Kensington, in a 10-round battle marking the reopening of the downstairs arena of Duquesne Garden for boxing. A fair-sized crowd turned out for the inaugural, despite the sudden change in the weather that chilled them as they sat through the program in the spacious hall.

MARTIN DUNN

Martin's victory was achieved by a comfortable margin, for he won eight of the 10 rounds, with two, the fifth and sixth, even, yet at no time was Dunn disgraced in playing second fiddle to the tune of the Boston ringmaster. Dunn himself is a sterling boxer, and he never broke ground or covered up or hung on. At all times he was boxing along with his opponent

CARDS TO OPEN SERIES HERE TOMORROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The Reds leaving with nothing but two postponements under their belts, the Cardinals are due in Pittsburgh tomorrow morning for two games with the Pirates. Today's scheduled contest with Dan Howley's crew was postponed on account of snow and cold weather, thus bringing to a close what was to have been a two-game series, but which did not develop an official ball game.

Manager Jewel Ens was anxious for action today, but both he and Owner Barney Dreyfuss also considered the health of the competing athletes and the health and comforts of the patrons of the game as they canceled the contest.

SPOILED BY SNOW

The home opening game between the Pirates and Reds yesterday afternoon was spoiled by a snowstorm which grew in such intensity that play was stopped in the third inning with the Pirates leading, 1 to 0. Larry French, opposed to Eppa Rixey on the mound, had fanned five batters up to the time of the moment of the cessation of hostilities. Paul Waner scored the only run of the game in the first round when he tallied from first on a three-bagger by Comorosky. Paul had been hit with a pitched ball.

The home inaugural was attempted under scenes that were unmatched in the baseball history of the city. The cool weather of the morning and mid-day gave way to the snowstorm that left the Oakland Orchard under a white blanket. About 16,000 fans braved the elements to watch the fun.

Manager Ens' hospital list now holds three big aces, Second Baseman George Grantham being added to the ailing squad. Grantham twisted one of his ankles in the last game in St. Louis and it bothered him so much yesterday that he was out of the lineup. Stuart Clarke was at second in his place. With Suhr, Clarke, Bartell and Engle in action, the Buccos sported one of the youngest infields yet seen in action on a big-

WASHINGTON, April 24.—That London Disarmament Conference is only just finished and the Yankees are sunk already. Remember a couple of years back everybody was worrying because the Yanks were so powerful they ran away with all the pennants. Well if they run away with this season's pennant they've got quite a pole to climb. This is backward spring. It has been something awful but it is a great inspiration for the pitchers, they will pitch their heads off in cold weather like this to avoid a shower bath. There's a tip for that National League race. Watch Pittsburgh's Smoke!

Hack Lost One in Sun— Gus Loses One in Snow

By THE BENCHWARMER.

Well, folks, we didn't expect anything like that. Down where I live we get a little snow, but some of the boys from Californy never saw a snowstorm before and you couldn't blame Gus Suhr if he had a brainstorm when he was trying to get under that foul fly.

Guess he looked a little like Hack Wilson in the series. We couldn't keep from laughin at Gus as he backed away and fell over like a guy taking one on the chin and there wasn't nothing heavier than snow-flakes hittin' the Dutchman.

That's a swell way for a Native Son to get initiated in the East—out there on a ball field

SNOW, COLD CURTAIL MAJOR LEAGUE CARD

PHILLIES, CUBS AND BROWNS VICTORS

Associated Press.

Between them the Brooklyn Robins and Philadelphia Phillies have about the greatest array of sheer slugging talent any pair of teams in the two major leagues can produce, but they haven't displayed it to a very good advantage through the first games. Their blows were rather weak and ineffective until they got together yesterday and then there were more than plenty.

It all started when Fresco Thompson, Phillie leadoff man, stepped up to the plate in the first inning and drove the ball into the stands for a home run. It didn't end until the ninth inning when Spotts, the third Phillie catcher to appear, took advantage of an error by Flowers to romp home from third with the run that gave Philadelphia a 16-to-15 victory. In between there came 38 hits, 21 of them going to the Phillies; a parade of pitchers and pinch hitters and one big scoring rally after another.

TEN HURLERS USED

Starting with Jim Faulkner and ending with Bill Clark, the Robins used six hurlers while the Phillies called on four. In all 35 players took part in the game. Southern and Thevenow, of Philadelphia, and Frederick and Flowers, of Brooklyn, took the leading slugging roles, yielding only to Chuck Klein's third homer of the season.

The Brooklyn-Philadelphia was the only major league game in the East which survived the wintry rigors of the weather. One Western contest in each league reached its end, while Pittsburgh tried to hold its home opening against Cincinnati, but gave it up in the third inning when a snowstorm swept over the field.

The Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League last season, got back above the .500 mark by beating out the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 5, in the other National League game. The Cubs got five runs in the third inning only to have the Cards get them all back again before the ninth.

GRIMM STARS FOR CUBS

Charley Grimm came through in the ninth with his third hit of the game to bring Hack Wilson home from third with the winning run. Charley Root, winning his first game of the year in three starts, outlasted a trio of Cardinal pitchers.

The St. Louis Browns were the only American Leaguers to increase their average, defeating the Detroit Tigers for the second time in succession, 5 to 1. Dick Coffman was rather stingy with hits, although generous with walks, but the two Tiger hurlers, Herring and Samuels, gave freely of both at the time that counted. Schulte led the Browns with three hits in as many times at bat and was on the scoring end of a double steal.

Opener Ducats Good for Any Contest

The fans who were disappointed through the inability of the Pirates and Reds to finish the home opener at Forbes Field yesterday will have a chance to see any game this season. Secretary Sam Walters, of the Pirates, issued the following announcement relative to the exchange of tickets:

"Rain checks and full tickets for Wednesday's game are good for any game the balance of the season, but must be exchanged at the regular ticket offices of the club for the game desired."

expecting to see nice green grass and havil a snow storm hit you.

TOUGH ON NATIVE SONS

I don't think Cummy will show up for today's game. He had to take an awful ridin' in the clubhouse after the game was over. You see when we was havin' some rough weather at Paso Robles, Cummy did a lot of poppin' off about Pennsylvania weather. Every time it would rain at Paso Adam would shout so Larry French, Dick Bartell, Ray Kremer, Gus Suhr and Stevie Clarke could hear:

"So this is California—well, wait till you get to the grand Old Keystone State and you'll see some baseball weather. That's a place you can hold a sweat without gettin' double pneumonia."

When them Native Sons looked out at left field yesterday they couldn't see Cummy for snowflakes. Boy were they ridin' Adam—none of them missed him and Cummy couldn't do anything but smile and try to keep away from them.

Gus Suhr said he was hearing so much about smoke in Pittsburgh he was afraid he would have a hard time pulling the fire out of the smoke but nobody told him to get ready for snowflakes and he was unprepared. Gus said he expected to see Santa Claus back up to the clubhouse with his reindeers to take him to his room.

Well, my roomie, Larry French, looked pretty sweet out there, anyhow. It takes more than a snowstorm to stop that guy and he would have kept pitching until they dug him out of a drift if the umpires hadn't called the game. I was rolled up in a big blanket most of the time, but I got a big kick out of it.

BAKER, ARTURE TO CAPTAIN PANTHERS

By JESS CARVER.

Whatever honors are to be due the leaders of next season's Pitt basketball team will be divided evenly between Eddie Baker and William Arture, who answers best to Willie. This was announced last night at the annual Pitt varsity cage banquet held at the Faculty Club.

Dr. H. C. Carlson appointed Baker and Arture co-captains after it was announced that the plan of appointive captaincies, inaugurated with the naming of Baker to the leadership of the football team, was to be carried out in all branches of sport at Pitt.

Baker and Wee Willie both seniors, will be finishing up their varsity careers next season. Both are guards, if that means anything.

Last night's banquet was featured by short talks by Don Harrison, Coach Carlson, George Kowalhis, Charlie Hyatt and Baker and Arture.

The Tipoff

Lafayette's opening day bought at Forbes Field was knock for a snowball instead of a hit.

It was a bad day for straw skimmers but a great one for the wearers of fur lumps. Overcoats were at a premium and ice cold pop went for a dime for any dozen.

After the second inning the only spot on the field that was not snow covered was the territory which Cummings's Legion occupied. Otherwise the game was called because the outfielders began to get on in the snow drifts.

Ethan Allen revolted the Indians stayed at the Seventh Mountain Boys under the first Ethan Allen of Pennsylvania when the slow stepped Eagle's fly in the first frame.

The big feature of the abbreviated ball game was the sensational catch of Cummings's first ball hit by a slow-footed fan. The fan almost drove over on and then 17 neighbors in capturing Cummy's fatal out.

Among those seen shivering over the fence: Pinky Martin, Mac McMillan, John Herrin, Marie (Red Head) Mallaroy, Jack Clawson, Al Geiger, Charlie Hyatt's kid brother and Bill Schragen.

Commenting on the red windbreakers of the Reds Manager Dreyfuss said it was a good thing the club was not opening in Kansas, where the heavyweight title fight was another British invasion.

The first hot dog engineered a complete getaway, slipping out of the protective enclosure of the bun and dropping from the third tier onto a first base box.

After the first inning the score would have been a proper setting for the poet Whittier to have written a new Snowbound. The Bureau of Highways declared the outfield impassable and the game was called off.

After the snow became so thick that it was impossible to tell the size of the chews in the ball players' cheeks, the umps stopped the game to save the spectators from absorbing unnecessary punishment and too many snow flakes.

EHMKE 36 TODAY

CHICAGO, April 24.—(AP.)—Today is Howard Ehmke's 36th birthday, and he probably will receive a lot of nice greetings, but it is not likely that the Philadelphia Athletics' pitcher will receive any from the Chicago Cubs. The assorted members of the National League champions who struck out enough to total 12 in the first game of the 1929 world series will not forget Ehmke, nor will they remember him on his birthday.

BUTCH ANNEXES NEW BOXING CROWN

Another divisional amateur boxing championship has been added to the conquests of the Willow Athletic Club, of Lawrence Park. Wearing the colors of the Willow Club, Mose Butch last night won the 118-pound title of the Middle States Association of the A. A. U. by gaining a three-round decision over Chief Webster, of Milwaukee, in the final of the tournament held at the Y. M. C. A. of Gary, Ind.

In the semi-finals, Butch won a three-round decision over Milo Koory, of Grand Rapids.

Of the three other boys who represented the Allegheny Mountain Association in the Gary tournament, one got as far as the semi-finals. He was Don Asto, of Uniontown, 126 pounds, who lost the decision in that round to John Nancy, of Gary.

Jimmy Ganotti, 135 pounds, and Paul Slobada, 147 pounds, both of Uniontown, were eliminated in the earlier bouts.

WOLGAST WILL RETURN BELT

PHILADELPHIA, April 24.—(AP.)—Midget Wolgast, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as world flyweight champion, suspended indefinitely by the State Athletic Commission for failure to return a championship belt he had borrowed from the commission, said last night he would return the trophy to the custody of Chairman Frank Weiner today through Frank Donato, an inspector of the board.

The belt was supposed to have been won by Wolgast two years ago when he defeated Willie Davies, of Charleroi, in a 10-round bout at the Philadelphia arena for the Pennsylvania flyweight title. It was donated by the arena corporation on condition that it be held by the commission as a perpetual trophy.

Several weeks ago, Wolgast borrowed it for photographic purposes, promising to return it on April 14. He failed to do so.

After having been promised four times that the belt would be delivered, Chairman Weiner ordered Wolgast suspended.

Capt. Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner, the other ailing stars are on the mend, especially Traynor, who could go to his position if the weather moderates. But Pie will be out for some time yet. The powers that be do not wish to take any chances on his eye ailment. Lloyd Waner's return is very indefinite. He is somewhat better, but still far from normal health.

Either Remy Kremer or Jess Petty will face the Cardinals when they open here tomorrow; that is, if a contest is played.

DRAKE RELAYS

It is regrettable that the Penn and Drake relays come at the same time this week-end, but out in the Middle West the games at Des Moines are just as important as the Penn games are to the East. Certainly a comparison of the marks made in recent years has not been to the disadvantage of the Drake affair.

Knute Rockne

Indications are that the class and numbers will be greater than ever.

Leland and Bracey, the two star sprinters from Texas, will find plenty of competition in the 100 from Tolan, of Michigan; Meyer, of Iowa State, and Ford, of Northwestern.

Michigan looks like the class in the sprint relay and has perhaps the best sprint team in the country with the possible exception of the University of Southern California. It is too bad the Trojan should repeat its indoor victories in the one-mile relay.

The two-mile relay looks like Notre Dame, with Northwestern furnishing the main competition. It is hard to say which school has the best four-mile relay team because the University of Pennsylvania ran away from the field at the Illinois indoor carnival. However, Butler, Wisconsin, Indiana and Nebraska all have good timber and any one of these may step out and win. The medley relay should go to Marquette, which has won this event both at the Illinois and Texas relays.

Sentman, of Illinois, should win the high hurdles and may flirt with a record or two. Putnam, of Iowa State, also will do some tall, wide and handsome running in the two-mile open. Warne, of Northwestern, in the pole vault; Nelson, of Butler, in the high jump; Gordon, of Iowa, in the broad jump; Behr, of Wisconsin, in the shot-put; Canby, of Iowa, in the pole vault; Shelby, of Oklahoma, in the high jump; McDermott, of Illinois, in the pole vault, and Baush, of Kansas, in the weights, are a few of the super-stars whose work in the meet will be watched with a great deal of interest nationally.

SUN-TELEGRAPH PURSE PRIZE

WHEELING, W. Va., April 24.—The feature race of this afternoon's card at the Fair Grounds will be the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph purse of $800, the sixth event of the afternoon.

The race, at five furlongs for 3-year-olds and up, has drawn a fine field of eight thoroughbreds.

Merry Windsor, winner of the Hotel Windsor purse, and Buchon, the thoroughbred that established a new world's record in the five furlongs here on Monday when she covered the route in 1:00 2-5, will very likely rule joint favorites.

Old Kickapoo, a great sprinter that has yet to hit its stride here at this meeting, will also have plenty of backing. The remainder of the field, Jean, Fleeting Fire, Patsy H, My Girl and Favorite II, will also have plentiful support, for all these horses have run a number of good races, and Patsy H. Jean and My Girl have won races.

PRIMO TO BOX IN TIA JUANA

SAN DIEGO, Cal., April 24.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera, Italian heavyweight boxer, has been signed for a fight in Tia Juana, lower California, Sunday, May 18, it was announced yesterday by Harry Pollok, representing business men of the border city.

Carnera's opponent has not been selected but Pollok said an effort would be made to secure Leon Chevalier, Negro heavyweight of San Francisco, who recently met Carnera in Oakland.

PITCHER SOLD

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—(AP.)—Jack Knight, right handed pitcher of the San Francisco Seals, has been sold to the Atlanta Club of the Southern Association, George S. Putnam, secretary of the Pacific Coast League baseball club, said today. Knight, who pitched a no-hit no-run game two seasons ago, once was with the Boston Americans.

Every day more thousands Renounce the HABIT of paying 10c

Every day, new thousands of smokers admit the fallacy of paying 10 cents for cigars when they can get the same solid enjoyment in WHITE OWLS at 3 for 20 cents.

Their judgment is sound.

They get a mild, cool smoke of fine tobacco; made only by super-sanitary machines in model factories. No wonder 10 cent smokers switch to WHITE OWL by the thousands.

the players moving at a rate prevented any delays. A boy armed with a towel was kept busy drying the baseballs, and every time a sphere was knocked into the water a dry one was substituted.

The Pirates won the unusual game, 4 to 0, Jack Chesbro pitching them to victory over Frank Kitson. This gave the Rovers two shutouts over Brooklyn in one day, the locals having won the morning game, 3 to 0, with Jesse Tannehill pitching against Eustace Newton. Kitson, who pitched for Brooklyn in the afternoon event, died only a week ago.

George Grantham

WITH PIE TRAYNOR and Lloyd Waner already absent from the lineup, the Pirates suffered another hard blow yesterday, when a practice mishap aggravated an injury to one of George Grantham's ankles, hurt on Monday in St. Louis. The fine start made by the locals this year certainly is not due to any smiles from Dame Fortune. The loss of three players of the caliber of Traynor, the younger Waner and Grantham would appear to be enough to wreck any club, and the fact that the Pirates continue to show a fine spirit under the severe handicap speaks volumes for their gameness and the manner in which they are being handled by Jewel Ens.

LARRY FRENCH HAD started out in a fair way to surpass the spring achievements of Bill Hallahan, Cardinal southpaw, when yesterday's wintry interruption cut him short. Hallahan defeated the Cubs in his first two games this year, holding them to four runs and seven hits.

French held the Reds to one run and two hits in defeating them last week, and yesterday he appeared to have their number again. In three innings he held them hitless and fanned five batters, apparently being headed for a big afternoon when the game was called. Restricting a club to two hits in 12 innings is rather a fair grade of spring pitching.

THE THIRD DEATH within a week in the ranks of old-time ball players occurred yesterday at Cleveland in the passing of Larry Twitchell, 68, who played for Detroit and Cleveland in the '80's. Last week Frank Kitson, former Baltimore, Brooklyn and Detroit pitcher, and Jack Stivetts, old Boston and St. Louis flinger, were called to the beyond.

Twitchell, one of 44 players to make six hits in six times at bat in a game, was one of only three batsmen ever to make five extra-base hits in a single game. A home run, three triples and a double were included in his six hits for the Cleveland Nationals on August 15, 1889. The only others ever to make five long hits in a game were George Strief, of the old Athletics, and George Gore, of the Chicago Nationals, in 1885. Twitchell's total of 16 bases on hits in a game has been beaten only twice—by Bob Lowe in 1894, and Ed Delehanty, in 1896, each of whom made four home runs and a single for a total of 17 bases.

Clarence DeMar.

AGE MAY CUT down the champions in other sports, but apparently it doesn't affect the stars in what would seem to be the toughest game of all in the tax it puts upon endurance—marathon or long-distance running. Far from being weakened by the passing of the years, the topliners among the plodders appear actually to improve as they become older. Clarence DeMar, who won the Boston marathon for the seventh time last Saturday at the age of 42, is only one of a number of old boys who have distinguished themselves at distance grinds. Alf Shrubb was still cracking records at an age when most athletes are done in other sports, Tom Longboat was improving with each passing season until he quit, Joie Ray became a marathon sensation after he had been adjudged too old to continue competition at shorter distances, while as for the long-distance walking game, Edward Payson Weston, Dan O'Leary and Jim Hocking were still turning in impressive marks when past 70.

MAY SHIFT CUP FINAL TO MONONGAHELA

LARGER CROWD IN PROSPECT AT SPEEDWAY

By TOM BIRKS.

There is a movement on foot to try and get the National Amateur Cup committee to change the venue of the National Amateur Cup final, featuring Gallatin and the Raffles Club, of Fall River, Mass.

The game has been scheduled for Westinghouse High School field one week from Saturday, but the Gallatin fans, backed by the mayor of Monongahela, feel that the game should be played at the Speedway, either on Saturday or Sunday.

There is little doubt that the upriver sportsmen are right in their desires to take the game to the Speedway. It is to the Gallatin following that the committee must look too for support for the game. If the Speedway is selected and fair weather results, the game ought to go over big.

In Pittsburgh the soccer people will have to battle a big counter attraction with the Pirates playing Brooklyn, and the Westinghouse Stadium is not the best place in the world in the matter of making the fans pay to see the game.

In fact, as many people are outside of the field as are in the stands. That is what Gallatin will have to contend with. The Speedway field is in good shape, and the grounds are totally enclosed. So everything seems to favor Monongahela. The Gallatin club officials are going to petition Secretary John McEwan to change the venue.

Saturday soccer in Pittsburgh is a dead issue. Only one game, the national amateur final between Heidelberg and La Flamme ever going over. Maybe the upriver soccer fans may be able to put the game over better than the Pittsburghers.

and fighting to the body and head in the clinches, while late in the bout he scored several good rights to the chin that momentarily halted Martin. Andy's edges in experience and speed proved the determining factors. They gave him the whiphand, and he had little difficulty in setting the pace, which was fast throughout.

DUNN-RODGERS MATCHED

Being between a couple of boxers, neither of whom has been reputed for his punch, the bout naturally lacked socking thrills, but lovers of ring science saw much to admire in the work of both men.

Martin left this morning for Columbus, O., to proceed from there to Los Angeles by air for a bout with Goldie Hess on May 5. The same night, Dunn will box that long agitated and buffeted about battle with Jackie Rodgers at Motor Square Garden. Marty Gold, who went 10 rounds with Rodgers at the Moose Temple last Friday night, will box Frisco Grande, Filipino flyweight, in another 10-rounder, making it a double windup card. A few weeks ago, a Rodgers-Dunn bout would not have needed any such backing up, but both have been beaten since then, Rodgers by Archie Bell, and this takes much of the edge off a meeting now.

Both Dunn and Martin weighed 125½ pounds at 3 p. m., for their bout last night.

In the scheduled eight-round semi-final, Jackie Wilson, North side middleweight, and a Jewish novice from Cleveland misnamed Jimmy Mason put on what had all the earmarks of an act, with Wilson holding up his overmatched opponent and purposely missing punches until Referee Al Grayber and the crowd both got on him and made him cut loose. It developed into a terrible exhibition, with Mason finally going down under a left and a right to the jaw in the third round for the count. Wilson weighed 157 and Mason 154½.

GALLAGHER STOPS PERRY

The surprise of the night was furnished in the second bout, in which Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, outfought rugged Jimmy Perry, of Alliance, O., all of the way until the sixth round and then knocked him out in that round with a right flush to the jaw at the only time in the bout when Perry was having the better of the going. Perry tried to get up at nine, groggy, and miscalculated the count and was ruled out, as both the referee and knockdown timer completed the toll before he could get to his feet. Gallagher weighed 132 pounds and Perry 130½.

Sammy Goldstein, of the Hill, 147 pounds, came from behind to punch Johnny Brown, of Lawrenceville, 146½, about at will in the closing stages of the six-round opener and really deserved the decision, which went to his opponent on the votes of the judges. The referee properly voted for Goldstein, but to no avail.

Al Grayber refereed all of the bouts and the judges were Joe Keally and Red Robinson. Chappy Couch and Max Zeugschmidt were the timers and Bill Schuster did the announcing. The club will offer for its next attraction, next Wednesday night, a double windup card, with Young Saylor, of Charleroi, boxing Freddie Mueller, of Buffalo, and Marty Gold, of Philadelphia, meeting Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, in the two 10-round bouts.

DOUBLE WINDUP TONIGHT AT M'KEESPORT

McKeesport returns to the professional boxing stage tonight with a double windup card, offering Russell Bradford, of Pontiac, Mich., against Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill, in the main event, and Chuck Taggert, Butler heavyweight, against Gus Duncan, of Cleveland, in the other 10-rounder.

Russ Bradford

Bradford is reported to have fought Roger Bernard, conqueror of Tony Herrera, seven times, and has met a number of other good ones, doing most of his fighting around Detroit. Brannon has been coming along well, his only serious setback having been a 10-round knockout defeat by Joey Goodman at Duquesne Garden recently, after he had put up a good fight until that time.

Jackie Wilson, Negro bantamweight, meets Jack Benton, of Braddock, in the second bout and Jackie Griffiths, of the Hill, and Eddie Hetzner, of Clairton, will box the opener.

Between Rounds

The card has been completed for the Battling Gizzy-Bobby Young show at the Moose Temple tomorrow night with Cowboy DeLora, of Lawrenceville, against Jackie Murray, of the Hill, in the semi-final; Frankie Portland, of Ambridge, against Billy Holt, of Canton, O., in the second bout, and Roger O'Brien, of Chicago, against Joe Potts, of Charleroi, in the first event.

Jimmy Thomas, popular Negro bantamweight, of the Hill, will meet either Bud Dempsey or Jack Benton in the semi-final to the Phil Tobias-Tommy Palacios fight at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night.

Freddie Edwards and Jackie Hermann will box the main bout of a show at East Liverpool, O., next Tuesday night. Ross Fields will be one of the principals in the semi-final.

Young Rudy and Ted Yarosz box the main bout at the Washington (Pa.) Coliseum next Monday night. Cowboy DeLora and Harry Dewolfe, will box the semi-final.

Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Billy Edwards, of Etta, will box the main bout of a show at Franklin, Pa., May 9. Lee Sala is in with Leo Genet for the semi-final and Judy Morsa with Louie Severo for the second bout.

Tiger West, flashy Negro middleweight, of Donora, is ready for action again following a layoff of six weeks.

Billy Flanagan boxes Cliff Becker and Jesse Duke meets Tony Brown in feature bouts at Clearfield, Pa., tonight. Other bouts carded tonight include an amateur show under the auspices of the Pastorius A. C. in Lithuanian Hall, Mokees Rocks; Frankie Raymond vs. Frankie Johannes and Mario Lamar vs. Al Matera in New York and Salvatore Saguera vs. Fay Wee Joe Jarrell at Miami, Fla.

Dr. Brown Leads In Pistol Tourney

Dr. J. R. Brown and his shooting mate, Allen, retained their position at the top of the list in the revolver shooting contest being held nightly at the Sportsmen's show at Motor Square Garden, by turning in good scores last night.

The Pittsburgh team defeated the Woodlawn team last night by a margin of 34 points.

I. K. S. to Sponsor New Sports Night

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement is to inaugurate a new sports night. Next Wednesday at 7 p. m. the Settlement will hold its first play or recreational night. At this time the various clubs will have club games.

Fight Results

At Duquesne Garden—Andy Martin defeated Johnny Dunn, 10 rounds; Jackie Wilson knocked out Jimmy Mason, 4 rounds; Peaches Gallagher knocked out Jimmy Perry, 6 rounds; Johnny Brown defeated Sammy Goldstein, 6 rounds.

At Oakland, Cal.—Jack McVey defeated Joe Roche, 10 rounds.

At Cincinnati—Harry Fierro won on a technical knockout over Corporal Izzy Schwartz, 9 rounds.

At New York — Oscar Goldman and Benny Tressito drew, 6 rounds; Lou Lampert and Steve Clifford drew, 6 rounds.

Sport Vignettes

When the mad winds blow and we gaze upon snow—that's opening day! . . . . Dick Hogan, of our composing room, who hadn't missed a home opener in 24 years, made it an even 25 yesterday and probably won't last to see another one . . . . That pneumonia atmosphere is not so easy to shake off . . . . Any of the fans who bought tickets for yesterday's version of Whittier's Snowbound may have their rainchecks rubber-stamped to read snow checks if they will keep them for souvenirs and not use them for admittance to later games . . . . And they may be framed at a very small cost . . . . Promoter Jim McGirr will try something new to get the fans out for his boxing show in McKeesport tonight . . . . It will be an old-fashioned dunkin' party . . . . Of course, it's silly, but the dunkin' will be done by Gus Duncan, who fights Chuck Taggert in one of the 10-round bouts . . . . Might even say they'll chuck the dunkin' party . . . . Apples Meyers, of the Meyers Bowl Meyerses, of North Braddock, left last night for a trip of several days in the East during which he will try to line up some important matches for his outdoor abbatoir . . . . He will stop off in Philadelphia to phenangle with Tommy Loughran about a match with Lou Scozza, the latter already having accepted, and in New York he will try to sign Kid Chocolate and Black Bill for future dates . . . . All fans are given just two guesses as to the identity of Black Bill's opponent if he fights here . . . . James (Red) Mason is in Chicago, from which point of vantage he is sending back those letters for which he is famous to the folks he likes and doesn't like in Pittsburgh . . . . Jim Long, in his col'm yesterday, wrote about the baseball longevity of Elmer Knetzer, South Hills pitcher, who, at the age of 45, with 27 years of playing behind him, is starting off another season with Binghampton in the New York-Pennsylvania League, which reminds Al Grayber, the boxing referee, about a conversation he had with Elmer when the latter was pitching for Al's old team in Esplen some years ago . . . . "How do you manage to keep on fooling these hard-hitting clubs?" Al asked Elmer . . . . "That's easy," was the reply. "All you have to do is just stick in there and keep pitching and let them beat themselves. . . . Just let your team get a few runs behind you and then stick in there" . . . . And Elmer hasn't been doing anything else but sticking in there all of these years, and how! . . . . Carl Shatto's team won the championship in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Duckpin League and his teammates attribute it to the fact that he missed six nights' rolling.—HARRY KECK.

MIDDIES CARD MATCH

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 24.—(AP.)—The first step toward making golf a team sport at the naval academy was sent here to the starting of a match to be played Sunday on the Annapolis Roads course. A team of ten midshipmen will be matched against a group of 10 officers.

SCHOOL TRACK TEAMS OPEN RACE TODAY

Weather permitting, and permitting better than it did for the opening of the baseball season here yesterday, the Pittsburgh high school track and field campaign will get under way this afternoon with the staging of a series of dual meets.

Competition this year will be carried on in four sections, each school of each section meeting each other once and all competing in the finals for the city championship in the Pitt Stadium June 5.

Today, in Section I, Peabody Juniors and Baxter Juniors will clash at Baxter. Gladstone Juniors and Westinghouse Juniors meet at Westinghouse.

The Section II batting will bring together the Fifth Avenue Junior and Senior teams against Schenley Junior and Senior squads. Herron Hill Juniors and Seniors meet Ralston at Ralston.

In Section III, Carrick Juniors tackle Overbrook. South Hills Juniors engage Knoxville Juniors, and South's Senior and Junior teams meet Langley at Langley.

Allegheny Senior and Junior outfits engage Perry in Section IV, and Latimer Juniors take on Oliver.

WILLIE McKAY,
Longue Vue Club.

Willie McKay, handsome young professional at the Longue Vue Club—perhaps you know him better as William Ross McKay?—has only been a professional golfer for the last seven years or so, but that does not tell the years he has been a skillful player at the game. For years before Willie came to this country in 1921 he was rated an exceptionally fine amateur player in Scotland—he comes from Carnoustie, as does his brother, Dave, at the Pittsburgh Field Club, and a lot of other district instructors. After two years of ordinary business life in the United States and a fair amount of amateur competition, Willie quit the simon pures and accepted a berth at the Essex County Country Club, in West Orange, N. J., in 1923. He stayed there until three years ago, when he became affiliated with Longue Vue, and he's been at the Verona course since. Among his youthful athletic endeavors, McKay was a soccer player and fan, having played for the Bankers' S. C. Full of humor, Willie has made a host of friends here.—VERN SWARTSFAGER.

HUNTER VICTOR BY DEFAULT OVER BELL

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 24.—(AP.)—Francis T. Hunter, of New Rochelle, advanced to the semi-finals of the Mason and Dixon tennis championship yesterday by claiming a default from Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., after the youthful Texan collapsed when he was within one point of the match. The startling finish was not satisfactory to the large gallery but the committee was unanimous in supporting the decision of the referee, S. Howard Voshell, to whom Umpire Beals C. Wright appealed for final ruling.

Wilmer Allison, Jr., of Austin, Tex., eliminated John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Cal., No. 3 ranking player, earlier in the afternoon, by a pretty display of aggressiveness in four sets. The score was 7-9, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2.

John Van Ryn, of South Orange, N. J., earned the right to oppose Hunter in the upper bracket of the semi-finals by defeating Gregory Hangin, of Newark, N. J., 1-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-2.

George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, defeated Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., 6-0, 6-4, 6-2.

Today Hunter will play John Van Ryn while Lott will meet Allison.

The Hunter-Bell match was the outstanding contest at the time of Bell's collapse from a painfully cramped leg as the players held two sets each, with Bell leading six to five in the fifth set and with the vantage point.

IT'S TIME to change to..... summer grades of oil

IT'S WISE to change to.....

AMOCO MOTOR OIL 100% PURE PARAFFINE BASE

"as good as the gas"

As far as your motor is concerned, it's been a long, hard winter. Plenty of snow. Plenty of ice. Plenty of bitter, cold weather causing frequent use of the choke.

The oil in your crank case is thin. Mixed with dirt and sludge. Badly diluted. All worn out and eager for a decent burial. It's time to change to a heavier grade of oil suitable for spring and summer driving.

There'll be a lot of driving to do this spring. On warm days and chilly days, on smooth roads and rough ones. To protect the costly moving parts of your motor you'll need an oil that will lubricate promptly—stay on the job with ample body even under the most trying conditions.

It's wise to change to Amoco Motor Oil. Have your spring greasing done today—at any company-owned station or Amoco dealer.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Rally — Local Stocks Steady

STOCKS RALLY AFTER EARLY DECLINES

Losses Substantially Cut Or Converted Into Gains; Long List Rises 1 to 7

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—The Stock Market displayed another complete reversal of form today, selling off in the morning when pressure was resumed against the coppers and a wide assortment of specialties, and then rallying briskly under the leadership of the amusements, public utilities and rubbers. By early afternoon, many of the early declines had been substantially reduced or converted into gains, and a long list of issues was selling 1 to 7½ points above yesterday's final quotations.

The day's business news failed to provide much stimulus to bullish enthusiasm. Another flock of quarterly earnings reports made their appearance, and most of them made unfavorable comparison with the first quarter of last year, but there was a few conspicuous exceptions, notably Yellow Truck and Air Reduction. Settlement of the gasoline price cutting in the Dutch East Indies between the Standard Oil of New York and Royal Dutch-Shell interests, coupled with predictions of an early increase in California crude prices and a probable segregation of the Natural Gas properties of Standard Oil of New Jersey, brought fresh buying into the oil shares.

COPPERS LIQUIDATED

Widespread predictions of a further cut in the price of copper to 12 cents a pound, although lacking official verification, caused heavy liquidation of the copper shares. American Smelting, Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, Inspiration, Phelps Dodge and Andes all dipped to new low levels for the year, most of the losses being held to a point or less. Early reduction in dividends by some of the high cost producers is looked for.

J. I. Case, which recently recorded a spectacular advance into new high ground, broke 15 points to 340 on realizing, but quickly snapped back to 357. Allied Chemical sold down 6½ points and United Aircraft dropped 6 in response to the new agreement for the acquisition of National Air Transport stock on a basis of three shares of National for one of United. Gulf States Steel fell 5 points and Columbian Carbon, Checker Cab, Brooklyn Union Gas, Pittsburgh Coal preferred, Gotham Silk Hosiery, Continental Baking A, Hudson Motors and several others sold down 2 to 4 points.

RADIO IN DEMAND

Radio was heavily bought in the early afternoon, crossing 69 to a new 1930 high for a gain of more than 3 points. Shubert Theaters ran up over 7 points to a new top above 21. Keith-Albee preferred, Pathe A, and Radio-Keith-Orpheum advanced 1⅜ to 3 points higher to new peak prices.

International Telephone crossed 77 to a new peak for the year and Louisville Gas and Electric touched a new high around 50. Peoples Gas jumped 4½ points and Electric Power and Light, Goodyear Rubber, Goodrich Rubber, U. S. Rubber first preferred, Ingersoll Rand, Worthington Pump, Air Reduction and United Carbon all advanced 2 points or more.

Business Conditions Continue Spotty

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS are spotty. A study of the activities of the major industries shows distinctly mixed trends. A few lines are enjoying a good rate of activity. Some have been showing a gradual improvement since the beginning of the year while many lines have not been up to early expectations.

The brightest spot in the business picture is found in road building. Last week's awards of orders for 9,500 tons of reinforcing steel included 3,000 tons for road work. The builders of road making machinery are doing a record volume of business. This has been reflected in the operations of the Blaw-Knox Company. The stock of this organization reached a new high on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange yesterday in anticipation of a highly satisfactory earnings statement.

Steel Production Gains

THE OUTPUT of steel mills has shown a slight gain to about 80 per cent of capacity. A factor in this has been a moderate increase in automobile production. While further gains in steel demand are expected during the next few months the statements of earnings of most steel companies for the present quarter are not likely to be much better than those of the first quarter as a result of the weakness of prices.

While the makers of railroad equipment are being kept busy with orders placed several months ago there has been little new railroad business during recent weeks. The declines in car loadings and in railroad earnings have made the carriers somewhat hesitant about the purchase of new equipment.

Building Activity Light

THE DEPRESSION in building activity seems likely to be lasting. According to reports received by the Department of Labor and Industry from 42 Pennsylvania cities and boroughs the total of building and construction permits for March, 1930, was $11,738,871. This represents a decline of 40.7 per cent from March of last year when the total was $19,799,599.

Only 13 of the 42 cities and boroughs reporting to department showed gains. Pittsburgh reported building permits for 428 buildings with an estimated cost of $1,783,623, compared with 490 buildings costing $2,953,602 a year ago.

Money to Remain Low

BANKERS EXPECT money rates to remain at a low level during the summer. While this tends to grease the wheels of industry it has been very apparent recently that more than cheap money is necessary to create prosperity.

Contrary to the general impression, inventories are considerably higher at present than they were a year ago, the president of a Pittsburgh bank stated yesterday. The country is not suffering from any exceptionally heavy burden of surplus stocks but the recent depression has retarded the movement of inventories in some lines.

Collections are rather slow. This situation probably results from the hesitent tendency in buying in some lines.

Bonds Move Slowly

INVESTMENT SECURITIES have been coming into increased public demand since the beginning of the year but recently the market has been suffering from an over-supply. New issues have been placed on the market faster than bonds have been moving into investors' hands. There has been an accumulation of unsold securities on the shelves of investment houses and a few recent offerings have sold below the issue prices.

The taste for common stocks which was developed in 1928 and 1929 received a set back at the time of the break in the market last October but the public has by no means lost its appetite for equity securities. Brokers state that an enormous quantity of odd lots of stock have been bought for cash and put away. The increases in the number of stockholders in leading corporations has been a reflection of this.

1930 INDICATED AS FAIR YEAR FOR AUTOS

Demand Seen as Comparing Favorably With Annual Purchase Prior to 1929

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

(Copyright, 1930, Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, April 23.—Although 1930 obviously will not be a brilliant automobile year, the stimulus of spring has been demonstrating that the demand will compare favorably with that of years prior to 1929.

The decline in the clamor for motor cars, in part, results from the fact that the shortages accumulated during the absence of the Ford Motor Company from production during part of 1927 and 1928 have been fully made up. Nevertheless, the makers of low-priced cars expect to sell 90 per cent as many cars this year as last. This new adjustment in the automobile industry is temporary in character and has been a vital contributor to the general business recession. In a year or two rising demand will be resumed, but it is illogical to expect a repetition of the same rate of growth which has been experienced in the last seven years.

MAKES SURVEY

W. S. Knudsen, formerly a Ford production executive and now the chief competitor of Ford in his present role as president of the Chevrolet Motor Company, a division of General Motors, in a message to his column said:

"I wish to say that I have since January visited about half of the states in the Union, calling on dealers and observing the markets, especially in regard to spring developments. I expect to leave for the eastern and southeastern part, which will finish the circuit.

"My opinion is that the total market for 1930 will be 10 per cent off last year in our price class and that will be the best performance in the industry. Times like these naturally send business down into the lower price cars and I feel we are faring very well.

"I look upon our motor cars, both new and used, as being more of a tool of necessity for the man behind the wheel and that its leisure or luxury use is only incidental. The workingman's area of employment has been increased five times; in other words, when I was a workman the limit of radius of my working area was five miles, and today it is 25 miles. Consequently, a workman cannot afford to be without a car and our potential is well assured.

"The inherent desire of every owner of a car is to have the best he can afford, therefore, often he bought a new car on the strength of novelty rather than necessity. The industry generally was a little backward in dealing with the used car taken in trade and it fell upon evil days, became a surplus, a problem and, some say, a menace.

The main reason was that neither owner nor dealer, or you might say manufacturer, did his duty servicing the car, everyone was interested in getting it out of the way as quickly as possible."

HOPEFUL VIEW

Mr. Knudsen took the hopeful view that the industry had entered a new and sounder phase of dealing with the used car problem.

"This condition," the operating head of Chevrolet insisted, "has changed; service is improving, used cars taken in trade are being reconditioned, the business of dealing in and owning a motor car is being stabilized and getting respectable. Dealers are learning to trade fair, and, most important of all, getting to look at a motor car as a piece of equipment that should run and look well, even if it has a few thousand miles on the speedometer.

"The demand can be based on the total number of motor cars in the country rather than on how many were manufactured in any given year.

"Chevrolet's potential in the United States lies between a million and a million and a half cars. We sold last year, domestically, slightly over a million, 1,002,918 to be exact; the balance of 332,000 went to export and Canada.

"I do not believe we will show a material loss in domestic sales this year. Our sales to May 1 will show 225,000 cars, against 360,000 for the same period last year, and I look for a steady employment condition the country over for the balance of the year.

"The business of manufacturing and selling motor cars today is developing along sound lines. It includes modern appearance, comfort and performance in any price class, and the retaining of the customer's good will by giving him service which lengthens the life of his car rather than shortens it. The potential demand will take care of itself, for machinery will wear out and population will increase."

Giannini Interests Buy Food Shares

NEW YORK, April 24.—The Giannini banking interests have purchased a block of stock in General Foods Corporation, one of the largest holders of food companies in the world. In entering the food business they have followed the lead of J. P. Morgan and Company, which sponsored the formation of Standard Brands, Inc., General Food's greatest competitor.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 24.—Except for a few issues affected by special conditions, there was little life in the listed bond market today. Domestic obligations inclined to ease in the early trading, but sales of the best grade securities were extremely light.

NEW YORK, April 24.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Forbes

Sportsmanship Excellent Tonic for Prosperity.

By B. C. FORBES

WHEN THERE COMES a pause in this nation's forward march, such as experienced following the stock panic, it is well sometimes to take more than merely day-to-day views in order to get a clearer perspective, proper balance, reinforced confidence.

No sane man taking a look back can doubt that unprecedented prosperity lies ahead, that the achievements of yesterday and today will be eclipsed tomorrow, that this young nation has little more than begun to grow.

A business man's radio talk stirred these not untimely thoughts.

CERTAIN INDUSTRIES breed bigger, more magnanimous men than others. Perhaps the finest spirit of camaraderie of all prevails among America's motor giants. Here competitors almost always are close, first-name-basis friends. This admirable attitude was illustrated during the talk which served also to bring home the strides made by this country.

PRESIDENT FREDERICK J. HAYNES, former Dodge president and now head of Durant Motors, concluded a series of business radio talks by paying tribute to the auto industry's pioneers and its giants of today.

After referring to the horseless carriage built by Elwood Haynes in 1893, now in the Smithsonian Institute, in Washington, and after touching upon the contributions of Charles E. Duryea, the Stanley brothers and Ransom E. Olds, Haynes said:

"MR. OLDS ENJOYS a unique distinction. He is the only man, so far, to have two motor cars named for him—Oldsmobile and Reo. Olds, more than any other of the pioneers, focused serious public attention upon the automobile. He was the first to recognize the importance of the low-price market; and he captured it in 1903, when he built and sold 3,900 cars—more than double the production of any other manufacturer in that year.

"TWENTY-SEVEN YEARS ago an annual output of 3,900 vehicles was indeed a staggering total. You will easily understand, therefore, the smiles of derision that not long after greeted W. C. Durant, another of the industry's leaders, when he voiced this prophecy: 'Some day one million automobiles will be manufactured in a single year.' Mr. Durant has lived to see one of the companies he founded contributing substantially to a total production more than five times as great as he predicted."

HENRY FORD ONCE wanted Mr. Haynes to join his organization, but Haynes couldn't conceive that Ford could earn enough to pay him the salary offered! After extolling Ford's "benefactions to all mankind," and honorably mentioning H. H. Franklin and John Wilkenson, Mr. Haynes referred to Charles S. Mott and repeated this writer's description, years ago, of that motor leader:

"He is an example of a new type of citizen America is producing. This new type is the brainy, busy, successful business man, willing, while still in the very prime of life, to enter the stormy political arena and fill public office, giving up money-making pursuits."

Senator James Couzens was bracketed as a similarly public-spirited citizen.

THOSE "TWO MASTER BUILDERS," John and Horace Dodge, having been duly recognized, Mr. Haynes proceeded:

"In 1900 in Cleveland, the first car produced by Alexander Winton attracted the notice of a young salesman. 'Stop!' shouted the young salesman to the driver. 'Can't,' called back the driver, 'Might not get her going again.' This young bicycle salesman was recently named as our new envoy to Poland, John North Willys.

"THOSE WERE THE DAYS when the first question to be asked about any automobile was: 'Will it run?' The days when David Buick and the Packard Brothers were busy in their experimental workshops. When the Studebakers of South Bend were among the world's largest producers of horse-drawn vehicles, and when my friend, George Harrison Phelps, considered it a necessary precaution to post in his garage a large sign reading, 'All steamers must fire up outside.'"

COMING TO MORE modern motor giants, there were cited:

"Charles F. Kettering, whose talents and personality guide and animate the great General Motors research activities; Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of the General Motors Corporation; Walter P. Chrysler, who so ably leads the dynamic organization that bears his name; The Fisher Brothers, whose emblem, 'Bodies by Fisher,' has become a symbol of quality on vast numbers of automobile bodies; Charles W. Nash, one of the builders of General Motors and now the beloved and honored leader of a splendid institution of his own; Col. J. G. Vincent, for his contribution to the Great War, the Liberty Motor; Albert R. Erskine, on whose capable shoulders has fallen the mantle of those sturdy trail-blazers in motor transportation, the Studebakers; the three Graham Brothers, who have earned recognition among the leading automobile manufacturers.

"IN A NARROW commercial sense these men are our competitors," Mr. Haynes added, "but in their keen sense of sportsmanship and fair play they are true Americans every one."

If there were as fine sportsmanship in all other industries this country would have an even more glorious future.

ROADS EXPECT TRAFFIC RUSH

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 24.—Anticipating substantial increases in traffic, trunk line railroads serving the Mahoning Valley are improving roadbeds, overhauling locomotives and freight cars and calling in furloughed engineers, brakemen, firemen, telegraphers and clerks.

Pennsylvania, Erie, New York Central, Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and Baltimore and Ohio railroads report accelerated business the past few weeks, with further improvement in sight.

The rush is expected to begin early in May, when the coal and ore movement starts. Some coal is already moving toward the Lakes.

Consider California Crude Price Boost

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Strong indications are given in oil circles that leading buyers are considering an early advance in California crude oil prices.

The action is regarded as contingent on further reduction in the schedules of allowable oil production under the conservation program.

250 TANK CAR ORDER PLACED

SHARON, Pa., April 24.—The Standard Tank Car Company will soon start work on a 250-car order for the parent company, the General American Tank Car Company. The order is one of the largest booked at the local plant for some time and will keep the force of 450 men busy until August.

The Petroleum Iron Works Company is one of the firms bidding on a huge contract for storage tanks to be erected in Spain.

Coast Cab Company Suspends Dividends

SAN FRANCISCO, April 24.—Beginning with the dividend for April, 1930, the board of directors of the Yellow and Checker Cab Company have decided to defer dividends until the present readjustment period is ended.

The company has been paying monthly dividends of 33⅓ cents on the class "A" stock.

Jersey Standard Advances Fuel Oil

Effective as of April 22, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has advanced fuel oil 10 cents per barrel to $1.30 at Balboa and Cristobal, Canal Zone.

Jones & Laughlin Files Rate Protest

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 24.—The Jones and Laughlin Steel Company today filed a complaint with the Public Service Commission against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, alleging unjust and unreasonable increases in rate applicable to carload shipments of manufactured iron and steel articles from the company's steel mills to other points in the Pittsburgh district, effective May 20, 1930. The complainant also alleges that these rates are unduly and unreasonably prejudicial, preferential and advantageous to the complainant's competitors.

IT HAD TO STOP

35% to 40%* motor oil substitution shown by published report

SEALED-BOTTLE Tiolene

100% PURE PENNSYLVANIA OIL

now protects you

A radically new oil-dispensing method had to come

AUTHORITIES have shown that in some instances substitution of cheap, trashy oils—for best oils asked for—runs as high as 35% to 40% of all sales.

Now you can avoid any possibilities of playing into the hands of dealers who defraud under the guise of service.

A new method protects you

There is now an easy, certain way to be on your guard against motor oil substitution. Ask for Tiolene, in Sealed Bottles.

This 100% Super-Pennsylvania Motor Oil, made from the finest grade Pennsylvania crude, is now poured into your car from substitution-proof, sealed bottles. Every bottle is filled and sealed in Pure Oil Company's plants—and delivered sealed to your local station.

You see the seal of every bottle broken and destroyed. You drive away, feeling a security which motorists have never before enjoyed.

Don't be in doubt! Don't take chances! The penalty you pay for cheap oil substitution is far too costly.

Stop at a Pure Oil blue-and-white sign today. Say "Tiolene in Sealed Bottles." You get the oil that gives better protection for 1,000 miles than ordinary oils give for 500.

Dealers and service station salesmen who sell Tiolene want you to have this absolute protection against cheap-oil substitution.

TUNE IN on the Pure Oil Radio Hour every Tuesday night—8 to 8:30 Eastern time; 7 to 7:30 Central time—over 21 N. B. C. stations.

That seal is your protection against cheap oil substitution. Do not accept Bottled Tiolene if the seal has been broken or tampered with.

These percentages are conservative. Available to all who request it—the facts as given in the report of certified public accountants commissioned to investigate the marketing conditions of the oil industry over a two-year period. For your copy of these oil substitution facts, address: Pure Oil Company, Pure Oil Building, Chicago, Ill.*

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 24.—Continued liquidation flowed into the curb market today, although active speculation for the rise was again pressed forward in the utilities and oils. Price movements were again irregular and confusing. The market was distinctly heavy for a time during the morning, but displayed rallying tendencies by early afternoon.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

DAILY TRUE STORY

Sex Appeal

Miss Proctor was temperamental—to a certain degree. For example, when her big pansy eyes were dreamy and her expression that of a Mona Lisa, she called herself "Dolores."

But when those pansy eyes twinkled with merriment and her expression was somewhere between that of a cherub and a kewpie, and her little toes itched to dance, she became "Dolly" Proctor.

Miss Proctor was popular and had no end of boy friends, a great many of these giving serious thoughts to matrimony after they had been about with her for a while.

For whether Miss Proctor's mood was that of "Dolores" or of "Dolly," she always made a chap dream dreams of facing her across the breakfast table every morning.

She rather liked the looks of Dick Tucker, but he was so shy that she mentally catalogued him as a "dud." This was during one of those times when she was in her lively "Do 'y" mood.

Dick adored her the second time he saw her, but he could only answer in monosyllables to her many questions or remarks as they danced. Dick danced well, but a girl liked to enliven her dancing with nice cheerful chatter.

Before Dick went away for the summer he managed to tell Miss Proctor that he was crazy about her. He said it without gestures of any sort. By that it is to be understood that he sat motionless and told her. Miss Proctor expected such a statement to be made while strong arms held her—she expected the words to be breathed close to her ear, followed by the usual hug and kiss.

Dolly Not Interested

And so she said, "That's nice of you, Dick, only don't get too crazy."

Dick laughed in an embarrassed way and said that he wouldn't, which was just the thing he should not have said.

So Dick went away to some place. Miss Proctor didn't try to remember whether it was up in the Thousand Islands, Lake George or Bar Harbor. She wasn't interested.

It wasn't until the middle of the summer that Miss Proctor and her mother and married sister went up to Silver Lake in the White Mountains for "complete rest." It didn't appeal to her, the complete rest part, but when she found that there were two immense summer hotels amid the cottages, a dancing pavilion, canoes, diving floats and other things of that nature, with scores of possibly eligible young men, Miss Proctor approved of the place.

The very first forenoon that Miss Proctor went down to the diving float and climbed up, she winked the water out of her eyes, recognized the owner of the helping hand stretched out for her and exclaimed, "Well, for Pete's sake, it's Dick!"

It was Dick Tucker, all right. If he was a poor conversationalist and a flop as a petter, he was a success as a swimmer. He taught Miss Proctor four new dives and an under-water swimming trick that forenoon.

"How about canoeing this afternoon?" she asked.

"Sorry, but I'm unable to get away, Dolly," he said.

"And dancing this evening?"

"Tough luck, that's impossible tonight." Dick seemed embarrassed.

"All right, Dick. I have plenty of dates," Dolly lied, "and anyway I'll see you here tomorrow forenoon."

Dolly went home to the cottage wondering what Dick's dates could be. He sure never would make a hit at petting or anything like that.

It was that afternoon, at the dancing pavilion that Miss Proctor's married sister nodded to a rather distinguished young man who came over. The sister introduced him to Dolly.

"This is Mr. Smith, Dolly," she said.

"I've heard the name before somewhere," Dolly said, flippantly.

Mr. Smith bowed gravely. Dolly liked his serious gray eyes and even his flowing Windsor tie and rather long wavy hair.

Talks While Dancing

"The name is Lowell Holmes Smith, Miss Proctor," he said.

"Oh, yes, I'd forgotten," Dolly's undiplomatic sister said. "Mr. Smith is a poet."

Young Mr. Smith bowed gravely. He explained that he had known Dolly's brother-in-law for some years. He politely invited her to dance. He didn't dance very well, but he talked—how he talked—of the beauty of rhythm, of the grace of this and the glory of that—he talked incessantly and asked Dolly a lot of questions about poets and poetry, present-day and Victorian. Dolly didn't know any of the answers.

But she ran across him again after dinner at the Silver Lake House, where her people had been the dinner guests of friends.

Mr. Lowell Holmes Smith promptly led Dolly down the walk to the landing where they sat on a bench and watched the moon rise over the lake.

"Golden path from shore to moon—
Golden path that fades too soon."

"Indeed?" Dolly said, politely. She was wondering how a path could "fade."

"A couplet from my poem, 'Gold in Nature.' It was published in the Monthly Pegasus," he explained.

"Oh, you have your poems published, Mr. Smith?"

He did, and how—according to his explanation.

He tossed his perfumed cigaret into the lake and turned to her.

"Miss Proctor," he said, "your rare beauty is amazing—the way you sit here and watch those ebon shadows makes me certain that you should have been named Dolores."

"That's really my name," Miss Proctor said, quickly.

I knew, I felt I could this very moment write an undying sonnet to your lovely eyes—they are like deep iris in this light."

Miss Proctor snuggled nearer to him. She had liked to be called "pansy eyes," and she had been called that many a time, but the iris was more beautiful and poetic—here was a young man a real poet, who understood beauty—her beauty.

Like the Dawn

He told her a great deal more—he held her hand and quoted something about "Pale hands beside the—" Dolly couldn't remember what it was, but he said her hands were perfect poems.

"I know that the dawn will come up tomorrow no more delicate and rosy than your velvety cheeks, Dolores," Mr. Lowell Holmes Smith said.

There was music from the hotel ballroom. Miss Proctor had a struggle. The "Dolly" temperament wanted her to hop up and dance. The "Dolores" temperament urged her to snuggle to this young poet and listen to his rhapsodies in "mush," although Dolly wouldn't believe them to be mush right then.

"I suppose we ought to float about to the dreamy waltz, Dolores," he said.

He put his arm about her.

"A kiss he murmured, "a kiss upon your brow,
And that were Paradise enow."

"Something I just composed, Dolores," he said.

They had arrived just as one of the few waltzes of the evening was being played. Miss Proctor didn't care for waltzes especially. Her poet friend seemed to undulate rather too much, she was thinking. They danced around in front of the orchestra, Miss Proctor "felt" someone looking at her. You know how that is, sometimes. She stared at the orchestra and there sat Dick Tucker—he was playing a saxophone! The dreamy waltz rhythm fairly oozed from his instrument. Miss Proctor was very much surprised, but she nodded brightly.

So that was it! Dick Tucker wasn't a wealthy summer vacationist at all. He was just a poor little cheap musician!

Lowell Holmes Smith danced with her. So did five other young men she had met. But Lowell Holmes Smith walked over to the cottage with her, quoting poetry, mostly his own.

Only twice did she meet Dick at the float and then she was merely coldly pleasant with him. Her temperament wasn't the sort that let her lose her head over a poor sax player.

'Going Home Blues'

Dick Tucker would always look reproachfully at Miss Proctor when she danced past him with this one or that one, "this one" usually being Mr. Lowell Holmes Smith.

There was a "mike" used at this hotel and the orchestra music was broadcasted. Miss Proctor sat one evening, not knowing whether she was Dolly or Dolores, and listened to the announcement that Mr. Richard Tucker would render a saxophone solo.

He did, and it was a corker. It was called "Going Home Blues."

After he finished the announcer said that he had neglected to explain that this had been composed by Mr. Tucker and was to be the theme song in the coming mammoth talkie in which Douglas Barrymore and Mary Garbo would star.

Miss Proctor was interested.

Perhaps Lowell Holmes Smith feared that she was interested, for he made slurring remarks about jazz in general and saxophone players in particular.

Not long after this Dick Tucker showed up at Miss Proctor's cottage. He insisted that she got to dinner with him up at the Profile House. She rode up in his car and he drove it himself. They danced a little and went out on Echo Lake in a canoe. He had the queer looking case with him. They landed under some pines. Dick got out the sax. They sat on the bank. He played a little, then he crooned a song about "There's Nella and Stella and Molly and Polly, but no one on earth is as jolly as Dolly."

Then he played it—moaned it through the sax. Then he put down the sax and grabbed Dolly.

"Baby," he said, "I can't keep away from you any longer. I'm crazy about you. I'm going to have you."

"Why, Dick—why—"

Dick was kissing her and he wasn't murmuring any poetry at the time, but attending strictly to his kissing.

"I told my orchestra leader to get another sax player from now on—"

"What's that, Dick?"

"Oh, I have eight orchestras playing around. I've got to go to the coast to do some theme songs, and I'm going to take you with me."

"Oh, Dick!"

"Don't refuse. We'll be married right away. Say 'yes,' or I'll play some blue notes—"

"I'll say 'yes!'" Dolly Proctor said. "I can't help it, you have such sax appeal!"

ROMANCE OF THE BUSINESS WORLD

TEN WEEKS ago Albatros B. Bathcabinet stepped on rusty nail and was forced to rent a pair of crutches. By a careful check, he discovered that crutches save shoe leather. He immediately established a crutch rental business of his own, and is locating branches at every prominent street intersection. A national campaign will be launched to make America crutch-conscious and save shoe leather. Albatros hopes to have the entire nation on crutches within six months, and figures the rentals (at $1.25 a week, per person) will give him an annual gross income of $6,500 per capita. As there are more than 125,000,000 people in this country you can figure out for yourself what the possibilities are.

New District Attorney Appears Wise Choice

The election of Andrew T. Park as district attorney by the Common Pleas bench is a development that apparently satisfies the public. His record as assistant prosecutor has been good.

Today Park faces the crisis. He must decide whether to be a faithful prosecutor or a tool of the politicians. In the past he has shown that he is capable of a fine contempt for the political racketeers who would make of the district attorney's office a fixing station. But his importance is greater now and he will be approached more often by the racketeers.

He is young and regarded as capable. In his statement of acceptance he described his office as a sacred stewardship. He will be watched closely by good citizens as well as by ward politicians.

The Sun-Telegraph congratulates him and warns him of the dangers ahead.

So far as the public knows, Park takes up the duties of what is perhaps the most important public office in the county untrammeled by any political strings. Therefore the public will look for a vigorous administration of his office. Matters that have been under his charge as an assistant in the office have been conducted with diligence that assures that all of the many things that have caused criticism in the past have not been due to HIS inactivity or laxness.

Should he go ahead as he has been doing, seeking only to do his duty to the public, unmindful of whose political toes are stepped upon, it is certain that he will add to the record of achievement already his.

Beginning with the unanimous confidence of the court, he already stands upon firm ground. The public will look for him to maintain that position.

Fire Menace Is Constant In Crowded Institutions

A report that should be the cause of much public concern is that nearby state institutions are overcrowded, as well as one operated by Allegheny County. This is said to be of such an extent that it constitutes an extreme fire hazard. The implication is that we are inviting a horror such as that which occurred in Columbus.

Dixmont Hospital, the Morganza Training School and the Polk School, all in Western Pennsylvania, are reported as having more inmates than can be accommodated properly, and a similar condition is said to prevail at the County Hospital at Woodville. The excess at Dixmont is given at 187; Morganza, 210; Polk, 970, with a waiting list of 625 applicants; Allegheny County Hospital, 188. Although these figures are from a report that takes no account of some completed improvements, it is claimed that they have remedied the situation only slightly.

Two penal institutions, Western Penitentiary, with an excess of 208 prisoners; and Huntingdon Reformatory, with an excess of 260, are among the overcrowded ones, according to latest official reports.

Some time ago bond issues for institutional expansion were voted down, largely, we assume, because it was reported funds of the state were sufficient for the purpose without resorting to extraordinary financing. If that is the case, it is high time some of the money be spent to relieve the pressure on these places where wards of the state are shown, by the Ohio holocaust, to be in constant danger of their lives.

Enlightening the World

From an Attic.

Americans in Paris this summer will see an odd sight in the Place Vendome, an attic without a building beneath it. It is six stories up. And it is occupied.

The tenant, one Jules Lespiaut, has a three-year lease. The owners decided to tear down the structure of which it was once the top story, but M. Lespiaut refused to go. So there was nothing to do but remove the other five floors and leave the scaffolding, also a staircase by which Jules can ascend and descend as the mood takes him.

We admire Jules. He is refreshing. In an age in which the individual is rapidly becoming a rubber stamp—a mere cog in the machine—he sticks out like a sore thumb or a Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World.

In fact, Jules in his attic seems a more appropriate symbol of freedom than the ponderous bronze female on Bedloe's Island. That merely rests on rock. Jules, from his precarious perch, is on a far firmer foundation—that of the unconquerable human spirit. He personifies the right of man to live his own life in his own way, without dictation from anybody.

Vive Jules! And vive his attic! It's a pity we can't have them both here. They would be a lesson—and a badly needed lesson—in this "land of the free," as it is sometimes humorously called.

Submarines

We Need Them Even Here.

Thanks to France and Japan's knowing what they want and not afraid to mention it, the foolish suggestion to abandon the submarine was discarded at the London conference.

When, and if war comes, anything written at the conference will be only a scrap of paper in any case.

Anybody planning war would proceed at once with submarine building, airplane building, poison gas manufacture.

War is murder; murder is not bound by agreements.

Why should this country give up anything that might contribute to its safety?

We are not going to attack ANYBODY, but we should be ready to REPEL attack.

8—Development of river transportation.
9—Development of air transportation.

Spruce Up and Step Out

Discard the heavy Winter glooms,
You've worn those duds too long.
The ash can is the place for them
The cast off things among.

Spruce up in the cheerful raiment new
And do not be afraid
To step out now and help to start
Prosperity's parade!

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Bright College Days

Our younger set of students are getting ready to promote themselves out of college.

Of all the interesting collegiate ceremonies we recommend the annual daisy chain at Vassar. This horticultural ritual is educational as well as amusing.

"Bugs" Baer

The beautiful seniors chin themselves on a chain of daisies. This teaches self-reliance, initiative and economy.

The bowl rush at Pennsylvania has taken on a new and hopeful significance since the poll of the Literary Digest. The bowl is placed in the center of the field and the seniors rush toward it. They tear off each other's clothing, vests and spats.

If you have never been tapped for the skull and keys at Yale then you do not realize the thought than can be contained in a lump on the skull.

The candidate for the skull and keys walks down a shady lane with his hat off. If he wakes up in a hospital he knows that he has been accepted.

Columbia has a cane rush that is reminiscent of the finer things of life. Two thousand alert students spend an instructive afternoon slugging each other around a 40-acre lot.

The score is added up in broken noses, sprained ankles and black eyes. A college student doesn't care what happens to him so long as he gets it free.

There is not much excitement in the button orchard at West Point. And our other fighters at Annapolis graduate like perfect ladies.

It's only at peaceful factories like Princeton, Harvard and Ohio that the students think their first diploma should be for second-degree homicide.

Most of this competitive animosity hinges back to some obscure legend in college history. And while the art of making bricks without straw has been lost with the science of transmuting gold, the students still preserve the art of punching one another in the nose without a reason.

This final outburst of vigorous calisthenics may be due to the fact that the student is spending his last day at his old man's expense. We have always admired the way a college student opens a letter from his dad.

First he scissors it gently in order to avoid injuring the possible contents. Then he turns it upside down and shakes it.

If nothing green drops out he doesn't read it.

PRINCIPLES OF GLIDING

By Archibald Henderson

A glider is an airplane without a motor, which utilizes rising currents of air to remain aloft. They are of three types. The first type, with no enclosed fuselage, has merely a wing and tail surface, with suspended undercarriage and landing skids or wheels. The pilot, who sits well forward, strapped to a bench, has the usual rudder bar and stick. The second type differs from the former chiefly in having a cockpit type of body, which holds the pilot. The third type has greater wing spread than the other types and is considerably lighter than either. This third type is known as the sailplane.

It is little short of miraculous, this flight through the air without any propulsive power of motor and propeller, or flapping wings, as in the case of a bird. The initial problem of launching is solved in several ways. Airplanes or automobiles rapidly tow the gliders and launch them into the air, just as the running boy launches the box kite. Motor boats are used to launch into the air gliders with pontoons.

The most customary and approved method of launching is by means of a catapult. Ropes of elastic material, called rubber shock cords, are attached to an open hook in the glider's nose.

A group of men hold the glider down at the rear; and two other groups of men, three or four on each side, move forward and outward until the elastic cords are stretched in the shape of a huge V. At the signal from the pilot, the glider is released by the men at the rear, the two groups of launchers run forward and the glider is literally flung into the air like a missile from a small boy's sling-shot.

Sail-flying depends upon energy picked out from the air, since it has no source of energy within itself. One must not dive the glider to pick up speed. All the energy is derived from air currents. The atmosphere is full of these currents, flowing in all directions. Everything depends upon utilizing rising currents of air. On the windward side of a hill are found rising currents of air; also where air is heated above a hot field or desert. Upward currents are also found on the under sides of masses of cumulus clouds.

The pilot must accustom himself to taking advantage of all such rising currents of air. The best conditions for soaring, or ascending in a sailplane, are found around cliffs, hills and bluffs which lie at right angles to the prevailing wind. As the glider rises up the windward side of the hill, the ascending air current compensates or more than compensates for the glider's gravitational loss in altitude, depending upon the strength of the ascending current. The glider may soar to the crest of the hill, but once it passes the crest of the hill it begins to lose altitude on the lee side.

With a wind passing up over a line of hills, the glider can make soaring flights up and down their entire length. It is necessary to know the gliding angle of the motorless craft. If the gliding angle is 15 to 1, the glider must be lifted by the ascending air current one foot while it moves forward 15 feet. A stronger air current will then enable the glider to soar.

In passing over green fields, forests and bodies of water, the air is cooler than elsewhere and so air currents descend. The pilot must accustom himself to utilize all rising air currents and to avoid falling air currents.

Remarkable flights are sometimes made through taking advantage of cloud masses. The pilot must dive out of the upward current below one cloud in order to reach another like current, zooming up again with this upwardly buoyant force.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

We'll never get anywhere, we women, until men stop taking off their hats to us and making excuses for us, and otherwise acting chivalrous.

Sentimental tradition to the contrary, chivalry wasn't founded on real respect for women. It was founded on a pressing need to keep the girls pacified while the boys ran the show. So somebody invented chivalry. Stuck the ladies up on pedestals and told them they were Finer Clay 'n' Guiding Stars. Which line, the ladies naturally ate right up. While the boys had a perfectly gorgeous time rigging themselves up in trick tin pants and strutting their stuff at jousts.

Which was all very well when knighthood was in flower, but now that we've cut out those parlor games and gotten down to regular business, this chivalry bunk is having serious consequences. For the girls now have climbed down from their pedestals and have rackets of their own—and should act regular. But, instead, they still believe that ancient line of hooey and demand all its privileges and prerogatives. They still want to be protected like clinging vines and yet insist upon their right of busting you one in the brisket, brother, and you're no gentleman if you swing a comeback.

However, I'm shedding no tears over you, John Henry. If you're sap enough to stand for it, you have it coming to you. But I do maintain that this present scrambled state of affairs is Bad Business for women themselves. For it's turning the sex into a cross between a chow and a police dog, with all the worst attributes of both.

For instance, consider the divorce situation. According to the records, practically all divorces are granted to the wives and these wives are invariably the pitiful victims of man's brutality. But, actually, nothing could be further from the truth. In marriage, as in every other form of human behavior, the papa of the species has nothing on the old lady when it comes to cussedness. There are just as many unfaithful, cruel, dishonest, slovenly, extravagant wives as husbands. But chivalry forbids that these matters be mentioned in a divorce court.

Chivalry decrees that a man must always take the blame regardless of the lady's offense. Which was probably fair enough in the good old days when papa could kill mama after he'd made his pretty gesture. But what happens now? This happens. Papa not only makes the gesture, but has to go on paying alimony and taking the rap as if he'd really meant it! And increasing numbers of worthless vixens are given undisputed custody of helpless children—just because papa and society are afraid to call the lady's bluff.

This, though they don't realize it yet, comes back like a boomerang on women themselves. For as long as this idiotic procedure persists, they will continue to be known as the unfair sex—by the very boys who helped them get that way. And be scorned accordingly.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

There was a jealous woman that could take care of herself and her husband too. She was always getting into a fight with some woman that she thought was trying to steal her man. And she was always making kinda catty remarks about all the women her husband knew.

One day she visited her husband's office while he was on a trip. When she come home she found her husband had just got back from his trip.

"That new secretary of yours is certainly a washout," she says.

"Yeah?" he says. "Why, I never noticed. I thought she had a kind of a pretty face."

"Uh-huh, maybe she had, but she ain't any more. I had a little misunderstanding with her this afternoon at the office."

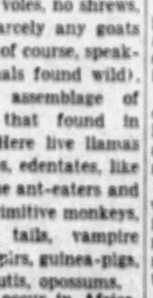
THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

Sec. 3. The Distribution of Living Things.

Everybody knows that different animals come from different countries — the Platypus from Australia and Tasmania, the zebra from Africa, the marmoset from South America, the musk ox from Greenland and Arctic Canada, and so on; and the same is, of course, true of plants.



H. G. Wells

But it is not always grasped that different regions differ in respect of whole groups of their animal and plant inhabitants. Contrast the three southern continents: Africa south of the Sahara (that sea of sand which is as much a barrier to life as any sea of water), South America and Australia.

All comprise both temperate and tropical regions; all have their mountains, forests and open plains. But their animal populations are extremely unlike.

If, for the sake of brevity, we restrict ourselves to the mammal population, we find that Africa is characterized by an abundance of antelopes of many kinds, rhinoceroses, giraffes, elephants, leopards, baboons and buffaloes, and, in the rain-forests, by gorillas and chimpanzees, okapi and many kinds of monkeys.

Farther south the coneys, or hyraxes, and the extraordinary aardvarks are very characteristic. The whole giraffe family, with both giraffe and okapi, is found in no other region nor is the aardvark family.

Just as characteristic as the presences are the absences.

There are no deer, no beavers, no fieldmice, nor voles, no shrews, no bears and scarcely any goats or sheep (we are, of course, speaking only of animals found wild).

Contrast this assemblage of mammals with that found in South America. Here live llamas and their relatives, edentates, like the sloths, the true ant-eaters and the armadillos, primitive monkeys, with prehensile tails, vampire bats, peccaries, tapirs, guinea-pigs, vizachas and agoutis, opossums.

None of these occur in Africa, and most of them are either wholly restricted to South America, or at the most penetrate a little way into Central or North America. The whole order of the true edentates is confined to this region.

Finally Australia (with which for our present purpose we must include the neighboring islands of Tasmania and New Guinea) is more peculiar still. Before the advent of white men it contained none of the higher placental mammals whatever, with the exception of bats, whose wings, of course, give them facilities for spreading denied to mere land form, a few ubiquitous mice and the dingo dog, both probably introduced by the early human immigrants to the country.

But, by way of compensation, Australia possessed a unique menagerie (now, alas, rapidly dwindling, with many species in danger of extermination if protective measures are not introduced) of the two lower subclasses of mammals, the pouched marsupials and the egg-laying monotremes.

In point of fact, no egg-laying mammals occur outside this area and no marsupials, except the American group of opossums and one curious little creature called Caenolestes, with teeth in some way recalling those of the kangaroos from South America.

All the rest are Australian—kangaroos and wallabys, cuscuses and phalangers, wombats and bandicoots, marsupial wolf and Tasmanian devil, pouched anteaters and pouched moles and pouched mice—some forty genera, with hundreds of species.

Add to this the platipus and its egg-laying confreres, the spiny anteaters, and you have indeed a strange zoo.

Now, it might naturally be supposed, and in the past often was assumed, that each species and each group lived in the region best suited to it.

But such is, demonstrably and obviously, not the case. New Zealand has no native mammals save a bat or two, and yet introduced mammals thrive and multiply.

Rabbits, for instance, have run wild over large areas, and red deer, introduced from Scotland, have not only thriven but have grown much larger than they ever do in their own native land.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 24.—With wealth there comes to many middle-aged women in New York stark loneliness that makes success a mockery. Their husbands are luminous men of large affairs who have reached the Dangerous Age and kicked off fireside slippers for patent leather pomps and a fling in jazz parlors.

Such wives have no come-back. Too decent to "play around" themselves, they find relief in petty domestic duties. Their children are usually married and have their own interests. Divorce offers no relief. Their security lies in uncomplaining submission.

Hundreds live in magnificent mansions, filled with trained servants. They have limousines, clothes, charge accounts and may travel to any part of the world. But the one thing they crave above all else is companionship. And that is denied them.

The cloistered life exacts its quick toll. In a brief period they are changed from joyous, happy women to graying sad-eyed Niobes—remote, silent and self-effacing. They are disheartening evidence of the ancient enslavement of women by convention. An expert can tell them at a glance.

At almost every matinee of a play presenting a distressing domestic theme they will be found. They go to morning lectures, Sunday afternoon concerts, new art exhibits and other elevating events for gentle folk—but always alone and with the isolated piety of a saint.

When red scandal and "Love Nest" headlines arrive—as they usually do—these women rise quickly to defend mates who dishonored them. And what is left of their lives is often devoted to carrying out their sacred obligation of the marriage pact in resigned martyrdom.

Every night the dance goes on! Straying spouses pack the Broadway haunts. Kitten-eyed cuties are proving again there is no dunce in the world like an old fool in a paper cap. And in innumerable homes as many anxious and deeply devoted women await steps they will not hear.

Broadway is Hollywood conscious. A big new popular-priced restaurant is named for the film capital. Ten plays this winter dealt with Hollywood life and the biggest talkie sign of the year blazing on Broadway heralded "The Hollywood Revue." Warner's newest and biggest Broadway cinema temple is "The Hollywood." A cabaret features "20 red-haired Hollywood home wreckers." A chop suey caravansary is Hollywood named. And there are hat shops, shoe stores, beauty parlors and a gymnasium in Times Square areas which pay similar tribute.

I am one of the nit-wits dancing through life with an elfin gaiety who laughed, ho, ho, at a chance 15 years ago to buy a corner lot for $650 with small monthly payments in what is now Hollywood. It sold recently for $92,800.

Bootleggers extraordinary now have "contact men" who do not attempt sales. Their job is to preserve the entente cordiale with customers. From time to time they call up and inquire about business, the health of the family and so on.

If it sounds snooty, it is so intended. Familiarity with bootleggers is American decadence at its worst. Their job stamps them as criminals. Rascals who sell you poison with a smile have a colossal crust to call up and inquire the state of your health and that of your family.

From a news item: "He has been employed as an interior decorator but resigned recently and has been seen frequently at the croquet matches in Central Park."

Just an old tom-boy.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

There is everything in not acknowledging yourself beaten.

Have faith in your coming up on the right side at the last.

Blaze your way ahead and keep going.

Don't rush ahead precipitately when uncertain, but keep your eyes to the front and advance cautiously.

But anyway push on, edging in here and twisting around there, but keep your eyes in the right direction all the time.

Don't waste time looking around.

Do the duty that lies next as fast as you know it but keep in mind the goal you desire.

Then things begin to work toward that end.

A steadfast heart and purpose win out against great odds sometimes.

Every one has spells of not knowing which way to turn.

The more relaxed and sure you feel of a way opening to advance your plans the sooner you will see the door to the solving of your problems.

Faith in the future—earnest consistent effort in the present are needed to accomplish best results in any line.
